NOTE TELLS OF GIRL'S SUICIDE

John Iselin Receives Letter Which Says That His Daughter Shot Herself

16-Year-Old Alice Iselin Has Been Missing From Home Since Sunday

LACONICALLY announcing the death by suicide of Miss Alice Iselin, 16 years of age, a letter was received today by John Iselin, father of the girl, and has been turned over to the police. The father, who lives at 1706 Liese avenue, has been seeking his daughter since last Sunday, and he fears that the strange message received may be the truth.

Captain of Inspectors Lou F. Agnew has detailed Inspectors St. Clair Hodgkins and Thomas Wood to investigate the case. The police believe that the girl may have run away and that she may have sent the brutal letter to her father to throw him off the trail, or that the letter may have been written by somebody as a crude attempt at a practical joke.

AWAY FROM HOME.

Iselin explained to the police that his daughter had been working for a Mrs. Harrison, who lived in East Eighteenth street, and that until last Sunday she had been in the habit of returning home every night. He did not report the disappearance of his daughter until today, as he learned that Mrs. Harrison had moved to Piedmont and he thought that the girl was probably staying with her in the new home.

The strange missive received by Iselin today was signed "Mrs. J. Harrison" and gives what purports to be an account of the girl's death. It invites the father to attend the funeral of his laughter.

"Your daughter Alice has shot herself and died a few minutes afterwards," the letter reads. It is misspelled in many places, and indicates that it was written by an illiterate person The father

AUTO BUCKS; SO DOES DOOLEY

With Every Tire Punctured, He Acquires Feeling a la H. H. Hart

BERKELEY, Jan. 18.—E. T. Dooley, local photographer, may not be exactly a millionaire, but he has all the high Olympian ire of one when it comes to bucking automobiles. He may not, like millionaire H. H. Hart of Claremont, run his car into the bay when it won't work, but he came mighty near that escapade yesterday by selling on the apron of a ferryboat from San Francisco his $2200 machine for $125.

Dooley took his car to San Francisco for a spin yesterday It was raining The car was on its worst possible behavior. It proved this by acquiring, while Dooley was trying to get back to the ferry, four wrecked inner tubes, five punctures and two ruined outer tubes. The farther Dooley got the more that auto went to pieces, after the manner almost of the one-hoss shay. He got her aboard the ferry boat only to find a four-edged spike stuck into a tire he had just repaired:

"That's enough," he exclaimed. "Anybody who wants this machine may have it for $125."

AND IT IS SOLD.

"I'll buy it," said G A. Boutnillier of the Harrison Garage, Oakland, and he pulled out his check book. But he had only a balance of $122 50 in the bank. So he made out check for that amount, added $2.50 in cash, handed it to Dooley, fixed the tire, and when the boat landed, drove his new possession to his garage.

DOOLEY SAYS TODAY.

Never again shall I buy, own, drive or ride in an automobile. This $125 will give me 2500 street car rides, and I know I'll get there. This machine cost me $2200 to buy and about five times that much in trouble and repairs.

"I am the happiest man in the world to be rid of it and if I could not have sold it, I would have done the Hart stunt with it and thrown it into the bay."

This is not the first occasion when Dooley has shown his ability to treat an unruly auto with the proper fighting spirit In another car he was coming up to Oakland along the Haywards road when the engine decided of a sudden to quit. Despite Dooley's tinkering it stayed "quit." In desperation he finally

GUNS ARE OUT FOR RECALL

Assemblyman Smith Would Make Recall Petition More Difficult to Obtain

Plans to Increase Percentage of Signatures From 12 to 35

(Special Correspondence to THE TRIBUNE.)

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 18.—With the idea of creating a more sacred regard for the privileges of the initiative, referendum and recall and to prevent a small discontented element, representing only a meager percentage of the voters, from foisting an expensive election upon a municipality or other community, Assemblyman Frank M. Smith of Oakland introduced a constitutional amendment in the Assembly yesterday providing for heavy increases in the number of petitioners necessary to call for a popular vote under any of the three electoral rights.

It is generally understood that Assemblyman Smith's action is the outgrowth of the recent attempt on the part of Socialists of Oakland to recall Mayor Mott—an attempt that cost the city of Oakland a vast amount and was not participated in generally by the voters.

It is the opinion of Assemblyman Smith that the ease with which the initiative, referendum and recall can be resorted to has resulted in annulling a proper respect for the privilege of direct government provided by the statute, and has opened the way for political malcontents to create disorder and disrupt government at the expense of the people.

AVERAGE IS SMALL.

On the average not more than 70 per cent of the voters have participated in an initiative, referendum or recall election, and it is the general opinion that the amount only reaches this total through the fact that voters are compelled to recognize the election and cast their ballots as a matter of self-protection or political preservation.

TROUSSEAU LIMIT IS $1000

HELEN GOULD WILL ECONOMIZE

MISS HELEN GOULD, WHO HAS LIMITED THE COST OF HER WEDDING TROUSSEAU TO $1000.

Unlike Many Other Brides of Wealth She Will Not Make Clothes Display

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Although she is one of the richest women in America, Helen Miller Gould will confine the expense of her wedding trousseau to within $1000. The latter figure was that set by Madeline Force, now the widow of Colonel John Jacob Astor, when she was married and it was a shock to Fifth avenue modistes. Many wealthy brides have spent ten or twenty times this. When Miss Gould marries Finley J. Shepard at her Tarrytown home next Wednesday she will be gowned in ivory white, with satin and rose point lace trimmings, with a court train and a rose point veil. Miss Gould's favorite colors are purple and gray and most of her trousseau is made up of these colors.

WESTERN PACIFIC TRACK IS BURIED

Schedule of the Gould Road Is Demoralized by Great Drifts This Side of Portola; Progress Slow in Restoring Traffic

Terrific Winds Are Reported From Sacramento Valley; Southern Pacific Plows Keep Rails in Good Condition in Sierra

BAY CITIES ARE PROMISED SUNSHINE SOON

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—The squall that has sent showers over Central California during the week has moved eastward and Professor McAdie of the Weather Bureau has promised sunshine after today. For the last twenty-four hours the rainfall has been .22 of an inch. The rainfall is now an inch below the normal seasonal fall. At Eureka the fall has been above normal and at Red Bluff the gauge shows the usual mark.

Snow is still falling heavily in the mountains and there is ten feet at Summit, twice as much as was there at this time last year. The storage of snow insures a plentiful power and water supply, and no worrying is necessary.

WESTERN PACIFIC SUFFERS.

Snowslides, drifts and broken wires demoralized the Western Pacific schedule. Train 1, known as the Panama-Pacific Express, was stalled near Portola since Thursday afternoon, being released yesterday and trailing into Oakland early this morning, more than thirty hours late. Behind her trailed No. 1 due here last night.

TRAIN IS BURIED.

Western Pacific's No. 1, due here at 9 o'clock Thursday night, passed Portola, which is about 310 miles from here, Thursday afternoon almost on time. It was snowing hard and blowing hard, but the crew was confident it could buck the drifts.

Less than an hour later No. 1 was stalled hopelessly in the snow, and the Western Pacific through line was closed for 24 hours, having been cleared yesterday afternoon.

When No. 1 failed to report at the station below Portola one of the big rotaries was sent to her rescue. Whirling snow into the air, the plow fought its way along a buried track until it finally reached the snowbound passenger train and took her back to Portola. The passengers were kept as comfortable as possible under the circumstances, and the rotary sent out to aid the push plows that were already moving ton after ton of snow from the rail path, only to return and find the track covered as deep as before. At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the plows succeeded in opening the line and the release for No. 1 was given. With a rotary plow guiding the way the train gradually passed the last blockade point and proceeded slowly. Traffic officials, seeing that the train could not reach here at midnight, directed that the passengers keep their berths till morning and directed the crew not to bring in the belated express until about 5 o'clock this morning.

ORDERED TO RUN SLOW.

All Western Pacific passenger train crews were ordered to proceed slowly through the storm region, owing to danger of slides.

The Southern Pacific dispatches received last night indicated that despite the storm, so effective had the work of the plows been, that the eastbound Overland Limited reached Sparks only 15 minutes late. Other trains, however, varied from schedule from one hour upwards. It was said that if snow continued this morning the company would be up against a difficult proposition in keeping the line open. No efforts are being made to put through anything save passenger and stock trains on either of the railroads.

The following dispatch was received from Reno last night: "In spite of one of the severest storms since 1911, trains on the Southern Pacific over the Sierra are running reasonably close to schedule."

WIRES ARE DOWN.

The wires are all down east of Sacramento and while a large force of men are out looking for the

Balks at His Name On Her Tombstone

CHILICOTHE, Mo., Jan. 18.—Mrs. Edna Sibert, aged 70, was granted a divorce from Henry Sibert, aged 78, on a plea of non-support and a contention that she "did not want his name on her tombstone." D. Fleming Must Serve 10-Year Prison Sentence

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 18.—Daniel Fleming, former railroad policeman, convicted on the charge of manslaughter following the death of George Vallier, must serve out his term of 10 years in the state prison, according to an opinion written by Justice Burnett and handed down in the Third District Court of Appeals today. The decision upholds the lower court. From the evidence before the court it appears that Henry Golden and George Vallier, boys, started from their homes in Tacoma to beat their way to San Francisco. On the evening of August 25, 1910, they boarded a passenger train at Delta, climbing on top of the car. When the train stopped at Redding the boys had to be helped down and Vallier was taken to a hospital, where he died three hours later. An autopsy showed that Vallier's death was due to wounds on the right and left sides of his forehead. Fleming, who was special policeman on the train, was charged with beating up the youth and causing the injuries which resulted in his death.

Mother Rushes Through Flames; Saves Children

BERKELEY, Jan. 18.—Rushing through a wall of flame that sprang from the oil soaked carpet in a room in her home, Mrs. E. M. McGowan snatched her two sleeping infants from their bed in an adjoining room today and carried them to safety. Then, painfully burned, Mrs. McGowan submitted to treatment by a physician while the fire department was extinguishing the blaze at 1541 Grant street.

Mrs. McGowan's skirts had caught on an oil stove, overturning it. The oil ran in every direction and in a moment the whole room was ablaze. Mrs. McGowan seized her husband's overcoat from a chair and attempted to extinguish the flames therewith. Failing in this, she started for the front door to give the alarm when remembrance came to her of her two children. Despite the fact that she was already painfully burned about the hands and forearms, Mrs. McGowan darted back through the flames, caught the children up in her arms and ran from the house. On the sidewalk neighbors took care of her children and summoned the fire department. The flames were extinguished by the department.

TWO PERISH IN SLIDE OF SNOW

Balky Horse Causes Men to Be Caught; Animal Escapes Unhurt

DELTA, Cal., Jan. 18.—Belated word reached here today of the death Tuesday night of Edward C. Treadwell, superintendent of the Trinity Bonanza mine, owned by the Treadwell brothers of San Francisco, Alaska pioneers and discoverers of the famous Treadwell mine, now operated by the Alaska Treadwell Gold Mining Company. He was buried alive in a snowslide while trying to stable a balky horse.

Edward Treadwell was a son of Jas. Treadwell, formerly one of the directors of the failed California Safe Deposit and Trust Company, which still holds promissory notes given by John Treadwell, the other brother, aggregating $1,028,426. Edward Treadwell was 38 years old.

No attempt has been made to recover the bodies of Treadwell and Dave Williams, who met death at the same time, fresh slides at the same spot being feared.

The Trinity Bonanza mine is near Trinity Centre, with which communication has been severed until today by heavy snows.

HORSE BALKS.

Tuesday night at 8 o'clock Williams, also employed at the mine, returned from Trinity Centre with a team of four horses. Three of the horses went docilely enough into the stable, but the fourth was balky, and Treadwell came down to the barn with a lantern to help.

Ellis Bassham and Charles Duncan were putting away the sleigh and Duncan had just set foot inside the building when the slide came, wrecking the barn and burying Treadwell and Williams twelve feet deep.

DIGS HIS WAY OUT.

Bassham stood a foot from the path of the slide and escaped. The three horses in the barn were smothered, but the horse that caused the delay and caused the two men their lives struggled free.

BIDS ARE SOUGHT FOR BANK WRECK

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—Bids on the assets of the wrecked California Safe Deposit and Trust Company were advertised for today by Frank J. Symmes, receiver. Buyers will have until February 20 to submit their offers.

From 5 to 10 per cent, said the receiver today, is all that remains in sight for the depositors from the sale. They have already received one dividend of 10 per cent.

Liabilities at the time of the failure were booked at $9,000,000. Promissory notes of John Treadwell, whose brother, James, was one of the moving spirits in the company, are listed among the assets at $1,028,426. More promissory notes ranging from $50 to $25,000, some supposed to be good, more of them problematical; railroad, industrial, mining and promotion shares and bonds and miscellaneous commercial paper make up the remainder.

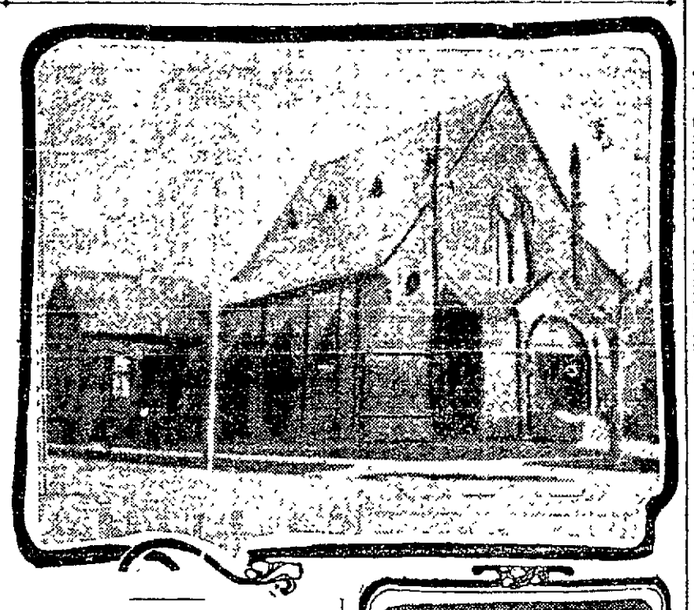

The failure of the California Safe Deposit and Trust Company more than four years ago was a scandal that shook the state. J. Dalzell Brown, vice-president and general manger, was sentenced to 18 months in San Quentin in the prosecutions that followed. Hundreds of depositors were left absolutely penniless. Several committed suicide and others ended in the insane asylums.

THIEF IN GERMAN HOUSE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—A burglar familiar with the premises and believed to be an employe, ransacked the German House, Polk and Turk streets, early this morning. The desk in the office was broken open and $200 taken from it.

CHURCH SELLS PROPERTY; WILL BUILD METHODISTS TO ERECT $75,000 EDIFICE

FIRST M. E. CHURCH (SOUTH), WHICH HAS BEEN SOLD; PORTRAIT OF REV. W. J. SIMS, PASTOR.

Building to Be Memorial to State's Pioneer Preachers

Sale of property of the First Methodist Episcopal church (South) and plans for the purchase of a new site and the erection of an imposing $75,000 memorial edifice on Telegraph avenue, were disclosed by the recording this week of deeds transferring the old church and site at Thirty-fourth and Elm streets to the Second Church of Christ Scientist.

Bishop R. G. Waterhouse, at the head of the Pacific conference of the denomination, will arrive in Oakland two weeks hence to direct the negotiations for the purchase of a lot on Telegraph avenue, the exact location of which has not been revealed and will aid in carrying the building plans to early consummation.

PLANS COSTLY.

The Oakland church building project is part of a plan for the erection of two magnificent memorial structures, at a total cost of $150,000, in San Francisco and Oakland, under the direction of the local churches, and the church extension board of the parent body.

Building plans for the two edifices are being drawn up and work is to begin on the local structure soon after the purchase of the lot. It is stated that the Telegraph avenue site will be in the vicinity of Thirty-sixth street, three blocks from the old church.

The new building will be the largest and costliest Protestant edifice in north Oakland, and will be a memorial to the pioneer Southern Methodist preachers of California.

The Second Church of Christ, Scientist, congregation is already occupying the main auditorium of the church at Thirty-fourth and Elm streets. The Methodists have retained the ownership of the rear portion, which has been used as a Sunday school room, and are now holding regular services in it. This part of the church building will be moved at once to the rear of the lot to be purchased and there occupied as a place of worship until the completion of the new church.

SOLD FOR $10,000.

The Thirty-fourth and Elm streets property was transferred in the name of the trustees, Joseph H. Hunt, C. T. Broadwater, W. J. Wight, Thomas Reese, W. R. Ragland, L. B. Bean and B. G. Campbell, to J. E. Traxler, representing the Christian Science church. The land occupies a frontage of 100 feet on Thirty-fourth street and 165 feet on Elm. The church and site were sold for $10,000.

The realty transactions of the First Methodist church (South) in Oakland have been of an interesting nature for several years past. The congregation sold its property at the corner of Fifteenth and Clay streets, near the close of 1906, for $108,000. The corner was resold less than a year ago for $190,000. It is opposite the new Capwell building, near the city hall, and a few feet from the site of the Dalziel building, now under construction on Fifteenth street. The property was placed in the hands of C. Fred Burks as agent, in August, 1906, for sale at $40,000. The sale was made before Christmas, 1906, for $108,000.

CHURCH ADVANCES.

Rev. W. J. Sims is pastor of the church and under his direction the congregation and prosperity of the organization have been growing.

A portion of the $150,000 required for the two memorial church buildings in Oakland and San Francisco will be furnished by the church extension board, which has handled the general fund, the proceeds of the sale of the Clay and Fifteenth streets site.

2 MASKED MEN ARE ARRESTED

Two Suspicious Looking Characters Arrested in Lakeside District.

Observing two suspicious looking characters lounging about in the vicinity of Perry street and Grand avenue in the fashionable Lakeside district, last night, Deputy Constable C. B. Hitchcock of the Hitchcock patrol, searched the men, to find that one of them had a large revolver, and that both had handkerchiefs tied across the lower portions of their faces. Hitchcock brought them to the city prison, where they are being held, pending an investigation. One gave his name as Joe Ryan, and the other claimed to be Joe Burgess. Both gave their address as 729 Washington street.

The men, when accosted by Hitchcock, declared that they were plasterers, and that they lived in a house nearby. Hitchcock proceeded to search Burgess, who at once attempted to pull a huge .44 caliber pistol, with a 10-inch barrel, one of the largest weapons ever seen in the local police station. Burgess is charged with carrying a concealed weapon and Ryan with vagrancy. They are believed to be footpads, and a rigid investigation will be made by the police.

NO EVIDENCE FOUND AGAINST F. L. RUNGE

F. L. Runge, who was acquitted in Judge Wells' department of the superior court on a charge of attempting to steal a ham by "fishing" for it through the grating of W. J. Ferguson's cummission house, at no time had either the ham or the hook in his possession, as was been stated. Evidence was introduced which showed that he had no connection with an attempt to obtain the piece of meat says it is not in his daughter's handwriting.

The police have found some difficulty in investigating the case, as Iselin did not know the address of Mrs. Harrison, nor her initials. The letter states that the writer has moved to Piedmont, where the suicide is alleged to have taken place Tuesday, but gives no street address.

The coroner has no record of such a death The police are seeking the missing girl, a description having been furnished by the father. She was 5 feet in height, weighed 105 pounds, had light brown hair, blue eyes and fair complexion She wore a long coat, black soft hat and black skirt.

The letter received by Iselin reads as follows:

Dear Mr. Iselin:

I thought I would drop you a few lines as your daughter Alice has shot herself yesterday, Tuesday, and died a few minutes after. She went into my room and took my revolver and shot her brains out. She told me before she did it, not to tell you and for me not to bring her home. So I thought I would not bring her home I could not save her, because she shot herself too quick. I would have wrote you sooner, but did not get the address. Alice has been working for me over a month and I moved to Piedmont. I am sorry to let you know about Alice, but it is my duty to let you know. She will be buried Thursday, so if you want to see her before she gets buried, come out and see me. I hope this letter will reach you before Thursday. I have no more to say. So will close,

(Signed) MRS. J. HARRISON.

Accused to Attempting to Coerce Osage Indians Into Sale of Land.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Charges that Secretary Fisher attempted to coerce the Osage Indians into leasing valuable oil fields to the Standard Oil Company, and a counter-charge by the secretary that the Uncle Sam Oil Company attempted to acquire the fields under circumstances which threatened proceedings by Attorney-General Wickersham, were aired today before the House committee on Indian affairs.

Meanwhile seven Osages, members of the tribal council, who were removed on January 3 by Secretary Fisher because, he said, it was found he had been "unduly influenced" in making a lease to the Uncle Sam Company, went to the District Supreme Court and got a mandamus calling on the secretary to show cause next Tuesday why they should not be reinstated. Certain leases to the Uncle Sam Company have been thrown out by the secretary and a bill is now pending in the House to compel the secretary to validate them.

CHARGES CONSPIRACY.

Albert Wilson, representing the Uncle Sam Oil Company, in a brief, declared that the Standard Oil Company "is endeavoring to block the efforts of the Uncle Sam Company to secure this lease because the Uncle Sam Company could then become a competititor of the Standard Oil Company subsidaries in the field.

"The secretary of the interior," he says, "for the purpose of intimidating and coercing the Osage Indians into electing a new council which will obey his instructions has published and caused to be published statements intimating that many of the Indians would be arrested or indicted upon some charge because they were in favor of the leases to the Uncle Sam Company.

FIGHT OIL TRUST.

"The stockholders of the Uncle Sam Oil Company have fought a long, hard fight against the machinations of the oil trust. The oil trust has had the advantage of having the assistance of a former President, cabinet officers, the postoffice department, the interior department, some federal judges, a federal district attorney, and many other lesser federal officers, but they have fought the fight to establish their company as a genuine, independent oil company and actual bona-fide competitor of the oil trust."

JURY DISAGREES; CASE TO GO TO TRIAL AGAIN

Following a disagreement by the jury impanelled to try T. Sue Wing, charged by agents of the State Board of Medical Examiners with a violation of California statutes, it was decided that the case should again be brought to trial, and the date was set for January 30. E. W. Freeman, arrested on a similar charge, was freed, as there was insufficient evidence to prosecute him. The cases were before Judge Mortimer Smith.

SALOON IS LOOTED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18. When F. Mannion, proprietor of a saloon at 1263 Kentucky street, locked up his place shortly after midnight he closed the door upon a burglar who had secreted himself somewhere within. The intruder watched Mannion conceal his sack containing $100 beneath the bar and lost no time in obtaining it. Policeman John Kelly and Special Officer Sturn found the door open and discovered the theft.

WESTERN PACIFIC FIGHTS SNOW IN THE MOUNTAINS

The last news was received at 8 o'clock this morning before the main line wire went down, when the information was given that it was snowing hard at Colfax.

The Western Pacific is out of touch with its trains and No. 3, due to arrive here at 8:30 this morning, is in a snowdrift somewhere in the mountains. All other trains are in. Only one train left here for the East on this line today. This was No. 2, the morning limited. The afternoon train has been canceled.

SLIDE STOPS TRAFFIC.

The Southern Pacific received advices shortly before noon to the effect that a dirt slide had occurred north of Redding at Cuardo. Train No. 15, due here at 1:10 p. m., and No. 11, due at 8:50 p. m., are stalled back of the blockade and a large crew of workmen from Redding are clearing the tracks. It is expected that the line will be in working condition before the morning train for Portland reaches the scene.

TRACK IS BURIED.

At Keswick, Cal., on the Shasta route, 80 feet of track was buried 25 feet deep by a landslide. The southbound Shasta limited that left Portland yesterday is held today at Modon and the north-bound limited that left San Francisco last night is held at Red Bluff, while a "shoo fly" track is being built around the foot of the landslide. Other south-bound trains are stalled at Kennett. Division officers hope to resume traffic late today.

A terrific southerly wind, driving before it the spearmen of the rain, swept the Sacramento canyon last night, but though the rain put to flight the snow it brought with it the landslides.

At Anderson a newly completed church was unroofed by the wind. Two inches of rain fell at Anderson, Kennett and Redding. The Sacramento river rose 9 feet 7 inches over night at Kennett.

FEAR SNOWSLIDE.

PARK CITY, Utah, Jan. 18.—Park City today is fearful of a snowslide catastrophe. Overhanging snow threatens to break loose and crash down upon the town.

Three slides have occurred, one yesterday, burying three men and a four-horse team. Alfred Thomas and Fred Kummer were rescued, bruised but alive, ten feet beneath the surface. Kummer was found standing on his head. One of the horses was killed. Walter Mitchell escaped another avalanche by lashing his team out of its course.

2500 PERSONS MAROONED.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 18.—Approximately 2500 persons, driven from their homes in the vicinity of Ashbyberg, Ky., by floods at the juncture of the Pond and Greene rivers, now are marooned on a hill near the town, according to an appeal for aid received by Governor McCreary yesterday. The governor has ordered tents and blankets sent to the refugees.

RELATES STORY OF PASSION PLAY

Miss Annie Brown Speaks to Oakland Masons and Friends.

Masters of the Oakland lodges of Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry were the hosts at the stereopticon lecture on "The Passion Play," given by Miss Annie Florence Brown, last evening in Scottish Rite hall, Madison and Fourteenth streets. The performance as it was witnessed by Miss Brown in 1910, was presented with all its Scriptural allusions and Biblical verses by the speaker, who introduced the slides with a brief summary of the origin of the play, which is presented every ten years by the peasants in the valley of Oberammergau in the Bavarian Alps.

During the evening a program of sacred music was contributed by Miss Susan Culver, a contralto soloist, who sang "O Divine Redeemer" and "That Sweet Story of Old." James Pollitt presided at the organ.

The entertainment was followed by a dance, which was arranged by the committee, which was composed of R. J. Carpenter, A. H. Ziegler, M. S. Stewart, G. A. Bahler and Otto Riehl.

WOULD DODGE BEGGING LETTER

Rockefeller's Adviser Wants "Clearing House" for Appeals for Help.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—"A clearing house" for begging letters sent to philanthropists would be one of the adjuncts of the Rockefeller foundation, a federal charter for which Congress will be asked to grant on Monday, according to Jerome D. Green, former secretary of Harvard University and now an adviser of the Standard Oil magnate. Green is seeking to have Congress at this session incorporate the organization which John D. Rockefeller is anxious to endow.

"Mr. Rockefeller alone receives an average of 500 begging letters every day," said Greene. "They ask sums ranging from $5 to amounts in seven figures."

Greene stated that the average day's collection of begging letters received by Rockefeller came from twenty-two countries, representing every continent.

BANKERS DISCUSS COLD SNAP RESULT

Financiers Take Up With the Governor Question Aid for Banks.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 18. — Bankers from the southern orange belt, quiet, grey-haired men mostly, flocked into Governor Johnson's private office near noon today to discuss whether the state should deposit funds in their banks to relieve the stringency caused by the recent cold snap. About 60 bankers had been notified of the proposed meeting and probably half that number were present.

Some of the others were detained, some sent word that neither they nor their communities required any help.

With the bankers were State Superintendent of Banks Williams, who has made a tour of the region, and a number of legislators, including Senators N. W. Thompson of Alhambra, J. L. Avey of Redlands and P. F. Cogswell of Elmonte.

The meeting was declared to be executive and because of various interruptions was slow in getting started.

HE ROPES HIMSELF.

The tow line was fastened to the rear axle of the forward machine, but Dooley had a new scheme for the rear fastening Instead of risking a warping of his own forward axle by tying the rope there, he made a loop of it and tied it about his waist, climbed back into the seat of his car and gave the signal to go ahead.

The towing machine proceeded merrily along the boulevard for several hundred rods, Dooley gasping for breath in the rear car but manfully bracing himself against the dash with both feet. Then, of a sudden, the forward machine spurted. So did Dooley. He spurted right over the wind-shield and the dash. He spurted for several yards along the pavement, chiefly on his shoulder and nose. With characteristic pluck, however, the photographer retained consciousness, and when he could signal the driver of the forward car, finally got that stopped and himself disentangled. He was in a physician's care for some days.

FOUNDER OF ELKS DIES IN HOSPITAL

L. Stilwell, Pioneer Theatrical Man, Is Buried Today.

L. Stillwell, aged 63 years, for 30 years a well-known theatrical man of this section and one of the founders of the Oakland lodge of Elks, died yesterday at the county hospital. Not one of his old friends hereabout knew of his illness or of his being at the hospital. His last words to the attendant nurse were that Guy C. Smith, manager of the Broadway Theater, Oakland, be notified. Smith was a friend of long standing of the deceased and this was his first intimation of Stillwell's whereabouts.

The funeral was held at 3 o'clock this afternoon and interment was in a plot at Mountain View cemetery, which Stilwell purchased for his last resting place in his more prosperous days. Here services were conducted under the auspices of the local order of Elks. Among the members of the order in attendance were: Nick Remmer, Charles Butler, Ned Hall, Dr. H. B. Mehrmann, Dr. O. O. Hamlin, George Palmer, George E. de Golia, Charles P. Hall, George Reed, Charles Wilkins, Charles Sewell, Pop Bemis, Myron Whidden, James Dean and Captain W. F. Fletcher.

Stilwell was the builder of the old Coliseum, the first theater of any pretensions in Oakland, and later managed the Old Dewey and the original Oakland Theater. He was well known among theatrical people all over the Pacific coast.

FRANCOIS MEETS ROUGH WEATHER

"Troubadour" Has Battle With Hailstorm, But Comes Out Whole.

(Francois, the Troubadour, who is walking from the Hotel Oakland to the Waldorf Astoria and singing his way across the continent, will describe his experiences in THE TRIBUNE.)

(By FRANCOIS, THE TROUBADOR.)

Special correspondence of THE TRIBUNE.

AUBURN, Cal., Jan. 18.—Registered out of Roseville Thursday morning at 9 o'clock for Auburn and after leaving Roseville had my first really hard experience since leaving Oakland. About six or seven miles east of Roseville I walked into the worst hailstorm it has ever been my misfortune to encounter. In the vernacular of the streets it was "some hailstorm."

When the storm passed it left me lying alongside of the Southern Pacific tracks feling like a piece of "14 cents a pound round stead" reduced to an edible condition by pounding—and as to that I felt exactly like that same steak. Ten rounds with Jack Johnson would have been child's play as compared with my tussle with that hailstorm.

After this experience I finally succeeded in crawling into Newcastle, at which point I was picked up by the Southern Pacific employes, who carried me into Auburn, a distance of four miles. Arrived at Auburn at 2:20 o'clock in the afternoon, a very much delapidated Troubadour.

Was met at the depot and taken to the Hotel Freeman in the hotel auto, at which place I was received with open arms by James Walsh, one of the proprietors of the hosteiry. I was his guest until Friday morning, at which time I struck out once more for the east. A hot bath and some attention to a slightly sprained ankle restored me to usual form and I succeeded in working out some of the dents caused by the hailstorm.

The most interesting thing around here is the proprietor himself, the only living impersonation of Falstaff that it is possible to find. He removed four days' growth of beard from my face and I can recommend him to all travelers coming to Auburn.

Before closing I also wish to again voice my appreciation of the representatives of the Southern Pacific at the various cities and towns which I have visited. Their treatment of me and the memory of their kindness and consideration will ever be one of the most pleasant experiences of my hike from Oakland to New York.

With the best wishes for the continued success and prosperity of THE TRIBUNE, I am,

Sincerely,
FRANCOIS,
The Hail-Beaten Troubadour.

PLAN ERECTION OF NEW WAREHOUSES

Two Structures Are to Add to Wholesaling and Jobbing Business.

The wholesale and jobbing district in the vicinity of Fourth and Webster streets is to be further developed through the erection of two substantial warehouses, plans for which have been completed.

One building, a two-story class C structure, is to be erected by G. W. Leisz on the west side of Webster street, 50 feet north of Fourth. The building, which is to cost $10,000, will occupy a lot 50 by 75 feet in dimensions. Half of the proposed warehouse has already been leased to the oil and spice firm of J. C. Ralph & Co.

Another warehouse, the front of which will be three stories in height, is to be built by Kratz & Neppach, at a cost of $20,000, on the south side of Fourth street, 75 feet west of Webster. The three-story portion will have a frontage of 50 feet on Fourth street and extend back 100 feet. The rear part of the building, two stories in height, will reach another 100 feet to Third street, where it will have a frontage of 35 feet. The Pacific Woodenware and Paper Company has leased the entire building.

A total of $100,000 has been expended within the last few years in the building up of this growing warehouse district.

The building and leasing transactions in connection with the two latest enterprises were handled by Albert S. Day, with the real estate agency of D. F. Minney. Day has been connected with numerous deals in this section during the last two years.

RECEIVES SETBACK IN DAMAGE ACTION

John Charles Adams, who owns about 10 acres of property at Bay Place and Oakland avenue, having a total frontage of nearly a quarter of a mile, received a setback in the Superior Court late yesterday when Superior Judge Wells sustained a demurrer entered by the City of Oakland to the Adams damage suit which is an effort to prevent the improvement of the property by the laying of sidewalks.

Adams sought a permanent injunction against the Oakland Paving company, which had been awarded the contract by the city for laying the walks. A temporary restraining order was obtained on December 17 last. In sustaining the city's demurrer, Judge Wells gave the plaintiff five days in which to amend his complaint.

It was argued by Attorney Charles E. Snook in behalf of Adams that the grade established by the city engineer last May placed a large part of his property below the street level, thus making it subject to overflow from storm waters. He further argues that a prior grade established 20 years ago had been met by his client in the way of improvements at that time and if the change is enforced at this time he would be seriously damaged.

Assistant City Attorney Charles A. Beardsley contended that only a small portion of the property would be below grade and that the city has the right to establish grades which would be of benefit to the public at large.

LIKENS 'MOVIES' TO PRINTING PRESS

Rev. H. A. Jump Declares That Photoplay Marks Epoch in World's Advance.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—"Be a citizen of the world for a nickel," was the theme of the address delivered today by the Rev. H. A. Jump, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Oakland before the Commonwealth Club at a luncheon at the Palace Hotel.

Dr. Jump, who believes thoroughly in the educational value of the motion picture, said:

"In a cosmopolitan city of the East I found that Persians from near the mountain where Noah's ark landed after the deluge regarded the moving picture as the most wonderful thing in America. Thousands of Polanders were witnessing Biblical and other films under the direction of a Polish priest.

"The motion picture is as epochal an invention as the printing press. As the press made books accessible to the common run of men, so the moving picture has made the drama accessible to everybody. And the drama is the noblest form of art. Too long has it been the rich man's exclusive possession except in its debased and cheaper forms. It is all the time exercising an influence, moreover, whether the spectator realizes the fact or not. It is a sort of pickpocket benefactor, putting ideas into your soul without your knowing it, even as the pickpocket takes money out of your pocket without your knowing it.

"The moving picture is the cleanest form of indoor amusement popular among the American people today. A deal of the blame attached to it is undeserved. It is distinctly more uplifting than the average vaudeville program or the average straight drama. It adds immeasurably to the general intelligence of the non-traveling public. They can go everywhere in the known universe without leaving their opera chair. The moral judgments trained by the photoplay are on the whole sane and right. If there be sometimes too realistic a portrayal of exciting features, at least the final verdict of the play is positive. This cannot be said of all the novels circulated by our libraries. Common people see pictures of home life and social customs that they otherwise could never enjoy. They learn how to dress, how to be polite, how to act in company simply from observing how it was done on the stage. The scientific use of the motion picture in reproducing surgical operations, processes of biological development and famous historical events is notable. Not yet has it been used to its full possibilities for spiritual culture. The time will come when an up-to-date church working for the masses will have to own a moving picture machine as surely as it has to own a pipe organ."

CLUBWOMEN GET NEW ATTORNEY

Those Urging Recall of Judge Weller Organize Under Another Name.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18. — The clubwomen who are urging the recall of Police Judge Charles Weller disassociated themselves today from their ally, C. F. Schreiber, an attorney, and reorganized under a new name. Instead of the Women's League of Justice, they became, by decision of the executive committee, the Women's Recall League.

Schreiber was entrusted with the preparation of the recall petition. When the printed blanks were not forthcoming last night, the women accused him of being in league with McDonald Brothers, saloon men and bail bond brokers, and with the other influences they are fighting at the Hall of Justice. Schrieber protested, but was not heeded.

STREET SPRINKLER A WINTER NOVELTY

Water Wagon in Chicago This Time of Year Rather Unusual.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Owing to the warm weather, street sprinklers were brought into use in the down town district last night for the first time during the month of January, it was said, in thirty years. The unusual sight drew forth comment from hundreds of persons in the streets, who seem to regard it as an omen of the near approach of spring.

Recent thaws had caused a great accumulation of mud and slush on the pavements. The maximum temperature yesterday was 55.

JILTED FIANCE STARTS SEARCH FOR ELOPER

FRESNO, Jan. 18. — Hugh S. Myers, a traveling salesman, started a State-wide search yesterday for Anna Bier of Reedley, to whom he was engaged to be married, and who ran away from her home last night with Thomas Walter, an old sweetheart. Thomas Walter and Miss Bier were sweethearts before she met Myers.

Walter went into the mountains and was absent for many months. During his absence, Myers appeared on the scene, won the girl's affections and her consent to be his wife.

Walter returned to Reedley a few days ago, met Miss Bier again and induced her to run away with him Thursday night.

Although her parents did not know where she had gone, they expressed no displeasure at the match and had made no search for her. Miss Bier is the daughter of Philip Bier, a prominent rancher of Reedley. She is 32 years of age. Myers thinks she has been kidnaped.

OSAGE INDIANS ALLEGE COERCION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Seven deposed members of the Osago Indian Council, recently removed by Secretary Fisher because it had been charged that undue influence had been used among the Indians to prevent consummation of valuable oil land leases, have filed a memorial with the House Indian Affairs Committee, charging that the secretary's action was taken to "coerce the Indians into executing the kind and character of oil and gas leases he desires and to the persons he desires."

The House Indian Affairs Committee met today to take up the Taggart bill, which provides for Osage oil leases to the Uncle Sam Oil Company, refused by the Interior Department last June. The memorial of the deposed chief was taken up at the same time.

Claiming that their son, John Slater Jr., was not of age and did not have their consent when he married Pearl Christiansen on March 8, 1911, John L. Slater and his wife, Eugenie Slater, have filed suit for annument of the marriage against their daughter-in-law.

Alleging cruelty on the part of her husband to herself and children, Jeanette Brown has filed suit for divorce against William Brown, a carpenter. Plaintiff recites that her husband accused her of wrongdoing and also her daughters, in addition to calling them names.

CREATORE'S WAGES HELD UP BY PRIMA DONNA

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18. — Francisco Creatore, director of the Banda Verdi, playing at a local cafe, has a nemesis. Half way across the continent he has been followed by Jessica Overman, prima donna, to right an alleged financial wrong. Today, through her counsel, Miss Overman filed suit in the Superior Court to recover $1200 from the bandmaster on a contract of employment alleged to have been signed at Kansas City, November 12.

The latest from the manufacturers' committee of the Chamber of Commerce is that grievances must be presented in writing. Some unknown person had sought spur track privileges on the belt railroad in connection with the Livingston street wharf. John G. Buswell, a member of the grievance committee, had worked for ten days on the matter and when the Western Pacific evinced a readiness to grant the spur no one could be found to utilize the privilege.

Buswell had a grievance, for this reason, and the executive committee decided that hereafter it would be necessary to bring all matters to the attention of the committee in written statements.

According to the statements of several of the members the Livingston street wharf is two feet lower than it should be. Buswell was on his feet in an instant with the request that the matter be remedied after it was presented in writing.

The manufacturers promised with one accord to enter into the work of making the big banquet on January 22 at the Hotel Oakland a success. They are to have a reserved table of forty-seven plates and promise to make the other civic bodies look alive in the enjoyment of the evening.

STEAM SCHOONER HAS TRIAL VOYAGE

Slips Moorings on This Side and Is Shifted to San Francisco.

Bayly bedecked with varicolored flags and bunting, the newly constructed steam schooner Siskiyou, built for the E. K. Wood Lumber Company at the local yards of the United Engineering Works, was shifted across to the San Francisco side early this morning and at 10 o'clock the trim little carrier slipped its moorings from the south side of pier No. 22 on the San Francisco side and steamed out on its initial trip.

A band which had been hired for the occasion began playing popular airs and it was not many minutes before the decks were crowded with couples dancing while others strolled about the holds and other portions of the vessel.

The Siskiyou was built at the yards of the United Engineering Works. It is 200 feet in length, with a beam of 41 feet and a depth of 17 feet. It has a capacity of 1,1000,000 feet of lumber. The vessel will operate between this port and the north in the Wood people's lumber service.

FILES SUIT AGAINST CONE RANCH COMPANY

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 17.—E. F. May filed suit against the Cone Ranch Company, Marie Louise Medeline Cone and C. A. Hooper this morning to enforce a contract entered into December 10, 1910, and such damages as the court may see fit to allow.

May wants an injunction restraining Mrs. Cone or Hooper or their agents from disposing of any of the majority of stock, which she holds in the Ranch Company and in other large corporations in Tehama county.

HELEN TAFT WILL RE-ENTER BRYN MAWR

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Miss Helen Taft expects to take up her interrupted college course at the completion of her father's term of office at the White House. She will re-enter Bryn Mawr. Miss Taft would have been graduated with this year's class had not her mother's health made necessary a sharing of her social duties with her clever daughter. Now Miss Taft hopes to finish in June, 1914.

BARTENDER IS VICTIM OF BAD CHECK MAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—Antone Perreira, bartender in a saloon at 229 Embarcadero, was victimized by a passer of spurious currency last night. A man entered the place, made a $1 purchase and tendered a $10 bill, receiving his change. When he had gone the bartender noticed that a $1 bill had been raised and made to appear like a gold note.

THE TRIBUNE, like every progressive newspaper, is always on the alert to please its present readers and to attract new ones. It deems nothing more desirable and useful for the New Year than a new Book of Ready Reference to give you the late information not contained in your library, however extensive it may be, and to give it to you quickly for use in reading or study—a book equally interesting and instructive to the professional and business man, the farmer, the housewife and to help the young folks find out about things.

Opens Up a Mine of Facts

In more than one respect it differs from, and is superior to, all other similar works.

For example, no other contains such a complete gazetteer of the cities and countries of the world; no other presents such satisfying articles on such timely subjects as the Panama Canal, the United States Forest Service, the Conservation of National Resources, the Initiative, Referendum and Recall, while in the matter of World Maps it leads all books of its kind.

Furthermore, a very strong feature will be found in the special articles of interest to farmers—also to builders.

In short, those in all professions, occupations, employments and trades will find that the work will be resorted to only on extreme occasions and under drastic circumstances. It would no longer be possible for a handful of people to circulate petitions, get a small percentage of the voters to sign and compel the municipality to call an election.

INITIATIVE, REFERENDUM AND RECALL ATTACKED IN ALAMEDAN'S RESOLUTION

The percentage of signatures to a petition necessary to call a referendum election would be increased from 5 per cent to 20 per cent; the initiative would be increased from 8 to 15 per cent, and the recall would be increased from 12 to 30 per cent.

ARMORY FOR OAKLAND.

The first step to secure a state armory and arsenal for Oakland was initiated yesterday, when Senator George J. Hans introduced a bill providing for a legislative appropriation of $250,000 for the acquisition of land and the erection and equipment of the structure.

The measure asked that this fund be placed in the hands of the adjutant-general, as ex-officio quartermaster of the state, for disbursement.

San Francisco, Los Angeles and Sacramento now have state armories, either under course of construction or provided for by appropriations, and it is believed that on this basis, should funds be available, Oakland will be next in line for such a building.

It is possible, however, that the bill to be introduced by Adjutant-General Forbes, providing for a state reimbursement plan for the erection of armories, will affect the request of Oakland for a building.

OPPOSE WHIPPING POST.

While the women of California may look with favor upon the bill introduced by Senator George J. Hans of Alameda county, providing for the establishment of a blacklist of divorced wife-beaters in California and ostracising them from society, they are a unit against the inauguration of the whipping post for those men who are cruel to their wives. This was the sentiment expressed by members of the Women's Legislative Council of California at a session held at Hotel Sacramento yesterday to consider proposed legislation affecting women.

Senator Hans' bill and that introduced by Senator William J. Cassidy of San Francisco, providing for the whipping post, were considered and discussed by the women.

Such active suffrage workers as Mrs. Helen Moore of San Francisco, Mrs. Florence Collins Porter of Los Angeles and Mrs. C. M. Weymann of San Francisco opposed the bill strenuously during the discussion.

"While there are men who are brutes in the treatment of their wives, I do not believe the administration of brutal punishment would be a corrective," was the statement of Mrs. Weymann.

WOULD CURB SPECULATION.

A taxation system that will curb land speculation such as retards the growth of a city is made possible by an Assembly Constitutional Amendment which Gelder of Berkeley introduced in the Assembly yesterday. The amendment is a substitute for the home rule in the taxation amendment which went down to defeat before the vote of the people.

The advantage held out by the amendment over the present system is that it would amend that clause of the constitution which provides for an assessment to full value of all lands and improvements thereon. The amendment would place in the hands of the city and county officers the privilege of exempting the improvements and personal property.

The proponents of the amendment favor the raising of revenue by taxation of the value of the land and not the improvements on the land, and to make this possible have proposed an amendment to Article XIII of the constitution by adding the following section:

Section 3½. Any county, city and county, city or town, may exempt from taxation for local purposes in whole or in part, any one or more of the following classes of property: Improvements in, on, or over land, shipping, household furniture, live stock, merchandise, machinery, tools, farming implements, vehicles, other personal property, except franchises.

Any ordinance or resolution of any county, city and county, city or town, exempting property from taxation, as in this section provided, shall be subject to a referendum vote as by law provided for other ordinances.

Taxes levied upon property not exempt from taxation shall be uniform.

DELEGATION IS BUSY.

The Alameda county delegation of the Assembly was active in the introduction of measures. Assemblyman Clark had two appropriation bills for the Industrial Home for the Adult Blind. One bill called for an appropriation of $50,000 for the construction of a new dormitory and the other for $1500 for building new floors in the shops at the home.

Assemblyman Smith filed a companion bill to the teachers' pension measure, which Senator Tyrrell of Oakland submitted the other day.

The moral wave continued to sweep over the Assembly yesterday, bringing with it two bills touching on proposed changes in social conditions. One was fathered by Assemblyman Victor Canepa of San Francisco, and prohibits the marriage of any man or woman who is a drunkard, criminal, epileptic, imbecile, idiot, feeble-minded or insane, unless he or she marries a person over 45 years of age and is over 45 years also. The purpose of this is to protect posterity against such unions.

Assemblyman Harry Polseley also introduced a bill proposing an amendment to the constitution prohibiting women from handling or selling liquors.

A number of labor measures were also submitted, Assemblyman Brown of Colusa submitting one that is intended to protect the salaries of fishermen who contract for a long cruise. It recently developed at the end of a coast fishing cruise that the members of the crew did not have any salaries coming to them, through gambling, etc., although the money had not actually been in their hands to gamble. Brown favors putting the salaries under the charge of a State Commissioner who shall protect the fishermen.

The same bill also provides for the establishment of State employment offices in Oakland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Sacramento, Stockton, Fresno, Bakersfield and San Diego, as a means of aiding the man who is out of work and wants to.

PAYMENT OF WAGES.

Assemblyman Henry Ward Brown of Colusa has been a lawmaker for ten years, and as regular as the eight-day clock is wound at each session of the Legislature he introduces a bill that aims to stamp out nepotism in State offices. True to past history, Brown introduced the bill yesterday and opened the way for an extended discussion before the session ends.

Brown's bill not only would prevent State officers from employing relatives, but it would embrace the county officers as well. It might also include the Senators and Assemblymen in the appointment of attaches. Brown declared last night that he is going to keep plodding for his nepotism bill until he sees it made into a law.

The passage of such a bill would hit the Superintendent of Public Instructon and Secretary of State, both officers having relatives working as clerks in their offices.

Assemblyman T. D. Johnston has asked that the property qualification imposed in the selection of trial jurors be eliminated, and that the only requirement be registered voters.

MILEAGE IS PROBLEM.

The new bifurcated system of Legislature has brought up a number of interesting problems for the lawmakers to solve, one of which is the mileage question. After considerable impromptu discussion as to whether the legislators are entitled to round-trip mileage at the rate of 10 cents a mile for both sessions of the Legislature, or for only one, the subject has been passed up to Attorney-General Webb for a decision.

If the Legislature is held to be adjourned during the interim between the first and last sessions, it is believed that Webb will rule that the Solons are entitled to round-trip mileage twice. If the Legislature is held to be in session during this interim the Solons will get but one mileage allowance.

A proposition to bond the State of California for $8,000,000 to carry to completion many big projects throughout the State, including a $3,000,000 group of State buildings, as a part of the Capitol extension plans for Sacramento, is on foot, and as soon as the bill can be whipped into shape it will be introduced in both houses.

Assemblyman Frank Smith of Oakland provoked a roar of protest out of the Democratic wing of the Assembly yesterday when, during a squabble over the delay of State Printer Richardson in getting the bills back to the House, he remarked that the Bourbons who were shouting the loudest against the delay were showing poor taste in criticising the bifurcated session, one of their own creation. All the Democrats started to talk at the same time in answer to the jolt, when Assemblyman Brown quelled the impending storm with a point of order that was sustained by the chair.

DEMOCRATS IN SQUABBLE.

That all has not been serene in the ranks of the Democratic members of the Legislature became known yesterday, when the report of a secret wordy war among the Bourbons that resulted in Senator Caminetti, the minority warhorse, quitting the chairmanship of the caucus and having to be wooed back again, were circulated. The trouble arose over the question of whether introduction of anti-alien land bills should be immediate or delayed.

The rumpus was the outgrowth of a so-called pledge to President Moore of the Panama-Pacific Exposition that the Democrats would proceed cautiously and slowly in anti-alien legislation.

Senator Caminetti contended that Democrats were privileged to proceed to introduce anti-alien land bills immediately, and was opposed to this so strenuously from certain quarters that he quit the chair.

When the Bourbons saw disruption staring them in the face, the caucus resolved itself into a lovefeast, and used its persuasive powers in coaxing Caminetti back into the chairmanship. Caminetti undoubtedly willing to be coaxed.

A new system of printing free text books has been suggested by Assemblyman Harry Polsely of Red Bluff. He believes that the books should be put out in pamphlet form and cover the period of time in which the pupil is supposed to study that particular book. He would have them covered with Manila papers.

Assemblyman Victor J. Canepa introduced a bill yesterday prepared by the San Francisco City Attorney which is aimed to expedite the work of building the civic center. The State owns a plot purchased for $72,000 several years ago for a State building site in San Francisco. That property is needed for a part of the civic center. Another space equally valuable is to be assigned to the State building if the millions of dollars for that purpose can be secured by bond issue.

Nearly every member of the Senate and Assembly received yesterday copies of sets of resolutions adopted by various boards of supervisors in California, asking the legislature to vote for the $1,000,000 appropriation for the California counties building at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. The appropriation is not only being favored by the members of the San Francisco delegation, but by the southern delegation, a member of which, Assemblyman Frank Mouser, introduced the bill and by members from the country districts. The Mouser measure in the House has been sent to the committee on ways and means. It is probable that it will be one of the bills that will not be acted upon until the second period of the session.

The first contest over a seat in the Legislature was filed yesterday in the Assembly by J. H. Lambert of Los Angeles county against W. A. Roberts, who defeated him at the general election. Roberts, in the contest affidavit, is accused of having promised during his campaign to work for increase in salaries for justices of the peace and constables in violation of the election laws.

DATE OF ASSESSMENTS

A change in the date of the making up of assessment rolls from March 1 to January 1 is proposed in a Constitutional amendment submitted by Assemblyman F. H. Bloodgood of Los Angeles. The southern members say that the late date for the making up of the rolls compels other officials to employ temporary and therefore inefficient clerks, while if the rolls were made up the first of the year that will not be necessary.

ASSEMBLYMAN FRANK M. SMITH, WHO WOULD AMEND INITIATIVE, REFERENDUM AND RECALL LAW OF STATE.

Would Remove All Cemeteries in Limits

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 18.—Of especial interest to San Francisco is a bill introduced into the legislature yesterday by Senator John J. Cassidy and Assemblyman William S. Scott of that city, providing for the doing away of all present cemeteries which the city and county governments deem necessary. There are provisions whereby owners of lots shall have ample notice to remove bodies interred but in case they fail to take this action within a specified time the city and county shall do it and recover the expenses by a lien and sale of the lot or lots in question.

The city can collect all costs incurred from the person or association, and, in case of suit brought to recover the amount expended, shall have the right to attach any assets of such person or corporation, notwithstanding the existence of any lien as provided for in the act.

The expense or costs of removal under the act are held to be those of the actual cost of removing or exhuming the bodies, the actual cost of removing stones, headstones or monuments from the lot or lots, together with the cost of reinterring the bodies and the cost to the city of the lot or plot within which the body or bodies are reinterred.

This act was drawn up in the office of the city and county attorney for San Francisco, and is so drawn that the city can do away with all cemeteries within its limits.

Would Vote on Bills at Present Session

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 18.—That all emergency measures shall be passed up to Governor Johnson and that all other measures introduced into the legislature shall be passed as soon as possible was the decision reached late yesterday by a joint committee of both houses, which met to consider the matter. In this decision it appears that no attention is to be paid to the implied idea that bills can only be introduced at this first part of the bifurcated session and passed during the second part.

There is a proviso in the resolution the committee will make Monday to the legislature, whereby legislation is held up if the members wish it. This is that no bill can be taken up for passage in the Senate at this first part of the session if five Senators do not wish it, and the same is true in the Assembly if ten Assemblymen desire to hold up any measure.

Seeks Uniform System of Milk Inspection

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 18.—In order that all cities of the state of the fourth class may have a uniform system of milk and dairy inspection and be sure of a clean milk supply, Senator Prescott F. Cogswell will introduce Monday a bill state-wide in its effect. This bill provides that all cities shall have uniform regulations, and it has the support of the dairymen as well as that of city health officials.

By its provisions a milk commission is to be appointed in each city by the mayor, consisting of the city health officer, a reputable physician, a veterinarian and two practical dairymen. This commission shall have power to inspect all dairies and cows from which milk is sent to the city the board represents.

One feature which is appreciated by the dairymen is that the herds are to be first given a physical examination for tuberculosis, and if any animals are found to be affected by the disease they are to be segregated. If milk from the remaining cows of such a segregated herd is still found to have tubercular germs, then the tuberculin test will be applied. The test will be used only in such cases after the physical examination has failed to reveal the presence of tuberculosis. It is not believed that this method of testing herds will result in any added danger to the milk consumers and it will be a safeguard to the dairymen.

New Joint Rules Are Cause of Merry Row

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 18.—For more than an hour yesterday the Assembly held a debate on the workings or failure to work of the new joint rules and the inability of the house to get committee rooms.

Assemblymen Milton L. Schmitt, William S. Scott and Harry Polsley took the stand that the Assembly has been in session for twelve days and more than 400 bills have been introduced, yet only fourteen have been returned from the printer, and none of those were to be found on the desks.

Assemblyman Frank Smith of Oakland arose to defend the committee on revision and printing, which has caused the delay, and Speaker Young left the chair and took his seat on the floor of the house to enter into the debate.

"If we take an adjournment until Monday, by that time every bill will be in the files," said Young, "and the committees should get down to work by then. There is no question of our right to pass bills at this first period of the session, and bills that have no great interest to the public should be acted upon finally before the expiration of thirty days."

Speaker Young included only those bills that have no great interest to the public. The administration is trying to rush through at this period the revenue and taxation measure to make up the state deficit, a measure in which the taxpayers of the state take a great interest.

Assemblymen Bohnett, Hinkle and Stuckenbruck were named on a committee to work with a like committee from the Senate to determine just what bills may be rushed through at this session of the legislature and which should be given consideration by the people during the interim.

Single Tax Provided for in Amendment

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 18.—A constitutional amendment that is a step toward single tax was proposed in the house by Assemblyman George Gelder of Alameda county. Gelder's amendment provides that any county, city or town may exempt from taxation improvements in, on or over land, shipping, household furniture, livestock, merchandise, machinery, tools, farming implements, vehicles and other personal property except franchises.

The effect of the amendment will be to tax land and franchises only. Gelder made his campaign on a platform having the amendment he proposes as one of its planks and he says he will make a determined fight to have his pet proposition submitted to the people at a constitutional amendment election, which it now appears certain will have to be held.

BOOSTERS REHEARSE BANQUET SONGS

What started as the regular meeting of the Progress and Prosperity Committee of the Chamber of Commerce was turned into a Hotel Oakland banquet committee meeting after about twenty minutes last night. After the banquet was mentioned the regular business of the evening was lost sight of and everybody present commenced talking "stunts." New songs were gone over and the lively tunes that so surprised the visiting Rosarians a short time ago were rehearsed.

CALIFORNIA GRAYS TO GIVE ANNUAL DANCE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—The California Grays will hold their annual full-dress military ball at the Fairmont Hotel this evening. They have invited the mayor and city officials, the exposition directors, the officers of the army stationed at the Presidio and Fort Winfield Scott and those of the coast artillery corps, National Guard of California and the Naval Militia.

CLAIMS DAMAGES.

Damages for alleged personal injury in the sum of $5250 are sought by Peter A. Viscovich from Eugene Fritz as the result of an accident at Seventh and Market streets on October 8, 1912. Plaintiff sets forth that the defendant, who was driving an automobile, ran him down. Viscovich was riding a motorcycle at the time.

BLEW SMOKE INTO HER FACE, CHARGE

Wife Alleges Inconsiderate Treatment and Obtains Interlocutory Decree.

"He would sit at the table and smoke a pipe, not a new one either; and he would blow the smoke in my face," was part of the testimony given by Minnie A. Middleton in her suit for divorce against Walter R. Middleton. Superior Judge Wells granted her an interlocutory decree today.

On one occasion when she asked her husband to get her breakfast, she says he told her that he was too busy feeding the bird. Again, she says he refused to get her a glass of water when he was smoking his pipe.

Simon Winkler accused his wife, Hannah, of neglect in the care of their children and of sleeping in the basement. He was awarded an interlocutory decree of divorce today. Winkler testified that his wife also used liquor to excess at times. She said in her own behalf that he had failed to provide and that she was arrested once when she went out to gather some wood for the fire.

Harriet V. Noe testified, in obtaining an interlocutory decree, that A. T. Noe, proprietor of a health resort had forced her to mortgage her property in Oakland and that afterward would have nothing to do with her. Alleged threats that he would burn the place unless she consented to the mortgage were also part of the wife's testimony.

Rudolph Singer has sued Julia Singer on the grounds that she deserted him. Margaret Morin obtained a final decree of divorce today from Napoleon Morin on the grounds of cruelty.

WOULD BAR TRUST SHIPS FROM CANAL

Bill Introduced Against Vessels in Combines, Following Investigation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The first result of the investigation of the so-called ship trust by the House merchant marine committee appeared today as a bill by Representative Humphrey of Washington to bar from the Panama canal all American or foreign vessels in combines and conferences.

Witnesses have told the committee that practically all vessels in the American Atlantic coastwise trade operate in agreement and that the foreign lines in the trade between New York and South America, South Africa, Austria, Japan, China, the Philippines and India have rate and sailing date agreements and rebate and pooling agreements.

"The evidence already produced at these hearings," declared Representative Humphrey today as he presented the bill to the House, "has fully demonstrated that the foreign steamships which carry our commerce are guilty of every charge made against them. The United States is a mere way station for these foreign owned lines. The evidence also has developed the fact that these foreign combines intend to monopolize and control the trade through the Panama canal."

Gay Party Arrested In Poker Game Raid

Fashionable Apartment Is the Scene of Game; Women in the Toils.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Fifteen women and seven men in evening dress were caught at a poker game for high stakes in a police raid upon a fashionable uptown apartment early today. Two detectives, whose identity was unknown to the party, had been cautiously invited to participate in the game and they gave a signal for the police to break in by waving a handkerchief from one of the windows.

TWO STEAMERS ARE AGROUND; ONE SINKS

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Jan. 18.—The coal steamer Evelyn, from Philadelphia to Key West with coal for the navy, was driven hard aground off Cape Henry early today in a southwest gale. Captain Hecker and his crew were taken off safely. The schooner General White from Mobile was driven aground and an unknown schooner was sunk. The crew of the latter was rescued.

HELD UP AND ROBBED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—William Jordan of 1012 Capp street was held up by two men at Eleventh and Harrison streets and robbed of $40. He notified the Mission station.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY TAKES UP THE SLINGSBY RIDDLE

Directs Handwriting Expert to Examine Child's Eyes

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—District Attorney Charles M. Fickert arrived in San Francisco this morning to assume personal charge of the sensational Slingsby baby case. His first move in the matter has been to direct the handwriting expert to make an examination of the eyes of the child and of Lieutenant Charles R. Slingsby, who claims to be his father. Fickert believes that the expert can as readily discern the lines drawn by nature as those drawn by the human hand and that through this means the true parentage of the baby can be established.

Photographs may also be made of the eyes of Lillian Anderson, who Dr. W. W. Fraser of Weaverville declares is the mother, and of Paul Colvin, the Santa Rosa chauffeur and putative father, and these will be compared with the child's eyes. District Attorney Fickert declares that the eyes of Slingsby and of the child are strikingly alike.

ALLEGES FRAUD.

Detective F. F. Phillips, acting in behalf of the English relatives who are opposing the legitimacy of the alleged Slingsby heir, asserted in a sworn statement to Assistant District Attorney Ferrari yesterday that he believes a huge fraud has been perpetrated upon the State Board of Health, the district attorney's office and the Slingsbys in England.

Phillips secured the affidavits from Dr. W. W. Fraser, Mrs. O. H. Blain and others, upon the basis of which the State Board of Health ordered the birth certificate of the infant changed. This change officially stamped Lilliam Anderson and Paul Colvin as the parents in place of Mrs. Dorothy Slingsby and Lieutenant Slingsby. Dr. Fraser in his testimony at the State Board of Health inquiry said:

"Mrs. Dorothy Morgan Cutler Slingsby was not the mother of the child. I altered the birth certificate for her. I wanted to save a poor unfortunate girl from shame and give an illegitimate waif a good home."

DR. FRASER "BROKE."

"Dr. Fraser was first approached by me in October, 1910," was the testimony of Phillips. He would not make an affidavit that he had altered the birth certificate. I made daily calls at his office, however, and each time he refused to acknowledge the change. Finally, along toward the end of the following February, Dr. Fraser came to the office.

"He had been getting so badly broke that I had been doling out quarters to him with which to get his meals. On arriving at the office he declared he was ready to swear that he had altered the birth certificate of the Anderson baby, so as to make it appear that the Slingsbys were the parents. We had been trying to get a statement out of Mrs. Blain for quite a while, but had been unsuccessful. We knew she could give important testimony. We sent out men detectives, women detectives and even some folks who were acquainted with her, but all without avail. One of the women detectives she practically threw down stairs.

ENTER MRS. BLAIN.

"We asked Dr. Fraser to ask Mrs. Blain over the telephone to come down and make a statement. He did so. And, sure enough, about a half-hour later she arrived.

"Both of them made the affidavits we had been trying so long to get."

On the conclusion of the making of Phillips' deposition, which the assistant district attorney declared, along with that of Dr. Alfred E. Spaulding, who declared Mrs. Slingsby was the mother of a fully developed child, were extremely important links in favor of the reputed parent, the official announcement was made that the investigation now in progress would not be abandoned in view of the coming preliminary hearing of Dr. Fraser, but that it would be pressed throughout the time intervening before the calling of the Fraser case.

Ferrari declared he was especially desirous of reopening his questioning of Mrs. Blain. From her he had gained the impression that the substitution statements were made to the agents of the English Slingsbys shortly after the birth of the baby. It has been Mrs. Blain's story all along, both to the State Board of Health and to the assistant district attorney, that a prematurely born child came to Mrs. Slingsby at the end of three months. The Anderson baby, she claims, was obtained at Dr. Fraser's when the infant was three days old.

SPOKE OF "FINE SON."

Ferrari received a letter during the day from Dr. W. F. Snow, secretary of the State Board of Health, in which the following excerpt from testimony of Mrs. Slingsby was given:

"Just before the christening of the baby at the Goodfriend Hotel September 27th Dr. Fraser spoke to me, hinting in a strange manner that he was greatly in need of funds, and although I owed him nothing, should assist him financially."

Mrs. Slingsby also testified that the doctor had a number of remarks about "the fine son she had."

The Assistant District Attorney made the following declaration as to the possibility of prosecution growing out of evidence he gathered during the day.

"If it develops there was a conspiracy, none will be too high to be prosecuted. Indictments will be asked for doctors, attorneys, nurses, detectives and all, and the punishment will be pushed to the limit."

Although it had been reported that Mrs. Kate Gregory, sister of Lillian Anderson, had been in this city recently, word came from Sacramento that she had remarried and gone to live in Michigan.

TAFT TO RESIGN HIS FELLOWSHIP

Would Be His Own Employer as Professor at Yale.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 18.—While the officers of Yale University have not been informed of his intentions, it is thought likely that at the corporation meeting next Monday, President Taft will resign as a fellow upon accepting the formal tender of the Kent professorship of law.

It is understood that the President feels that he does not wish to be his own employer, although the governing rules of the university are not conclusive on the point whether a professor may also serve as a fellow or a fellow accept a chair.

President Taft was re-elected a fellow last June for a six-year term.

14 COUNTY RECORDERS MEET IN SACRAMENTO

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 18.—Fourteen county recorders of the state met this morning in annual session and talked "shop." The Torrens land act, affecting titles, was discussed, the workings of the act being explained by Attorney Robinson of San Francisco.

Edmond Godchaux of San Francisco, as president of the association, presided over the meeting.

BURGLAR FRIGHTENED OFF.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—A burglar smashed the plate glass in the front door of Mrs. Victor Anderson, 372 Frederick street, last night and made an effort to open the catch. He was frightened off by the approach of F. P. Woofter of 376 Frederick street, who discovered the shattered pane. The Anderson family were at home at the time.

REAL 'UNCLE SAM' DIES AT WINDSOR

Col. Ellsworth M. Phelps Often Taken for National Prototype.

WINDSOR, Conn., Jan 18 — Colonel Ellsworth M. Phelps, who bore such a remarkable resemblance to the caricatures of "Uncle Sam" that he was widely known, died at his home here yesterday He was more than six feet tall and as straight as a ramrod His resemblance to the national prototype was so striking that he blocked traffic in Pennsylvania avenue, when he first visited Washington. He was a veteran of the Civil War, and rode with Sheridan in the Shenandoah Valley on that memorable twenty-mile ride to Winchester, until his horse collapsed He was 87 years old, and died in the house where he was born.

LETTER ADDRESSED TO MAN 20 YEARS DEAD

DIXON, Jan. 18.—Postmaster B. F Newby received a letter Monday from a North Carolina Postoffice addressed to an old settler who has been dead twenty years. The letter was addressed to Silveryville postoffice, an office that was discontinued forty-five years ago, with the instructions to the postmaster that if not delivered to the addressee it was to be given to the nearest of kin.

Postmaster Newby, being an old resident of this locality and knowing all the parties, had no trouble in delivering the letter to the sister of the addressee

A remarkable feature is how the letter ever reached its destination forty-five years after the office addressed had been discontinued.

KILLS TEACHER BEFORE PUPILS

Bloody Tragedy Enacted in Sight of Children at School.

HONOLULU, Jan. 18.—While the children in a little country schoolhouse near here were quietly conning their lessons yesterday, Manuel Fernandez entered the schoolroom and killed his wife, Johanna Fernandez, the teacher, with a shotgun. Scattering buckshot wounded seven children, one dangerously. Fernandez then shot and killed himself. Jealousy on the part of the husband caused the crime.

The defendant is the Granite Rock Company. Mrs. Palmer alleges that employes of the company left an excavation for a culvert open, and this brought about the mishap to the machine. The trouble occurred at night, and it was claimed that no light was left to warn travelers of the danger.

AIMS BLOW AT POWDER TRUST

Bill Sets Maximum Rate to Be Paid for Explosive Article.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—A drastic provision aimed at the so-called powder trust, following testimony alleging that the Dupont Powder Company maintains a lobby here and spends hundreds of thousands of dollars in Washington, features the fortification appropriation bill reported to the House yesterday.

The bill, which carries an aggregate of $5,218,260, directs that no part of the appropriation shall be expended "for powder, other than small arms powder, at a price in excess of 53 cents a pound."

Both the army and navy powder plants at Picatinny arsenal and Indian Head respectively, are making powder at much less than the 60 cents which the government now pays per pound to the Dupont Powder Company of Wilmington, Del.

Robert S. Waddell, representing the Hoynes Safety Powder Company of Cleveland, O., charged in testimony before the appropriations committee that the Dupont company kept on the Potomac river for some time the private yacht of T. C. Dupont

"That yacht," said Waddell, "the skipper told me, was for general entertainment purposes and made excursions between Washington and Indian Head."

Waddell testified that he did not know of any money being spent in corrupting any government official by the Dupont people, but said that army and navy officers came in direct contact with Senator Henry A Dupont, chairman of the Senate committee on military affairs, whose position "gives him strong influence compared with that of an outside manufacturer." He cited instances where he said "the intimacy and confidence grown up between the Dupont people and the officials resulted in lax inspection" in the Dupont plant

Waddell said the Dupont company maintained in Washington Colonel Edmund G. Buckner, vice-president of the company and the president of the International Smokeless Powder Company, who "devotes his entire time and attention to Washington business."

Waddell charged that there was a complete monopoly in the United States in ordnance and smokeless powders, in rifle and shotgun smokeless sporting powders, that he knew of but one independent mine blasting powder company, and that the five or six dynamite companies all had the same prices, that about eighty companies combined into the Dupont trust, and that for years when "the trust wants to drive competitors out of business it reduces the prices in that district and gets its revenue from other sources."

Colonel Buckner, as vice-president of the Dupont company, told the committee that the Waddell charges were a network of falsehoods, and denied the charges in detail.

The fortifications bill would provide $820,000 for defense work at home, $2,693,000 for fortification armament, and $1,502,350 for fortifications in the insular possessions. Hawaiian coast batteries would get $70,000; Philippine seacoast batteries, $700,000; ammunition for seacoast cannons, $400,000; submarine mines and appliances in the insular possessions, $88,662; Sandy Hook, N. J., proving grounds, $74,900.

LEGAL TANGLE OVER SMALL DOG

Rights of American Citizen Is Questioned and the Law Invoked in Fight.

MAYFIELD, Jan. 18.—Over a small mongrel dog there has arisen here a question of the rights of American citizens, the law has been invoked and a municipal upheaval precipitated. Threats and counter threats are breathed.

William Saliceti, 136 Sheridan street, owns a scraggly haired dog, which has a bad reputation. After several pedestrians and bicyclists had been attacked Saliceti agreed to keep the dog chained. But he had not figured on his mother. The dog lifted his voice in lugubrious howl and out of sympathy Mrs. Saliceti untied the chain and turned it loose.

That night another citizen went home with torn trousers and he determined to have his revenge. He laid his case before Justice of the Peace Van Buren. The magistrate laid the case before the town trustees. As Town Attorney Besley was not present the trustees did not want to assume the legal responsibility of exterminating a dog, so instructed Marshal Bradshaw to refer the complaint to the board of health. The health board refused to take up the question.

Unless the town authorities take action the indignant citizens vow they will take the law in their own hands. If they do the mother of the owner of the dog says she is ready to protect her property.

SHOW HAMMOND WAS CONNECTED WITH MILLS

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—In the trial of the government's suit to collect $211,000 from A. B. Hammond, the value of timber alleged to have been cut on public land in Montana in 1885-86 by Hammond's agents, Special Assistant Attorney-General Frank Hall Thursday read several depositions to show Hammond's connection with the mills on the Big Blackfoot creek and vicinity. William Cook, formerly in the employment of the Northern Pacific Railway, deposed that under contract with the defendant he built a switch to the mills and hauled logs from public lands to the mills.

Depositions from Charles W. Helmick and George K. Reed, special agents of the land department, deposed that they cruised and scaled the lands cut over by the Hammon interests, and found that the trees had been cut not for the purposes of agricultural clearing, but for lumbering.

Attorney Hall announced that the government would strike out of the case certain sections of land, which would reduce the government's claim against Hammond considerably.

DRAWINGS READY FOR CITY HALL

New Plans Submitted to San Francisco Board by Architects.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—Preliminary drawings of the new City Hall were submitted yesterday by the consulting architects to the Board of Public Works, with the request that they be approved and that the Board of Supervisors be asked to authorize the letting of contracts for construction. The Works Board adopted the resolutions suggested.

These drawings are not complete and are subject to some modification, the consulting architects state, but are presented now so that a contract for the steel work may be entered into without delay. Bids for the steel will be solicited on a tonnage basis, and when the contractor is ready to begin work on the steel frame the architects will have the detailed drawings ready Several months will be saved by this course.

The contract for grading the City Hall site, bounded by Van Ness avenue, McAllister, Polk and Grove streets, will be awarded in a short time, after bids have been obtained and the contract for the foundation and fireproofing will follow.

The consulting architects are making progress with the plans for the auditorium, which is to be built on the block that the city bought from the Mechanics' Institute, bounded by Hayes, Larkin, Grove and Polk streets. They have constructed a working model, which enables them to study the treatment of the interior of this vast structure It is estimated that the auditorium will hold 11,000 persons. The preliminary sketches indicate that it will be a beautiful ornament for the civic center

According to Mr. Stefansson, $22,500 has been promised by the National Geographical Society and a like amount by the American Museum of National History of New York.

The party intends to leave San Francisco or Seattle next May, landing in the winter base in Prince Patrick late in August The expedition expects to return in 1916. Dr. R. M. Anderson of Iowa, who was with Stefansson on his last trip, will be second in command.

BRANDT TO BEGIN LIFE OVER AGAIN

Promises Not to Revive Slander on Pain of Losing Pardon.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—After serving six of the thirty years to which he was sentenced for burglary at the home of Mortimer L. Schiff, where he was a servant, Foulke E. Brandt left for the West on an early morning train today, to enjoy the freedom of the pardon granted his yesterday by Governor Sulzer, because the sentence was excessive.

Brandt was accompanied by United States Senator Nelson of Minnesota, and he will stop first at Washington before going to Minnesota to begin life anew. A large number of members of Swedish societies were at the Pennsylvania station to shake his hand and wish him luck.

Brandt very assiduously followed the instructions of Governor Sulzer that he should not discuss his case. He has been warned that if he does discuss the slanderous statements previously made, which he retracted publicly yesterday, or seeks to gain any notoriety by either writing of his case, or appearing on the stage, the pardon will be revoked.

PURCHASES CONTROL IN SANTA ROSA BANK

SANTA ROSA, Jan. 18.—Attorney William H. Early of Petaluma purchased the holdings of capital stock of President William D. Reynolds, Cashier Frank M. Burris, Jess Burris and Mrs. Julia Burris in the Santa Rosa bank yesterday. The deal carries with it over 300 shares, and is the largest single banking transaction Sonoma county has ever known. The purchase of this stock carries with it the controlling interest in the financial institution, which is one of the largest and oldest in this section of the state

Attorney Early will continue his law business in Petaluma, where he has an extensive practice, and others will direct the financial institution. The Burris interests were the founders of the bank, and they have always maintained the controlling interest until the present time. Attorney Early has been a director of the bank for the past four years.

COMMITTEE TO HOLD SESSION NEXT WEEK

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—A conference of the mayor's advisory committee and the Spring Valley directors' committee, to continue the negotiations relative to the purchase of the Spring Valley system by this city, has been set for next Monday at 10:30 o'clock in Mayor Rolph's office. The mayor desired it to take place yesterday, but Attorney E. J. McCutchen of the Spring Valley committee was ill at a sanatorium and Curtis H. Lindley of the city advisory committee was obliged to stay at home on account of a severe cold. Mayor Rolph has been suffering from an attack of grip, but the pressure of official business has kept him at the city hall as usual daily.

NEW SEARCHLIGHTS ILLUMINE STORY

Tale of Walter Hobart's Red Auto and the Hillsboro Bus.

HILLSBORO, Jan. 18.—The new 14-inch searchlights for Walter Hobart's automobile arrived yesterday and the "red dragon" is again chugging around the streets. It might well be said that they are some lights, because ere they sent out a single beam they shed light on a bit of loungingroom gossip that has furnished many a laugh at the Pacific Union and Burlingame Country clubs

It was the morning after the fashionable Breeden ball at the Burlingame Country Club, so the story goes, when Hobart, dressed in a charming Periot costume, tried to induce his automobile to start against its wishes. It positively refused. Finally he hitched it to the back of the club bus, Hobart in his clown's garb at the wheel of an automobile drawn by a horse and buggy, making a delightful early morning spectacle.

The real joy came with a hill The machine plunged ahead and politely pushed the propelling appurtenances through a hedge. At this the driver refused to be the "goat" for the polo player's cart any longer. Hobart drew a pistol and said: "Will we go or will we not?" They went, and the machine got enough momentum to start the engine. This ended the daylight parade.

However, Hobart's machine has been without lights since. They were sacrificed when the balky auto pushed the buggy through the hedge, and the substitutes have just arrived.

The clubmen like to tell of the big searchlights of Hobart's machine and how late at night, after an evening at the club, they are two moons instead of one, they say: "Don't be alarmed, old chap; it is only Walter's machine coming over the brow of the hill."

M. C. CHAPMAN President

Fitzgerald's Union Ferry Building Bill.

The bill which Assemblyman George F. Fitzgerald, a former member of the City Council under the old charter and now representing the Thirty-ninth Assembly District, has introduced at the present session of the State Legislature, providing for the erection of a union ferry building on the municipal waterfront in the Key Route basin, is one of those measures which needs to be carefully scrutinized before it receives any official endorsement or popular support from any source on the eastern side of San Francisco. From the published summary of the purposes of the bill, it may be pronounced to be, apparently at least, one of the most dangerous measures which could be possibly framed against the preservation of the control of Oakland's waterfront by the municipality, for it contemplates putting any union ferry building erected on this side of the bay under the complete jurisdiction of the State Board of San Francisco Harbor Commissioners. The bill provides that this assumption of State jurisdiction over the waterfront ceded to Oakland shall be resumed by the ingenious proposition that the State Board of Harbor Commissioners shall only grant privileges to such persons or corporations as shall carry passengers to and from the union ferry depot in San Francisco and the union ferry depot at some other city on the bay shore. It also provides that the lands leased by the various railroad companies on the eastern shore of the bay and the piers erected thereon shall be used for freight purposes only. The handling of passengers and the maintenance of passenger depots thereon are prohibited.

To the lineal extent of the water frontage leased to the railroad corporations for freight and passenger purposes it is plain that any statute enacted which excluded any part of these waterfront leaseholds from devotion to the passenger traffic (if valid) and forced the passenger business to a union depot erected on the waterfront property reserved by the municipality for its own uses, would increase the power of the railroad corporations to expand their commercial facilities and completion against the city which is spending millions of dollars for the improvement of the waterfront it has retained for general commercial uses and for the sake of the revenues and other benefits to the community to be derived therefrom.

The correct policy for the State to pursue regarding the waterfront of Oakland is absolute non-interference with its management by the municipality. Up to the time the State relinquished control of the waterfront and transferred its title to Oakland to some four hundred acres of the submerged tidelands on the western shore, it never spent a dollar in the improvement thereof, nor in the defense of its ownership during the fifty and odd years it was in litigation.

On the other hand, since the title to the waterfront has been quieted and legally vested in Oakland, the latter has started public improvements on the property which is costing now $2,500,000 and which will cost to expand over $20,000,000 more probably in the next ten years.

Oakland is not seeking any kind of State partnership in the development of its waterfront. If at any time in future it may be found necessary to erect a union ferry depot for the convenience of other transportation companies that may desire to use the waterfront, Oakland will erect such a building at its own cost and will also regulate its uses, fix the rentals and collect the revenues without any inter-meddling by the San Francisco State Harbor Commission. The jurisdiction of that commission does not span the bay and it is of vital interest to the future welfare of the cities on the east bay shore, particularly to Oakland, that any attempt made to so extend it, such as is apparently contemplated in the Fitzgerald bill, shall be frustrated.

Now that the Gubernatorial bee has got in the bonnet of the Hon. J. W. Stuckenbruck, better known as the blacksmith of Acampo, we hope he will forgive the lark and let him live.

A Swindle That Went Wrong.

A Terre Haute hotel man named Fox has created a great stir at Hot Springs, Ark., by claiming that he was buncoed out of $20,000 in a local gambling joint known as the Indiana Club. He threatens to put a stop to gambling in Hot Springs if his money is not returned to him.

The circumstances of the case are interesting because they illustrate the cupidity and dishonesty sure-thing men appeal to in swindling their dupes. Here is Fox's own story of how he was swindled:

"Last Thursday myself and a number of gentlemen were seated in the lobby of the hotel, when Mr. James came up to us. Ward was acquainted with one of the gentlemen in the party. I was presently called off to one side. Mr. Ward explained to me that his brother-in-law was assistant manager of the Indiana Club. He stated that his brother-in-law's name was Joe Denton. It was explained to me that Denton had fixed a roulette wheel in the Indiana Club so that he and Ward could win some money, provided he would bring some men along, men of considerable means, so that it would look like these men had a chance to win.

"I came to Hot Springs with Ward last Friday. Upon arrival it was explained and demonstrated that it would be possible to win. This conference took place in the ladies' parlor of the Indiana Club. On Friday evening, about 7:30 o'clock, the play started. I won $26,800 in about fifteen minutes. This was to be deposited in a local bank to be divided between five in the crowd, including a friend of mine, Ward, the dealer, Joe Denton and myself."

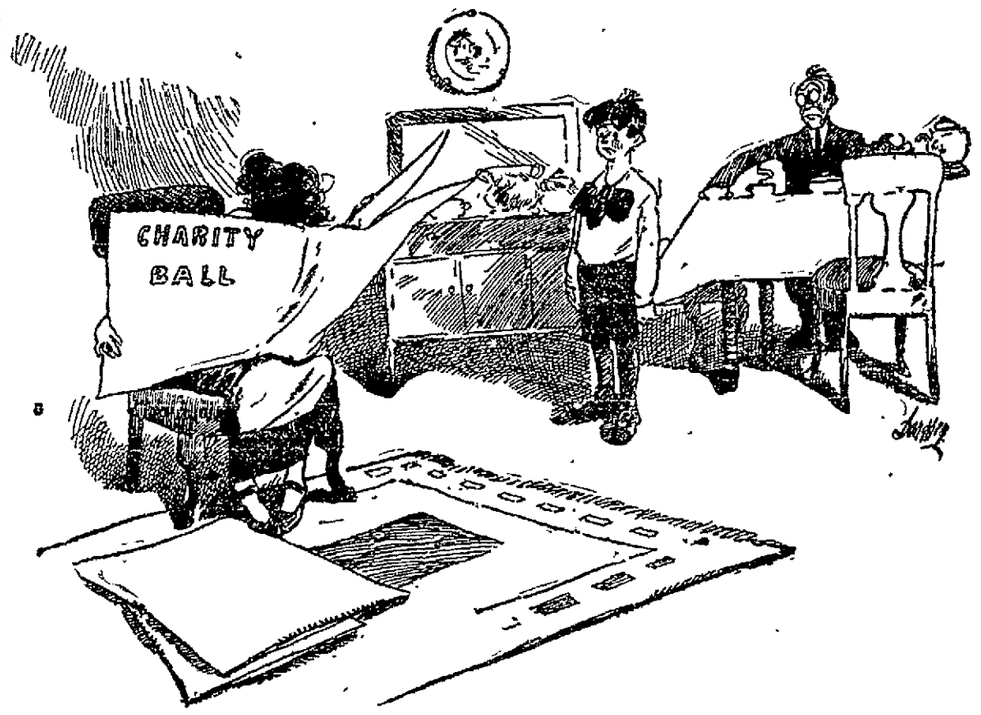

Fox explains that when he won his money was refused him, the statement being made, he alleges, that the club declined to pay until he could prove that had he lost he would have been able to make good. He states he later cashed his own check for $20,000, which he had tendered when he claims he started to play the wheel, and that after he had deposited the $20,000, the amount of his check, he received from the Indiana Club a due bill for $46,700, covering the amount of his check and the $26,700 he alleges he won. Continuing, Mr. Fox says:

"Upon later presenting the due bill I was told the club did not have any money to meet the same, but would send out and get it. Ward and the rest of us retired into an adjoining apartment, where we had a bottle of wine. I was awaiting the return of the money. Ward left the room and is supposed to have played the due bill in one of the games and lost."

Of course Fox fell in with a band of thieves, but is he any better than the men who skinned him? He played because he believed one of the men connected with the gambling house had fixed the roulette wheel so he could win without taking any chances. He was in on a sure-thing proposition—a scheme, in short, to swindle the gamblers who ran the Indiana joint. Had he, like an honest man, refused to be a party to a crooked and dishonorable job he would not have been victimized. He was robbed while trying to rob others. An honest man would not have fallen into the trap he fell into. The thieves he encountered were slicker than he was, but their hook was baited with a lure that would never tempt an honest man.

Patsy Carroll, a well-known sure-thing man who died in Oakland a few years ago, used to say that it was crooks and not suckers that he played for. "You can't sell a gold brick or green goods to a man who is not willing to steal," he was wont to say. "We show a fellow how he can rob somebody else and then we skin him." That is Fox's case precisely. He went out to bite and got bitten. It was a case of dog eat dog.

HEALTH AND TELEPHONE

With the development of modern transportation it was said that the oceans no longer separated America from Europe and Asia, but served to connect them In a similar way it may be said that telephones have helped to bring physicians and patients together

It is striking to note in the Telephone Review that while the 1911 population per square mile in the United States was 30, the number of telephones per 100 population was 8 1. It is very noteworthy that the United States contains within its boundaries almost three-fourths of all the telephones there are in the world

The telephone has been a mighty factor in improving the health and welfare of the community Health bureaus have been able to accomplish their work more rapidly and effectively by use of the telephone. Ambulance service has been developed to a high state of efficiency through the accessibility of telephones in all parts of the community. Rapidity of service, with promptness in phoning, have served to save many lives that otherwise might have been lost.

The private practitioner, it is true, has suffered a marked decrease in his emergency calls through the recognition of the value of ambulance service and the case with which one may be summoned by telephones In fact, the doctor's phone is frequently used to call the ambulance. Only a few years ago the nearest physician was called for minor conditions at all hours of the night. Today the telephone saves many a long and needless journey. Frequently, because of the knowledge and appreciation that a physician may be quickly summoned by phone in case of real necessity, the doctor is not called at all, as some transitory condition has disappeared before morning

In contrast to this small loss is the gain through telephone visits in lieu of office calls Such phone visits may be regarded as office visits, on the ground that if telephones did not exist it would be necessary for the patient to seek advice at the office.

Undoubtedly the telephone has enabled patients to cling to their family physician after moving from his original sphere of influence, whereas, if there were no telephones, such loyalty would have been impossible. Professor Bell and others who followed him in developing the telephone system added greatly to the comfort, happiness, progress and welfare of society, in all of which the physician has had his share

CAUSE OF PELLAGRA

There are two views as to the cause of pellagra. According to one, pellagra is a disease caused by an undue use of corn in the diet or by the use of spoiled corn. This view places pellagra in the same class with beriberi and scurvy. According to the other view pellagra is an infectious disease, the infecting agent being as yet unknown. From a consideration of the facts at hand in regard to the occurrence of pellagra in general, Sambon felt warranted in asserting that certain species of black fly or sand-fly are carriers of the infection, but so far no convincing evidence has been obtained to support Sambon's view.

Recently the idea has been advanced that pellagra may be due to an infection of the intestinal canal and that a diet insufficient in animal protein may aid in the development of the disease. This conception rests on the frequent occurrence in pellagra of inflammation and ulceration of the intestinal lining, on evidences of a general intoxication, and on the fact that the diet in hospitals for the insane in which pellagra has developed, and of the Italian peasantry which has suffered so greatly from the disease, has been rather low in animal protein. If this theory is correct, pellagra can be prevented by means of proper diet or by the prevention of the infection, whatever its nature may be, and most effectively by the combination of these methods. So many cases of pellagra have been discovered in the insane hospitals of the United States during the last few years, and it is so difficult to control the diet of the individual insane patient that it would seem evident that measures to prevent any possible infection should not be neglected. If pellagra is infectious, then one source of the infection, and probably the most important, according to The Journal of the American Medical Association, is the pellagrous patient, so that the necessity of preventing the spread of the infection by direct and indirect means needs no emphasis.

CARTHAGE DISAPPEARING

Nowadays the last vestige of ancient Carthage are rapidly disappearing before the vandalism of builders and property owners who cater for the well-to-do French, Italians, Greeks and Arabs of Tunis, and the pillage fills French archaeologists, artists and historians with grief and indignation, especially as France holds a protectorate over Tunis

The final downfall of Carthage was effected by the Saracens in 697 of our era. But in modern times two younger towns, Tunis and Goulette, rose beside the dead city, which they pillaged to provide material for their expansion.

The great mosque of Tunis, for example, has 150 columns taken from Carthage. Many private houses in Tunis are built of marble from the same source. The fort of Goulette was rebuilt in 1535 with vestiges of the illustrious town from the marbles of which Italian ships at one time took return freight, using parts of Carthage as mere ballast.

A new Carthage has arisen not far from the old Its hotels, villas and other buildings are formed of the debris of pagan temples and Byzantine basilicas, and to build the Palace of Dermech the ancient forum was broken up

In 1904 the whole district of the venerable city, ruins included, was sold for 5 francs the square metre. The next year a similar operation took place. Nothing remains of the colossal marble staircase that was seen and admired as lately as 1884, nothing of the temple of Astarte.

The mosaics have either been wantonly destroyed by the fellahs or taken away and sold piecemeal, and if any beautiful bits remained travelers sacrificed them to the taste for souvenirs.—New York Telegram.

STORIES OF PLACES

Census reports from the Panama canal zone give the population there today as 63,810, of which about 42,000 are employes of the canal commission, the Panama railroad and of the various canal contractors. Generally speaking, the soil is not suitable for farming. It is not likely that Americans will be attracted and since other occupants than Americans, for obvious reasons, are not desirable, Colonel Goethals is in favor of the depopulation of the zone, except so far as it will be occupied by canal operatives and by the military necessary for the protection of the canal.

Until two years ago Montenegro had never possessed a properly equipped theater, the bands of strolling players in the country being reduced to shift for accommodation as best they could. This want was remedied at the time of the coronation of King Nicholas, when a small theater was opened in Cettinje. His majesty chose for his drama a title which now sounds prophetic—"The Empress of the Balkans."

STARVED FOR FEATHERS

Switches, puffs and other female adornments demand large consignments of feathers. That thousands of albatrosses have been imprisoned to die of starvation by Japanese feather poachers in the Hawaiian Islands was told by Dr. Homer R. Dill of the University of Iowa in an address before the meeting of the National Association of Audubon societies.

He has recently returned from the Pacific and states that these birds each year collect in countless numbers to rear their young on Laysan Island, now a United States Bird reservation. They grow fat from inaction and much eating and are easily captured. By placing them in dry cisterns, where no food is available, the fat becomes absorbed by the time the birds die. This makes the skinning easy and the feathers are rendered more salable.

Twenty-three of the agents of the feather trade were captured some time ago and taken to Honolulu for trial The Audubon Society is planning to protect these birds in future by means of agents

"The last year we employed about fifty wardens to guard great nesting colonies of water birds throughout North America, and at least 2,000,000 birds thus dwelt in safety from the millinery hunters," said T. Gilbert Pearson, national Audubon secretary. "There seems to be no limit to which the feather manufacturers will not go in their desire to get bird feathers with which to trim women's hats."—Exchange

INDICTMENTS ARE FOUND BY JURY

Fresno County Officials Must Face Charges of Embezzlement.

FRESNO, Jan. 18.—Two indictments against William R. Odom, Justice of the Peace at Coalinga, former assemblyman from that district and a well-known fraternal man of the state, charging embezzlement of public funds amounting to $30, was returned by the grand jury in their report filed late yesterday afternoon with Superior Judge Austin. Bench warrants were immediately issued and a deputy sheriff was sent to the sanatorium where Odom is confined, having recently undergone an operation for appendicitis.

Odom is very low and the attending physician refused to allow the deputy to serve the warrant. Friends in the meantime are busy trying to raise the necessary $6000 bonds so that Odom will not have to be taken to jail on his recovery.

The offenses are alleged to have been committed last November. Each charge specifies that he embezzled $15.

The report says that after careful investigation the police force of the city is found to be inadequate and ten additional patrolmen are recommended. The grand jury also recommended advances in the salary of public officials and their deputies.

LINER FIRED ON, DECLARES OFFICER

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—The Pacific Mail liner San Juan, which was fired upon by an American hater at Acapulco on her southward voyage, reached here yesterday afternoon from the lower coast with an alarming story of the crimes and atrocities of the banditti in the Mexican republic.

The officers of the steamer and principally First Assistant Engineer L. B. Gordon had good reason to believe that the presence of an American gunboat in Mexican waters would be an excellent thing, and were delighted with the news that Washington had dispatched the cruiser Denver to the trouble zone on the west coast.

Gordon was the near victim of one of the bullets fired upon the San Juan as she lay in the harbor of Acapulco November 23. The leaden pellet struck the engineer in the left side, narrowly missing his heart.

Passengers and officers of the liner were startled when a hail of bullets, coming from the bluff near the fort of Acapulco, a quarter of a mile away, began to strike the steamer's sides and drop into the water. For a time they thought that the Mexican fort was making a concentrated attack upon the American ship, and Captain Frazier feared a panic among his passengers and crew.

Several of the bullets struck various parts of the ship, driving every one to cover. First Assistant Engineer Gordon, standing near a companionway, suddenly threw up his arms and pitched unconscious to the deck, bleeding from a severe wound in his side. He was immediately cared for by the ship's surgeon, while Captain Frazier, when the fusillade of shots ceased, sent a boat ashore to investigate the outrage.

Vice-Consul Penguin came off to the ship and later made an investigation ashore. He found that the shots had been fired by Dr. Avalis, a druggist, who said that he was indulging in target practice from one of the hills of the town. His explanation of the shooting, which the officers of the San Juan declared could only have been intentional, was discredited by the authorities and the sharpshooter was placed under arrest.

Nearly a dozen rifle shots were fired by Avalis, who, it is said, has a maniacal hatred for Americans. The investigatiors were of the belief that the Mexican soldiers at the fort had nothing to do with the shooting, but a full report of the sensational affair, which nearly resulted in a tragedy, was sent to Washington by the consular representative.

The day the San Juan put into Acapulco on her homeward voyage refugees were hurrying into the town from the interior, with terrible tales of outrages inflicted by bands of thieves and murderers roving the country. Back of Acapulco the smaller towns are at the mercy of the banditti, who openly commit rapine and murder, while they sack and burn the stores and abodes of the people, according to those on the San Juan.

LAW MAY PLACE TAX ON INCOMES

Democrats Expected to Pass a New Bill to Allow Such Taxation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—That a law imposing a tax upon incomes may be enacted by Congress at the coming special session is one of the possibilities which Democratic leaders are now contemplating. It is considered practically certain that such a law will be on the statute books before the end of the next regular session.

Thus far, thirty-four states have ratified the proposed amendment to the Constitution authorizing Congress to levy an income tax. Affirmative action by only two states is now needed to add the new articles to the Constitution. Many legislatures are in session this winter, and Democratic leaders are in communication with state leaders urging ratification.

The proposed amendment to the Constitution provides as follows:

"The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes on incomes from whatever source derived without apportionment among the several states, and without regard to any censure or enumeration."

LA AMITA WORLD'S FINEST

PARKER WHITNEY, CAPITALIST AND AUTHOR, IS DEAD

J. PARKER WHITNEY.

DEATH CLOSES ACTIVE CAREER

Poneer Came West Around the Horn and Later Crossed the Plains.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—J. Parker Whitney, pioneer, author and capitalist, whose career for the past half-century was closely interwoven with the progress and development of the West, died yesterday at the Hotel Del Monte, Monterey. His death, due to the ailments of advanced age—he was 78—followed an illness of many months' duration, and at the end the members of his family, Mrs. Whitney, his two sons and one daughter, were with him.

In all the forms of western enterprise—mining, fruit raising, land reclamation, livestock breeding, ranching—the name of Whitney has been widely known, and in each of these subjects he was an authority.

KNOWN FOR WRITINGS.

In the realm of sport J. Parker Whitney was no less well known, and his writings, particularly upon the subject of angling, his discovery of the salmon fishing in Monterey bay, and fly fishing in the Maine lakes, have been printed in many languages. The Whitney ranch in Placer county, 18,000 acres in extent, and said to be one of the largest single ranch tracts privately owned in the United States, is one of the show places of California.

The son of a prominent New England family, Mr. Whitney was born at Gardner, Mass., June 27, 1834. He was 17 years old when he made his first trip to California by water around the Horn. Later he crossed the plains no less than five times. Following a period of activity in mining in Colorado, where he went in 1865, he was named United States Commissioner to the Paris International Exposition of 1867. In New Mexico he built the Silver City railroad, connecting Silver City with the Santa Fe at Deming.

PIONEER GROWER.

In California he has been actively engaged in sheep raising and fruit growing for the past fifty years. It was he who first demonstrated that oranges could not only be raised in Northern California, but he proved also that the northern orange would ripen from six weeks to two months earlier than the southern orange. He shipped the first car of raisins out of California. In land reclamation one notable work that he did was at Roberts island, in the San Joaquin river.

Following the San Francisco fire, Whitney was one of the first to start the rebuilding of the new city, and the present Whitney building, 133 Geary street, a monument to him, stands on the site of the old Starr King building which he owned.

LITERARY WORK.

Of the literary work, besides his diverse and extensive writings upon subjects of sports, the titles of some of his more serious efforts are "Fresh-Water Tide Lands," "Colonization of Lands," "Citrus Cultivation," "The Greater Future and Welfare of California."

To the end Whitney continued the personal direction of his extensive affairs. The members of the sorrowing family, besides Mrs. Whitney, are his daughter, Mrs. J. C. Wheeler Jr., of San Francisco, Parker Whitney, who has charge of the ranch in Placer county, and Vincent Whitney of San Francisco. The remains arrived in San Francisco today and were taken to the home of Vincent Whitney, 1611 Vallejo street.

NEGRO MURDERER IS HANGED FROM A POLE

PARIS, Texas, Jan. 18.—Henry Mouson, a negro, who shot and killed the 12-year-old daughter of D. Merrell, a farmer, near Pecan Gap, a week ago, was hanged late yesterday from a telegraph pole in a Paris public square by a mob. The negro was taken from the sheriff after he had pleaded guilty and had been sentenced to be hanged.

ATTORNEY WEDS.

PALO ALTO, Jan. 18.—Arthur Hook Brandt, an attorney with offices in the Kohl building, San Francisco, and Miss Ada Morse of Berkeley were married yesterday at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Frederick E. Morgan, 538 Middlefield road. Rev. Mr. Morgan, who is an uncle of the bride, performed the simple ring service of the Baptist church. Brandt has prepared an attractive home in North Berkeley for his bride. Present were Mrs. Frederick E. Morgan Mr. and Mrs. Wyman Morse, Berkeley; Dr. and Mrs. Morse, Berkeley; Miss Sarah Boekenoogen, Benicia, and Miss Effie Brandt and Henry Boekenoogen, San Francisco.

ELOPES WITH FAMILY.

DIXON, Jan 18.—Kite Vaca eloped with the entire family of Bartol Penunery. Penunery was away from home when Vaca drove up in a double-seated carriage for Mrs. Penunery. They went to the schoolhouse and took the four Penunery children also.

NEYLAN AND NYE INDULGE IN ROW

Tax on Corporations Said to Conceal "Nigger in Woodpile."

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 18.—The friction between Governor Johnson and Controller Nye was accentuated yesterday when John F. Neylan, chairman of the board of control, confidential friend and appointee of the governor, gave out a statement sharply taking the controller to task.

Neylan shifts the blame for the present corporation tax system on Nye and declares his woe is all because that system will not fit the needs of the state.

The governor in his message also had a shy fling at this corporation tax system, which, he declared, was letting off the corporations at a far less tax rate than the ordinary taxpayer.

So the breach between the governor and the controller is widening and the quiet knifing goes on apace.

Chairman Neylan's statement is as follows:

"If Mr. Nye is correctly quoted there are several amusing and a couple of inaccurate statements in his interview:

"In the first place, the British peril is entirely new. During the entire three months that the budget was in course of preparation, Mr. Nye was heartily in favor of the idea; met with this board almost daily, and has since been kind enough to say that the estimates for expenditures had been prepared in a businesslike manner for the first time.

"The system as adopted by the board of control is in vogue in every efficiently managed corporation in the United States.

"It seems Mr. Nye was indulging in a little pleasantry whe nhe saw the bugaboo of England's shadow falling over California.

"In the next instance, Mr. Nye is quoted as saying that he recommended only $14,000,000. This is inaccurate, as is shown by his printed copy of the budget, which shows that he recommended exactly $15,943,482.

AMOUNT RECOMMENDED.

"This amount is the exact amount which the state board of control recommended in its budget, and every item in Mr. Nye's budget is identical with every item in the budget of the board.

"At this point it would be well to bear in mind that Mr. Nye is responsible for the present tax system under which the state is experiencing its difficulties. Naturally he wanted to protect the tax system, which has been bitterly criticised.

"Of course, if the facts showed that the pressing needs of the state would require more money than the rates on the corporations would yield, it was elementary that the corporation rates would be increased and the weakness of the system shown.

"On the one hand Mr. Nye had the tax corporations to protect, and on the other hand had to judge the needs of the state institutions and departments.

"If the development of the state institutions and departments is to be halted by the defects of the tax system on corporations, the fact should be made plain.

"The statement ascribed to Mr. Nye, to the effect that individual legislators would have no chance to introduce appropriation bills, is so ridiculous that it is impossible to believe that he was correctly understood.

"Mr. Nye knows that the budget as prepared by the state bard of control, and indorsed by him, is merely advisory and can be entirely disregarded by the legislature if it sees fit.

"It is too bad that he has seen fit to withdraw his support of the system, and the only legal thing which remains for him to do is to withdraw from circulation the budget contained in his biennial report."

DOES NOT DENY AIDING ELOPERS

Intimates That It Was Done for Sake of Her Child.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Mrs. Jordan L. Mott III, whose husband, the son of the millionaire iron merchant, eloped with Mrs. Frances Hewitt Browne about a year ago, said last night that she would not deny a story that she had given her husband financial aid since he left her. Mott, when last heard from, was in Hongkong, China.

Mrs. Mott listened very carefully to the financial aid story as it has been in circulation. Then she said she did not care to discuss her husband.

"Will you deny the story?" she was asked.

"I will not deny it," replied Mrs. Mott.

She was asked whether she was contemplating a suit for divorce. To this question she said:

"I am not just now. I do not care to discuss things relating to my husband or to myself. I have a child, and to say things about him or myself would not do the child any good. I am very sorry this story about my sending money to my husband has got around. But I will not deny it."

FRUIT FLY QUARANTINE.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18. — The House committee on agriculture yesterday agreed to appropriate $70,000 for quarantine against the Mediterranean fruit fly, and the amount will be contained in the agricultural appropriation bill soon to be reported to the House. SAUSALITO WILL FIGHT LIQUOR

All Factions Lining Up for Battle Over Saloon Licenses.

SAUSALITO Jan. 18.—Mobilization of both sides has been begun by the "hill" and "water front" interests of this village in preparation for a fight to a finish over the liquor question. The "high license" proposition, which has been brewing for several months, was brought to a head last night, as a result of a meeting of the Sausalito Board of Trade, and today each side to the controversy is clearing its decks for action.

Holding, as a club, over the heads of the town trustees, copiously signed petitions asking that a local option election be called, the leaders of the "hill" people are prepared to force the issue at once. They demand an increased license, and say they do not propose to have the matter hang fire much longer.

Sausalito, with a population of 2600, now has 26 saloons, paying an annual license of $100 each. The drys propose to raise the fee to such a prohibitory figure that it will limit the saloons to three. Some insist that the license be made $1000, while less radical "hillites" would be content with one-half that figure. Thus the matter has stood for several months, the trustees avoiding the issue at each succeeding meeting.

Last night the Board of Trade met for the avowed purpose of learning once and for all the attitude of its members on the question. The meeting had scarcely been called to order when the storm broke. Several of the saloonkeepers, who, according to their own statements, would be forced out of business if the license fee was trebled, charged openly that three of the owners of "high class" places have "double-crossed" them and are assisting the "hillites" in their fight for a license that would leave only the "big three" in business. No names were called. The charges were promptly disputed and quashed.

A canvass of the trustees shows that they are deadlocked, two favoring a prohibitive license, two against a change and one refusing to take a stand.

Leaders of the "dry" element today exhibited petitions bearing sufficient names to force the calling of a local option election. These, they say, will be filed if their demands are not met by the trustees within a fortnight.

THOROUGHBRED HORSE FOR INAUGURAL PARADE

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—A thoroughbred racing horse will lead the military division of the Wilson inaugural parade. It was learned here today that General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, United States army, had chosen Fort Hunter, which has many brilliant races to its credit, including a victory in the Canadian Derby, as his mount. The horse is a 12-year-old and has been presented to the United States government by the New York Breeding Bureau. It was the product of General Stephen Sanford's Hurricane stud, the son of Potomac and Rockrose.

LOS GATOS, Jan. 18.—Captain and Mrs. E. P. Shuler of Los Gatos celebrated their golden wedding last night with a reception and dance in Masonic Temple. Three special cars were chartered to bring the guests from San Jose and many other friends came from Palo Alto, Los Altos, Santa Clara and Saratoga. The reception began at 7:30 o'clock and the festivities lasted until far into the evening. The Shulers were married January 17, 1863, and have lived in Los Gatos for several years. Both are in the best of health.

CITRUS FRUIT AT HIGHEST PRICES

Importers and Jobbers Are Pleased With Success of Market.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Importers, brokers and jobbers in foreign fruit, particularly lemons, are elated in a way that knows no January parallel. It is because prices commanded by that fruit this week have been the highest ever known for this time of year.

All dealers admit that 10 days ago they anticipated a general advance in values, but none of them in their most liberal forecasts indicated that it would be anything like $4.30, with a level for general offerings around $5.50 a box.

A broker who has been in the business for 30 years declared he never knew of such January prices before. The supply of the foreign fruit is fully if not a little more than normal and all classes of dealers asked for some reason for the record-breaking episode said that an unusually widespread demand suddenly developed. They also mentioned the recent freeze in California.

HOSPITAL DE LUX FOR PET ANIMALS

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—A hospital de luxe for animals and birds, with bath, elevator, reception room, parlor, study, kitchen, dining-room, operating-room—in fact, all the appurtenances of a modern hospital for human persons—is to be erected on Lafayette street, between Shinbone alley and Bond street. Plans for the new building, which will cost $50,000 to erect, were filed with the building superintendent yesterday. The building is to be fireproof, three stories high, and will have a facade of brick in the colonial style.

The Women's League for Animals, of which Mrs. James Speyer is president, is erecting the hospital. The hospital, it is said, will be the finest of its kind in the world. Anything from an elephant to a pet mouse, pet eagle to a canary bird, can be treated there. Horses, dogs, cats and feathered songsters will, however, be the principal patients.

DENIES STORY OF J. D.'S STOMACH

Rockefeller Never Ill, Says His Doctor; Denies Tale of Reward.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 18.—It's all a mistake. John D. Rockefeller is not, and never has been, a dyspeptic. Neither did he ever offer $1,000,000 for a new stomach.

Dr. H. F. Biggar Sr., who describes himself as "spiritual adviser" to Rockefeller's stomach for 35 years, denies both allegations.

"The reputed offer of $1,000,000 for a new stomach originated from the mistake of a waiter in Atlantic City about 10 years ago," said Dr. Biggar. "I had ordered Rockefeller to Atlantic City during a slight attack of indigestion. When the waiter brought a well-filled tray Rockefeller exclaimed:

"'I'd give a million dollars if I could eat all that!'

"The waiter translated that statement as an offer of $1,000,000 for a new stomach."

CHICAGO FACING FAMINE IN COIN

Depleted Municipal Treasury Is the Result of Court Decision.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Chicago is facing the most critical condition in its history because of a depleted municipal treasury, according to Mayor Harrison, who announced today that an immediate appeal would be made to the Illinois General Assembly for legislation authorizing a $2,700,000 bond issue.

Recently the salaries of all city employes were cut 20 per cent, but the city still is confronted with a shortage of more than $2,600,000 on this year's budget.

The shortage is the result of a recent Supreme Court decision holding constitutional a law which reduced the city's revenue.

BROAD GAUGE WORK CONTINUES RAPIDLY

ALAMEDA, Jan. 18. — Work on the the broadgauging of the High street and East San Jose avenue branch line of the Oakland Traction company is continuing rapidly and already a large part of the work has been completed. The ties from the old roadbed are being hauled to the site of the old barn at High street and Santa Clara avenue and burned.

The service is slated to commence by March 1, but it is thought the road will be ready before that time. No reply has been received as yet from the company relative to the plan of changing the terminus of the Santa Clara avenue line from High street to Encinal avenue, though the company has it under consideration.

GOSSIP FROM SAN FRANCISCO WEEKLIES

The Dog's Unselfish Love

Those of us who have seen "The Blue," and the devotion of "Tylo," the dog, will be impressed again with the love of that silent good fellow.

How strong his devotion, and how unselfish his love! It is so much more unfailing than that of a human being, and so much more unobtrusive. He does not care whether you are old or young, rich or poor. Whether you live in a hovel or in a palace, he is equally ready to pour over you the wealth of his affections. You may sink so low in the social scale that you become an outcast, or join the hunted criminal. It makes no difference to your dog. You are his "little god" and his idol still. It is quite true that a dog is the only thing in the world that loves you better than he does himself. Some one has spoken of him as a bundle of sentient nerves, with the heart of a woman, the eye of a gazelle, the courage of a gladiator, the docility of a slave, the courage of a king and the blind obedience of a good soldier. "Man is a creature of God," exclaims Arsene Houssaye. "Who taught you friendship? A dog. Who taught you hatred? A man."

Heaven bless the silent good fellow. He is an object lesson for fretful humanity. He shows us how to seize all the joy we can, that robs no other; how to sleep in peace, play in earnest, wag well, and mean it, and be happy always.

What man, woman or boy hasn't had a dog for companion, and hasn't loved it for the limitless love it gave? How many homes are brighter and cheerier for the presence of this fondness of animals.

Some dogs resemble the prodigal son. They saunter away in search of the south wind, possibly, but they return, and like the wayward boy, are somehow loved the more, not for their shortcomings, but in spite of them.—News Letter.

The Question of the Hour

It is always pertinent as the season draws to a close to ask, Who has been the most popular girl of the winter? Margaret Casey and Phyllis de Young who are very close friends have had the most spectacular affairs given for them, with the possible exception of the Sharon ball given in honor of Miss Louise Janin. But this was practically the only large affair given for Miss Janin Mrs W. H. Crocker's ball for Sophie Beylard and "Peggy" Nichol was also the only big event to the credit of those debutantes. But both Margaret Casey and Phyllis de Young have been entertained continuously at a succession of brilliant affairs. So they may share honors as being the two debutantes most frequently entertained. Arabella Morrow is the only debutante of the winter to announce her engagement before the close of the season, and upon this she might base a claim to the distinction. But then again, a girl whose name one hears frequently coupled with expressions of admiration is Miss Nell Grant, daughter of Mrs. Jesse Grant who is spending the winter here. She is an especial pet of Mrs. Eleanor Martin and with Josephine and Risita Nieto has been everywhere with her. The service men adore her, and every eligible beau in local society has danced attendance on her. The question cannot be settled off-hand.—Town Talk.

Mrs. Crocker Commutes to Paris

Mrs. Will Crocker who returned from New York a day or two ago, following her husband's arrival last week, will not tarry long at New Place. She is planning to leave in the spring for Paris where Mary Ethel has spent the winter with her aunt, Princess Poniatowski. Mrs. Crocker goes to New York and back with as little concern as a commuter going to Berkeley. Lately she has taken to commuting to Paris, making the trip several times a year. Jennie Crocker Whitman who outcounted all others in her annual total of transcontinental trips, is, I hear, entertaining her California friends and relatives in royal fashion in New York. She recently had Mrs. Richard Hammond as her guest at her Fifth avenue mansion. She has promised to visit California next summer. The Crockers are a loyal clan. By the way they call Jennie Crocker Whitman Adelaide in New ork. She was christened Jane Adelaide, but the latter name sounds strange to her old friends to whom she has been "Jennie" since childhood.—Town Talk.

Miss Leavitt's Devotion

Helen Leavitt and her fiance, Dr. James Eaves, are setting up a new standard for devotion among engaged couples in the smart set. The way society girls treat the men whom they have promised to marry during the months preceding the wedding day would furnish material for a treatise on feminine psychology. Devotion is so tempered by jealousy, exploitation, monopoly and general fussing that the wonder is that either of them endures the strain or that they have courage to go on and enter the state of matrimony. But Helen Leavitt and Dr. Eaves are so settled that they are amazing their friends. They have been photographed together by one of the druot photographers, and when Miss Leavitt makes formal calls she leaves the visiting cards of her fiance with her own. These two little customs have heretofore been considered wifely prerogatives, and they have been claimed for the first time in San Francisco by this pretty little bride-elect as a special tribute of devotion to the man she is engaged to.—Town Talk.

A Tardy Denial

Had Dr. David Starr Jordan not waited for two weeks before denying the Harriner story about his glorification of Isabella de Vermandois, he would have been spared a half-page satirical attack in the New York Sun. The Sun called up all leading genealogists of the East and let them loose in columns of scornful derision at the expense of Jordan's alleged theory. Of course the whole thing was a joke, but the question is: Was Jordan the last one to see it?—The Wasp.

To Marry a Murat

So Helena Stallo is going to marry a Murat! The news which came a few days ago from Paris where the alliance will take place (one always speaks of an "alliance" when there's a prince concerned) proved of great interest here and in Burlingame where the pretty girl to whom old Alexander McDonald of Long Beach left seven and one-half of his oil millions is very well known and liked Marrying some princes is no great achievement when one's grandfather has been thoughtful enough to leave one half a dozen American millions, but marrying a Murat is quite a distinguished thing to do. It's not done every day, for there are not enough Murats to go round among title-hunting Americans. And yet there are quite a number of Murats at that. The one that Helena Stallo is getting is identified as being Prince Michel Murat. He is also described as a nephew of the Empress Eugenie. That can't be correct for Eugenie is a Spaniard of the Montijo family, but of course any Murat can be regarded as of the Napoleonic blood royal, and Napoleon III did so regard one of them.

Helena Stallo of California is not establishing a precedent by marrying a Murat. American girls have done it before. In fact, the royal line founded by the son of a French inn-keeper has been a good deal identified with this country. The good-looking but violent swaggerer who rose to be a marshal of Napoleon and King of Naples had two sons. The first was Napoleon Archille Murat, prince royal of the Two Sicilies. He came to America after his house fell on evil days and reached a proud republican eminence when they made him postmaster of Tallahassee, Florida. He married a great-niece of Washington. King Joachim Murat's second son was Napoleon Lucien Charles Murat. He also came to America and married a Baltimore heiress name Georgiana Frazer. But I'm afraid he wasted her wealth, for she had to support him in the princely style (more or less) to which he had been accustomed by teaching school. But better times came when Napoleon III recognized him as a prince of the royal blood, gave him two million francs to pay his debts and an income of one hundred and fifty thousand francs a year. This Prince Murat had three sons; Joachim, who died in 1901 leaving a son who is now in his fifty-seventh year and the head of the Murat family; Achille, who died in 1905; and Louis, who is now in his sixty-second year. From one of these I suppose comes handsome young Michel who is going to show a family trait by taking for bride an American girl with a pot of money Congratulations to Helena Stallo, for the Murats make ardent lovers and brilliant husbands.—Town Talk.

Awarded the Legion of Honor

The "Legion of Honor" has been awarded to Mme. Augusta Klumpke Dejeraine.

Mme. Dejeraine is one of the great authorities on nervous diseases, and with her husband lectures before the students in the great hospital of Sal Pierre in Paris. In recognition of her wonderful discoveries in nervous diseases, the French nation has conferred upon this gifted daughter of San Francisco the coveted Legion of Honor.

Mme. Dejeraine is the third woman in the world to receive such an honor, and only through the influence of Empress Eugenie has this great French decoration been given to women. Rosa Bonheur and Madame Curie were the other recipients. So great was her delight that Mme. Dejeraine cabled her father, J. G. Klumpke, immediately after receiving the medal.

Miss Anna Klumpke, a sister, who has been in the city several months, will leave for her home in France directly after her father's birthday, early in February, when he will have passed the four score and ten year mark.

The Klumpke home, with its innumerable turrets on the top of Hyde street hill, is a well known landmark.—News Letter.

The Eternal Feminine

Mrs. Hannah Nolan, industrial inspector, complains that the girls in a certain food factory, when ordered to wear caps, obeyed the order, but decorated the caps with feathers, roses and ribbons. General Booth found the same eternal feminine problem, when he first tried to impose the poke bonnet as a badge of piety. Many London coster women, who willingly submitted to the Salvarmy's diet of prayers and sky blue milk, protested strongly against the headgear which cut them out of all hope of ever winning man's affection. Every day a deputation of them would wait upon the General, hand in their lids and observe: "Taint no use, Governor. Cawn't get along without a feather."—The Wasp.

Director of Fine Arts

The Exposition authorities consider themselves fortunate in securing the services of John D. Trask, who will take entire charge of the Fine Arts, one of the most difficult departments of our coming Fair. The new appointee has been connected for years with the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, the oldest academy in the United States.

Mr. Trask has served as United States Commissioner General at the International Fine Arts Exposition held in Buenos Ayres and Santiago Said he, in speaking of our coming Exposition: "The very highest and and best of European and Oriental art will be exhibited in our Palace of Fine Arts, which covers an area of 140,000 square feet. There will also be shown a loan collection of selected examples of paintings owned in America, representing the best of all foreign schools in the last several countries In the United States section will be shown the best works of American artists, executed both at home and abroad since 1904."

Mr. Trask has a wide acquaintance with painters, sculptors and collectors in this country, which will be to him a great advantage.—News Letter.

Cruel to Tell the Story

Women have been going about all the week with their feet scarcely touching the earth and their heads in the clouds. Across the foreground of the gray sky they see the vision of a pageant steeped in all the colors of the East, or paling to the silver moonshine and moving always to the deep rhythm of the rich voice of F. R Benson, as he paints the thing in all the splendor of the poetry that is in this master of pageantry, and all the spiritual grace that is divinely granted.

Therefore, it seems almost cruel to tell this story. But a young matron told it at the tea which Mrs Joseph Grant gave to permit a few friends to get in close touch with the inspiration of this man. Still less cruel is it to tell it here and now.

Mrs. Carolan, who has genuine dramatic emotion and capacity for losing herself in a part, had just been saying that the spirit which a pageant would bring could not be calculated in mere dollars and cents—the opportunity that it would give for some expression to starved souls could not be expressed in terms of the money markets.

Then up spoke the young matron who was in England when Benson's last pageant was produced. The role of Appius Claudius was given to a man who looked the part and carried himself with marked distinction.

"Are you Appius Claudius?" asked one one of those individuals who like to pigeon-hole away, properly tagged, everyone in a spectacle.

"'Appy as Claudius?" came in Cockney accents, while draperies fluttered in the raw wind. "'Appy as Claudius—no, I'm un'appy as 'ell!"

It's just possible that some of us who take part in the pageant will be as "un'appy" as that—News Letter.

The Women Are in Earnest

The white slave traffic is certainly not a pleasant subject, but at the present time it is the most common topic of conversation in and out of society. At every tea and dinner it is discussed openly by women who, a few years ago, would not have ventured to breathe a word about it. So many terrible events have occurred recently that mothers are thoroughly aroused to the dangers that beset young girls.

Anent the petition to be circulated, looking to the recall of Police Judge Weller, the women voters of this city are terribly in earnest, as they realize the many traps set to decoy young and innocent girls

A little incident happened in one of the larges shopping centers recently. A lady and two attractive daughters were making purchases. The mother moved to another department, leaving her daughters to look after the parcels.

After an interval, a woman dressed as a nurse spoke to the girls, excitedly, and told them that their mother had met with an accident. The bogus nurse directed them to a motor car, out of which she had been told they had alighted.

The police are doing their utmost to put a stop to this nefarious traffic, but it is a hard proposition to handle.—News Letter.

They Were Seasick

The aeroplane received its cachet from the top-notchers of the Burlingame set last week. They tried it and pronounced it good. During the Tanforan aviation meet several of the most spirited women from the peninsula stronghold of athletics, sport and society essayed the upper spaces under the pilotage of Roy Francis. Miss Ethel Dean was one of the first. She alighted to declare that the experience was ripping. Miss Virginia Jolliffe was the next to fly. She returned to terra firma, she said, with extreme reluctance, so much did she enjoy her spin through ether. Then Mrs. Walter Martin mounted to the clouds. Words were inadequate to express her delight. And when Mrs. Eugene Murphy came back after her trek to the sky she was overflowing with enthusiasm. More daring than the others, Mrs. Leonard Hammond accompanied the aviator in a flight across the bay, and her adjectives were all raised to the superlative degree when she talked about it. I was curious, so I had a friend ask Roy Francis about these society flights. Aw, how could they know anything about it?" he demanded; "every last one of 'em was seasick."—Twon Talk.

They Make the World Better

If we only had more such women as the heroine of this little tale, what a glorious old world this would be, after all!

With hundreds of complaints made by poor, worn-out shop girls, of the inconsiderate treatment they receive from prominent and selfish women, this little story comes like a breath of good fresh air on a sultry summer's day. It was told by a sweet little girl who comes from a splendid family, and is the essence of refinement, but through stress of circumstances is obliged to help the family finances. One afternoon she was as worn out by the many "looking" customers, without any notion of purchasing, and in waiting on a fussy woman, accidentally knocked over a tray of Japanese imitation jade bracelets.

As they struck the floor, two of them broke, and the girl flushed crimson with embarrassment as she glanced around to find her employer glaring at her.

Just at this moment a little lady—one who holds a prominent position in the social world—who had been standing by watching the whole performance, stepped up to the girl and asked: "How much are those bracelets?" "Fifty cents apiece," replied the tired girl. "I'll take the two broken ones," was the lady's quick reply, as she tossed a silver dollar on the show case, picked up the four broken pieces, and left the store.

After all we have abundance of fine, charitable women in this big, open-hearted city of ours.—News Letter.

He Made Quick Getaway

The Town and Country Club permits man to establish himself in Oolong comfort on Saturday afternoon in the harmonious precincts of the club dedicated to the desires of woman. To be sure, he must be accompanied by, or, to put it more shipshape fashion, must be in the tow of some member of the club. The most reliable, self-expanding imagination cannot conjure up the picture of any man intrepid enough to sail his own craft into such a strange port. Therefore, it goes without saying that the club has never been disturbed by the thirsty and wayfaring man seeking comfort, as the uninvited guest. Likewise, it goes without saying that the masculine gender, properly chartered and towed, makes its appearance on Saturdays, about as often as nightingales appear in the park opposite Now and then some courtly gentleman of the old school teas with the ladies whom he rocked on his knees when they were children

But the other Saturday a member invited a visiting celebrity to step in with her and enjoy a quiet cup of tea. Englismen are tea-trained, and he did not gulp at the idea. Moreover, there are clubs over in London where one sees as many men as women performing the ritual of tea drinking, and so he went up in the elevator cheerfully enough, but when he looked into the long room with clusters of women bobbing their heads like flowers blowing in a breeze, he was panic stricken. His hostess, flushed with the interest her advent with the celebrity would create, left him for a moment to enter the tea room and arrange for the table.

"It was a terrible thing to do," he said, white faced and ashamed, as he breathlessly landed in the Bohemian Club, where he is putting up during his visit. "But there was a beautiful young creature standing there in the hall, a heavenly creature with wondrous intuition, and she saw my suffering and showed me the way to salvation, which was down a little winding stair case. She did not speak; she just led me down in a matter-of-fact way, and in a second I was in the street."

"What will you tell the lady whom you deserted?" asked the married man.

"I cannot tell her anything, for I don't know her name She is doubtless some one whom I have met about somewhere these last few days, when I have been speaking so much. But it isn't her name that is troubling me—what worries me is that I do not know the name of the beautiful and brave young woman who rescued me, and I can never thank her for saving me, and tell her how I appreciate her divine and compassionate nature."—News Letter.

Dreamed of the Old Days

When Uncle Billy Moses died the other day there went a man who was full of memories of the early days of California, and who loved to tell the story of the time when life was young, the future rosy, and men resorted to the duel to settled their disputes. To the last, William Moses dreamed of the days of old, the days of gold, and in his stories of the stirring times in early California his hearers seemed to get a whiff of the pines, a breath of the underbrush, and hear the sighing of the redwoods. There are not many of these old pioneers. They are going, and it is not so long before those who helped to build the first quartz mill, or drove the first stage, or ran the first boat, will have left us. It is surprising, though, how well preserved some of the real first comers of California are. Uncle Jimmy De Bois, for instance, 87 years old, is as bright mentally as the next one, and full of anecdotes and remembrances of the days away back before the most of us had arrived. Uncle Jimmy has lived in California continuously since 1848, and it is rather interesting to hear him tell when he was a boy of how he had talked with old soldiers who had served in the war of the Revolution. These old pioneers are the links that bind the dim past with the present. Soon, however, the chain will be but one of a memory, and not the reality which at present exists, as it did with Uncle Billy Moses, and does with Uncle Jimmy De Bois.—News Letter.

Did They Feel Shocked?

Society is still quivering with excitement over the momentous question, "did or did not the Claremont Country Club hostesses feel shocked when the ladies from Burlingame brought out their cigarette cases and called for successive rounds of cocktails?" Is not this really a matter worthy of the attention of the Solons at Sacramento?

Said a bunch of gay matrons from B'lingum:
"Let us go up to Claremont and sting 'em.
If at golf we should fail,
By cheroot and cocktail
Puff 'em out, smoke 'em dry and gin sling 'em."

But Claremont just took up the running,
Keeping pace in a way that was stunning,
Till B'lingum, still able
To sit above table,
Declared it a draw, says Miss Dunning.

A Real Tragedy

Rarely has society been so profoundly shocked as by the murder of Mrs. Donald Jadwin (Minna Van Bergen) and the suicide of her drink-crazed husband, in the presence of a number of the ill-fated young couple's relatives, gathered around the dinner table at the home of Mrs. Jadwin's grandmother, Mrs. Anna Bauer, on Pacific avenue. It is the old, sad story of the union of a tenderly-reared girl and a young man with prosperous parents and an unconquerable desire for stimulants. Men about town knew for months that Jadwin was drinking so hard that barkeepers and barbers discussed it. In a sudden frenzy, the unhappy man rushed to the home of his young wife, who had been forced to leave him, and who would before long become a mother, and shot her down It was indeed a tragedy.—The Wasp.

Complicated Romance

The Joe versus Edith Meyerstein divorce case has come as near to causing a flutter of interest as could any domestic tangle in this period of stress and turmoil. Here is material for a drama or a novel of the day. The fair plaintiff was christened Edith Warren Gardner, but her name was changed to Edith Warren Marion when her mother, the widow of a citizen named Gardner, who killed himself, married Washington Marion Miss Edith found it expedient to earn her living as a stenographer to Rudy Herold, the insurance broker, and when she married Joe Meyerstein, an attorney with considerable expectations of an inheritance from father, became unexcelled by any society hostess in the elegance of her gowns and the variety and style of her teas, luncheons and card parties by spelling her name Edythe when they gave a synopsis of the family history after each tea

Now for the domestic complications. Contemporaneously with the marriage of Lawyer Meyerstein and his vivacious bride, his father, C. V. Meyerstein and his new mother-in-law began to manifest such a warm interest in one another that in due time they eloped to San Jose and were married there. The mature bride, with commendable forethought, had cleared all obstructions to this autumn romance by divorcing her second husband, Mr. Marion. She is now on the high seas, en route to France, to avoid any needless entanglement in the divorce proceedings of her daughter and her lawyer son-in-law, which have ended in permission being given the young wife to resume her maiden name. She says she never liked the name of Meyerstein, which did not fit her religion. It is whispered around in social circles, where she has been so prominent and popular, that she may soon again change her visiting cards, as a young widower of a few years' loneliness awaits but the word.—The Wasp

Bispham and the Tax Collector

David Bispham was dragged from his comfortable bed at the Bohemian Club at what he regarded as an ungodly hour Monday morning. The telephone was ringing madly "Who is it?" What do you want?" roared the sleepy and disgusted baritone. "This is the tax collector," said a voice at the other end of the wire; "you haven't paid your license yet." "Go to blazes," growled Bispham, hanging up the receiver and toddling back to his cosy couch. At luncheon he told his friend Percy Long, the City Attorney, about the matter. "Some mistake," said the City Attorney; "you don't have to pay any license that I know of." So Bispham let the matter rest there. But it was not allowed to rest by the tax collector. That zealous official sent a deputy to the St. Francis Monday evening, and the deputy got the ear of Bispham just before he went on the platform in the colonial ball room to charm a throng of music lovers with "Danny Deever" and "King Robert of Sicily" and Henry Hadley's Pan music. "What do you want?" asked Bispham. "I want your five dollar concert tax," said the deputy. "Are you the chap that woke me up this morning?" asked Bispham grimly. "I'm the man that rang you up," said the deputy. "Well, I won't pay," said Bispham. "Why not?" asked the deputy. "On the advice of my lawyer," said Bispham. "Who's your lawyer?" demanded the deputy. "City Attorney Long," was the singer's reply. The deputy scratched his head, stared at the singer to see if he was spoofing and then went his way unpaid. Later Bispham discovered that Percy Long had forgotten about the ordinance which provides for a five dollar concert tax. And the tax collector vows he'll get Bispham next time as sure as death and taxes.—Town Talk.

Romance Sequel of a Divorce

The couple are very prominent, she being regarded as one of our great beauties. None of their friends noticed anything wrong between the pair, with the exception that the wife visited East and Europe a great deal.

For a couple of years she has spent most of her time away from her home, either in quest of health or other pretexts.

Finally she returned and announced her intentions of remaining home indefinitely. She went out in society very little, excepting for long rides in her big car, always alone—save for her handsome chauffeur. She had engaged him upon her return from the East, he having come from New York.

He was very gallant to his mistress, and returning from long drives either on this or the other side of the bay, the two could always been seen in earnest conversation, she most unconventional and in a friendly sort of way.

No one of her friends dreamed of anything. After a time the busy neighbors who know everything in our suburbs missed the handsome chauffeur.

In the meantime the marital affairs of this rich couple were moving towards the divorce arena. The husband went down around Union Square to a world-famous hotel and the divorce soon followed. Only the very briefest announcement was made, as all monetary affairs were settled outside the court room.

The beautiful mistress of the mansion again turned her face Eastward, and now the story comes out of how, on one of her visits East, she met and fell in love with a handsome man of wealth and refinement, and splendidly connected in Tuxedo Park. He returned her love, and both were utterly miserable when apart from each other.

When she had been obliged to remain at home, her Lothario planned the chauffeur stunt, applied for the position, and lived incog. for many weeks, that he might be near her.

Whether her husband became suspicious, or whether the lady made a confession to him of her love for the other man, is not known But it is rumored that she will wed her Prince Charming very shortly—or chauffeur in disguise—News Letter.

Automobiles Couldn't Hold Her

The newspapers have somewhat mixed up the facts about the Anton Korbel divorce. One of the elder Korbels, by the way, was the original publisher of The Wasp The Korbel brothers owned a lithographic plant and The Wasp was first issued there, a clever German artist named Keppler, furnishing the cartoons. The Korbels invested the profits of their manufacturing business in San Francisco and country property, and became very prosperous. Anton Korbel, whose divorce was announced this week, was married about five years, his wife being a Denver girl, who, like himself, was an enthusiastic exhibitor of prize dogs at American and European shows. Mr. and Mrs. Korbel bought a handsome house on Clayton street last fall, and gave a housewarming, which proved most unpropitious, as thieves ransacked the upper rooms while the guests made merry on the lower floor. Much jewelry and many purses were taken Although the Anton Korbels lived in good style and kept two automobiles and a chauffeur, the young wife found life so irksome that she went back to her mother, who now resides in Fruitvale, and bade farewell to her young husband in a note, in which she informed him she could not take pleasure in his society. He hardly needed that assurance Anyhow, he has obtained the decree of divorce, the alimony question having been settled out of court. The deserted husband still occupies the Clayton street house, with several servants and the two automobiles.—The Wasp

A Precedent for Debutantes

A rather unusual precedent for debutantes was established at the Bachelor and Benedick ball last Friday night. Marion Stone gave a dinner in the Laurel Court preceding the ball at which the girls were all of her own age, and the men were of the same debutante set. At the close of the dinner, instead of proceeding to the ballroom with the conventional enthusiasm of youth for dancing, they bundled into their wraps and overcoats and went to the Orpheum. They returned to the ball in time for supper and then danced until morning. Hitherto the custom of going to the theater before a ball has been considered the special prerogative of the older members of society who have little desire to dance and a reluctance to monopolize the men. It was just one more evidence of the indifference of the youth of San Francisco to establish traditions.—Town Talk.

Pizella as a Sculptor

Pizella, the painter from Paris who has put many of our beauties in oils, shows his versatility now by going in for sculpture. His first attempt, a bust of Mrs. George Pope, has given that patroness of art a great deal of satisfaction. Pizella came here with many letters from Paris and was immediately taken up. His private views in his Paris studio were always attended by the smart set, so he had no difficulty in making good here. Among those whose portraits he has painted are Mrs. Templeton Crocker, Mrs. Arthur Chesebrough, Mrs. Athole McBean, Mrs. George Pope and Mrs. George Newhall.—Town Talk.

Ethel Is Having Trouble

An inside story is going the rounds that Ethel Barrymore, of whom all San Franciscans are so fond, is having trouble of her own. Report says Russell Colt has been misbehaving, has had a fuss with his family, and has been cut off from participation in the wealthy Colt estate.

On top of this come the news that Miss Barrymore has had differences with Charles Frohman, and that she will no longer appear under his management, he arranging with Blanche Bates to take the Barrymore roles.

The trouble with Frohman was caused on account of his giving the leading part in "Bella Donna" to Mme. Nazimova, a piece originally announced for Miss Barrymore. It is said the Shuberts were approached with a proposition to take Miss Barrymore under their management, but declined. As she is still playing in vaudeville, she is in no immediate danger of going hungry, as her weekly stipend is $1500 per week.—News Letter.

Miss Kempff's Illnes

Cornelia Kempff, the Admiral's interesting daughter, has been an invalid for weeks at the Mare Island hospital. Happily she is on the way to recovery and will soon be her bright witty self again. Since his retirement Admiral Kempff has lived in San Mateo, but Cornelia prefers Menlo and is identified with the set of the Hopkins sisters there. There has been genuine and widespread regret for her illness and several of her friends have taken the trip to the Navy Yard to see her. In the meanwhile friends are caring for Kimball O'Hara, Miss Kempff's famous Apricot Tom. Miss Kempff is one of the few genuinely witty girls of the smart set and is considered wonderfully well read. Her books have been her amusement in the weeks of convalescence.—Town Talk.

The New Hop Room

An unusual compliment to one of the season's belles will be the dance at Fort Winfield Scott for Miss Sadie Murray. The hosts will be officers of the Coast Artillery stationed there, and the affair will be the first in the new hop room of the new post. A dedication of the hall with Miss Murray to lead the first dance surely ought to be auspicious. The daughters of General Murray of whom Carolyn became Mrs. Ord last month, are by far the most attractive army girls who have graced parties of the service set in many seasons. Sadie Murray is bright and pretty with a genuine charm of manner that makes her a favorite wherever she goes.—Town Talk.

Frank Powers' Criticism

Frank Powers administered a severe scolding to a certain element in the Bohemian club when he spoke at the Christmas dinner. Powers spoke right out in meeting, declaring that too many members of the club slighted the true spirit of Yuletide. He said they thought too much of the fleshpots, and not enough of the holy events which Christmas commemorated. He was interrupted from time to time, and handled his interrupters without gloves. But they were hard to quell, and the more Frank criticized the more they heckled him. When it was all over the more serious members averred that the rebuke he administered was deserved, but they doubted whether it would do a great deal of good. Some of the Bohemians are incorrigibly trivial.—Town Talk.

The Indictment of Fra Elbertus

The reputation of an idealist once acquired is a fine asset. It is as potent in its way as a bad name when acquired by a dog. In the case of the dog the judgment is hanging, in the case of the putative idealist the result is an exceptional degree of immunity. Yet it has been shrewdly observed that if you disturb any social rubbish heap idealists will crawl out like earthworms We take our idealists too seriously. An idealist after all is only a man who professes high aims. The other day the most popular idealist in all the country was indicted for sending obscene matter through the mails, and he pleaded guilty to one charge to escape prosecution on five others which will be kept hanging fire to ensure good behaviour. This idealist is none other than Elbert Hubbard, who has made idealism pay. This man who styles himself Fra Elbertus, like Thompson's "little round, fat, oily man of God" is given to glistening with ungodly dew, but he has a great army of worshipers who regard him as the leaders of religious cults are regarded by their devotees. The case of Hubbard proves that a man can be at once an idealist and a Borborite; also, that enthusiasm for the higher things of life may co-exist with a facility in gratuitous obscenity. Hubbard has been much given of late to a gross humor, such as one finds in the pages of the London Pink-Un. The lubricity of the lupanar has been tainting the pages of the Philistine. Hubbard writes like a man in whom double entendre has become an irremediable infirmity. Coprolitic witticisms drop from him as easily as slime from the man who has just emerged from a cesspool. He bemerds his readers and himself with a gusto that betrays a proneness to rank and unsavory thought. It is no wonder that he was indicted; but what a shock to his worshipers!—Town Talk.

The Bourns Returning

Friends of the Billy Bourns are preparing to welcome them home after their long expatriation. It was feared for a while they would take up their residence on the other side, become thoroughly anglicized and forsake the land of their birth and fortune. Not so. Billy Bourn, I am told, is the most loyal of Californians and resents the suggestion that he belongs to that interesting race of expatriates in Europe. He has never missed a chance to boom San Francisco and the exposition in his absence, and it is safe to say that in the vicinity of Muckross, where his daughter's Irish estate is situated the natives know more of California than they did before the visit of Bourn.—Town Talk.

Your Reputation at the Bank
Mercantile credit is based largely on a man's reputation for reliability.
Besides the mere statements of a man's net worth, important consideration is often given by mercantile agencies to his business reputation for reliability.
Following is an abstract from a mercantile report on a man conducting a business of moderate dimensions:
Among the trade he stands well, AND HIS BANK SPEAKS WELL OF HIM. He can be relied on to do what he promises.
We emphasize one portion of this extract because it calls attention to the importance of maintaining a bank account and letting your banker find out how dependable you are.

Sunday Topics in the Pulpits

WORLD AWAKENING IS HER SUBJECT

Rev. Ruth B. Ridges of Minneapolis Will Preach Here Tomorrow.

During her trip to the various cities of the coast, Rev. Ruth B. Ridges of Minneapolis, Minn., will deliver a series of lectures in this city under the auspices of the Rest Home, commencing tomorrow evening in the Starr King Hall, Fourteenth and Castro streets, where she will preach upon the theme, "The Present World Awakening." Wednesday evening her subject will be "The Idea of God," and the final address will be given Sunday evening, January 26, on "The New Race."

Mrs. Ridges was pastor of the New Church of England for two years, during which period she expounded the new theory of the school for new theology which, according to her belief, is the unfolding of race consciousness through a clearer understanding of the individual to God.

"We accept the teaching of Jesus as the latent divinity in the consciousness of the race," said Mrs. Ridges, recently. "Everything must be universal. Personal concepts must fade away for the universal."

In Minneapolis, Mrs. Ridges established a Fellowship society and is now co-operating with the truth centers and the Rest Home for the formation of a School for New Theology.

DR WARD TO SPEAK.

Dr. Harry F. Ward of Chicago, secretary of the Methodist Federation for Social Service, will visit Oakland on Friday next, January 24. He will probably address the city High Schools in the forenoon, hold a round-table conference for all interested in social service, at Maple Hall, Fourteenth and Webster, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and give a general address on the subject of "The Social Task of the Church" at 7:30 in the evening at Maple Hall. These meetings are open to the public without respect to church affiliations. It will be a great opportunity to hear an expert student of the great social questions of the day.

Dr Ward has taken special courses in sociology in two great universities, and has had large practical experience in these lines of work since completing his university studies. He was for ten years the head of settlements and institutional churches in Chicago; an active participant in many movements for social progress in that great city, associated with prominent social workers and labor leaders. He served as chairman of committee on labor conditions of the City Club, organizer of industrial committee of the churches of Chicago and chairman of the commission on church and labor, and has been active in the securing of needed legislation on social and labor matters in Illinois. Short Sermons for Busy Readers

"The Religion of the Forward Look"

Text, "But this one thing I do, forgetting the things which are behind and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark of the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." —Philippians, III.13-14.

Christianity is the religion of the Forward Look. Its platform declares that "It is always better farther on," and that "Eye hath not seen nor ear heard, nor ever hath entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him." All things in the divine plan move toward the perfecting of the type. This is as true and truer in the spiritual realm than in the physical. The best exhibition of the principle of evolution is in human life. Indeed, there are some thinkers who claim that this is the only place where evolution is proven.

Rev. Geo. W. White

St. Paul's words quoted in the text are a strong statement of the underlying philosophy of Christianity. The world's greatest bondage is to the past. Men are fettered by habit, chained regrets weighted down with remorse for the past. How to get away from the errors of the past has always been the great human problem. At every New Year most people are afraid to expect great blessing in the coming year because they remember so vividly the mistakes and sins which have shadowed the year just past. They are more inclined to retrospection than to prospect.

Goethe, the great German philosopher, said, "No man can be happy until he has learned to forget." Many people are using foolish and hurtful methods of trying to forget, by steeping themselves in dissipations, by burying themselves in business, by the distractions of travel, by the diversions of frivolity and by the stupor of strong drink.

Christianity offers the only rational and effective method. God has promised to "cast our sins behind his back and to remember them against us no more forever," and to "separate them from us as far as the east is from the west."

How he does it is hidden in the mystery of divine grace, but that he does it, can be testified by "ten thousand times ten thousand," who have experienced the wonders of it. It is the perpetual miracle of the ages. It is the constant renewing of character and life by means of which the world moves on its upward spiritual way to eternal life.

MAKING THE SPIRITUAL LIFE.

It is accomplished by the method described in the words of the great apostle above quoted. It is the result of making the spiritual life the main thing, not the incident, of our lives. It puts first things first. God will not take second place in a man's life or heart. When a man desires with all his heart to escape the sins of the past and to redeem the future, God, by His divine alchemy, obliterates the dark past, cleanses the unclean heart, and starts the soul on a new and higher career toward its divine destiny. He gives to every man who will ask for it another chance.

The success of the opportunity offered of God depends upon how earnestly one improves it. If we look upon religious life as a burden and a task, instead of a glorious "high calling of God in Christ Jesus," we will not get much out of it. There is no greater fallacy than the oft-quoted sentiment that in religion, "One gets out of it just what he puts into it." If that were all there is in it for us it would not be worth much. But it is not true. Christ said that in God's work the seed should produce from 30 to 100 fold increase. It is the greatest chance a man ever has to get the biggest possible return on what little he has of time or talent or money to invest.

But we will not put in much unless we are convinced that religion calls to the highest vocation known to man. When our eyes are opened to the vision as Christ taught it and as Paul saw it, we will also know that "Godliness is great gain." Then when we are seeking after Godliness more than after gold we will be sure to have a happy new year.

AUTO OUTPULLS BIG LOCOMOTIVE

Eight Heavy Draught Horses Lose Jobs to Electricity-Driven Vehicle.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Jan. 18.—The largest automobile in the world is believed to be that put into use here today for hauling freight cars from the Pennsylvania yards to the piers. It is to take the place of eight heavy draught horses and in a tug of war at the Pennsylvania railroad shop, where it was built, it is said to have defeated a heavy freight steam locomotive. It is electrically propelled, each of the wheels being driven and steered separately.

DRINK IS COSTLY.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—The drink of whisky which Joseph Heffernan, a truckman, took during a fire on January 9 has caused his suspension by the fire commission for five days, equivalent to a fine of $20, which will be deducted from his pay. He was cited for being under the influence of liquor, and pleaded that he had accepted one drink from a bottle which was tendered to him by a stranger. Chief Murphy said that his acceptance was excusable, as he was wet and cold, but that a bad precedent would be set if any fireman should not be penalized when intoxicated on duty.

WOMAN SICK FOURTEEN YEARS

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Elkhart, Ind.:—"I suffered for fourteen years from organic inflammation, female weakness, pain and irregularities. The pains in my sides were increased by walking or standing on my feet and I had such awful bearing down feelings, was depressed in spirits and became thin and pale with dull, heavy eyes. I had six doctors from whom I received only temporary relief. I decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial and also the Sanative Wash. I have now used the remedies for four months and cannot express my thanks for what they have done for me.

"If these lines will be of any benefit you have my permission to publish them."—Mrs. SADIE WILLIAMS, 455 James Street, Elkhart, Indiana.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

YOUNG MOTHERS

No young woman, in the joy of coming motherhood, should neglect to prepare her system for the physical ordeal she is to undergo. The health of both herself and the coming child depends largely upon the care she bestows upon herself during the waiting months. Mother's Friend prepares the expectant mother's system for the coming event, and its use makes her comfortable during all the term. The baby, too, is more apt to be perfect and strong where the mother has thus prepared herself for nature's supreme function. No better advice could be given a young expectant mother than that she use Mother's Friend; it is a medicine that has proven its value in thousands of cases. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. The Meddler

THE social activities of the formal winter season are absorbing the attention of many of our most prominent families, since the season is unusually short. According to the church calendar, 95 years will elapse before another season of such short duration rolls around, for Ash Wednesday will be here on February 5 and we are to have a March Easter. So society is crowding the day with gayeties, formal and informal, and many prominent women are finding the days very full, indeed, with many dates, both formal and informal.

The Hotel Oakland has made an admirable setting for much that is of value in our social life, and many of our prominent homes are to be the environment for delightful social affairs in these days that intervene before the Lenten season.

Mrs. Frank C. Havens and Mrs. John F. Conners have both sent cards out for large receptions at their homes. Mrs. Percival John Walker and Mrs. W. H. Weilbye have sent invitations out for card afternoons.

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Kales have asked the most intimate friends of the family to be present at the wedding of their daughter, Miss Rose Eliza Kales and Mr. James Brendon Brady on the evening of February 4.

The card clubs are planning unusual dates, and the various women's clubs have sent out bulletins which promise many afternoons of both interest and pleasure.

Mrs. John F. Conners has planned the first large entertainment in her new home on Crocker Highlands in honor of her sister-in-law, Miss Mollie Conners.

Mrs. Frank C. Havens is planning another of those delightful receptions to which her friends never send any regrets. A large number of cards are being sent out asking friends of the Havens family to "Wildwood" on Saturday, February 1. The hours are from 3 until 6 o'clock. Mrs. Havens is planning her large reception in honor of Mrs. Harold Havens, the young bride, in whom much interest is being taken. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Havens were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Havens at Sag Harbor early in the season, and they recently returned from their wedding trip and are now at the Hotel Oakland.

Mrs. Harold Havens is petite, very dainty, young, and of a most interesting type of beauty. The many friends of the Havens family are very glad of the opportunity of meeting her, and the reception in her honor will be a notable affair, since the most generous hostess to be found anywhere in the world will entertain in her honor.

So two large receptions, each a red letter day in social annals, will brighten the closing days of the season.

TWO LARGE CARD PARTIES PLANNED.

Two large card parties will also make interesting our ante-lenten days, for Mrs. Percival John Walker and Mrs. W. H. Weilbye have both sent out cards for Friday, January 31.

Mrs. Walker's cards announce "bridge" and she will receive her guests at the Hotel Oakland. It is the most fascinating place possible for a card party; the environment is so fine, the atmosphere so charming. The lobby is a wonderful place, with its artistic tones, its great rugs, its big fireplace, its handsome furniture, its plants, its beautiful effect generally.

Mrs. Percival Walker is a very successful young hostess, as well as a most attractive young matron. She makes a charming picture, as she is always so artistically and so perfectly gowned. Her friends are anticipating with much genuine interest the delightful afternoon she is planning for them at the Hotel Oakland.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Weilbye are spending the winter at the Hotel Oakland, and they are making their many friends very welcome there, entertaining them often in the beautiful new hotel.

Mrs. Weilbye has sent out cards requesting the company of many friends on Friday, January 31, at 2 o'clock, Hotel Oakland.

Mrs. Weilbye's cards announce "bridge or 500." The hostess will be assisted in receiving her guests by Mrs. F. W. Morse, Mrs. W. A. Schrock, Mrs. M. J. Laymance and Mrs. H. M. Bull.

With two large card parties scheduled for the same afternoon, the Hotel Oakland will be a wonderful study with the many beautifully gowned women in its corridors and reception halls.

MANY ARE GUESTS OF GOVERNOR AND WIFE.

One of the largest receptions of the week was that held in the executive mansion at Sacramento on Thursday, when Governor and Mrs. Hiram Johnson formally opened the legislative season. The reception was beautifully planned and was the most elaborate and most successful social affair given in the state capital in many months.

The hours of the reception were from 4 to 7 and the large mansion was filled with a throng of guests, who were delightfully entertained by Governor and Mrs. Johnson and the members of their receiving party.

In the latter were Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Bowles, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Johnson Jr., Mrs. Frank C. Havens, Mrs. Mary Fairweather, Mrs. E. D. Roberts, Miss Louise Roberts, Mrs. E. S. Birdsall and Mrs. J. S. Neylan. The executive mansion has never before shown such beautiful decorations, arranged along such unique and original lines.

In the billiard room the decorations were most striking, for on the billiard table was a miniature Japanese garden. There was a little Japanese house, and there were streams of water in which were picturesque gold fish. The drawing-room was lovely in beautiful flowers in tones of pink and there were festoons and garlands of smilax, making a picture of wonderful charm.

The women who made up the receiving party were beautifully gowned. Mrs. Hiram Johnson wore an exceedingly handsome gown, a brocaded effect in stunning emerald green, most beautifully trimmed in gold lace, its color tones being specially fine.

Mrs. Frank C. Havens was charming, the most delightful member possible of any receiving party. Without any apparent effort, her charming personality radiates brightness, and a quick appreciation of humor makes her a joy to her friends. She was a lovely picture, her gown showing the latest Parisian tones in black and white. It was of black charmause, with a bodice of white tulle exquisitely embroidered in brilliant ornaments.

Governor and Mrs. Johnson are very fond of their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Hiram Johnson, who was formerly Miss Amy Bowles. She wore a very handsome Parisian gown of lavender brocaded velvet, trimmed in white and gold lace. Mrs. Mary Fairweather was also in the receiving party, one of its most distinguished and most [illegible] tured members. Her gown was of black charmeuse, most beautifully draped by an overdress of black jet.

Mrs. P. E. Bowles wore a gown representing one of the newest Parisian effects. It was of heavy black satin, with a bodice of steel blue velvet beautifully appliqued in silver.

The receiving members from "the South," as they call Oakland, were greatly admired, not only for their handsome gowns, but for the charming way in which they entertained the many guests of Governor and Mrs. Johnson, and we have a right to be specially proud of our representatives in the social world of our state capital.

Governor and Mrs. Johnson were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Havens at Sag Harbor last summer.

MISS KALES TO BE BRIDE AT HOME WEDDING.

One of the important weddings of the winter will be that of Miss Rose Eliza Kales and Mr. James Brendon Brady of San Francisco. The popular young bride has chosen a home wedding, as did her sister, Mrs. Thomas Knowles (Ruth Kales). The drawing room in the Kales home is not a large one, so Mr. and Mrs. Mar[illegible] will ask to their home only the most intimate and old-time friends of the family.

The Kales home has always stood for much in the line of true-hearted and most cordial hospitality, and the young girls of the home have always been most charming to their friends — easily among the most popular young girls on this side of the bay.

More entertainments than she could possibly accept have been planned in Miss Kales' honor, but she has been an exceptionally wise little bride-elect, and she has declined them all.

She has set her wedding date for Tuesday evening, February fourth, and it will be a happy and delightful home wedding, at which the guests will be only relatives and near friends.

Miss Kales has announced the names of her wedding party, and she will have as her matron of honor her sister, Mrs. Thomas Knowles. Her bridesmaids will be Miss Elise Schilling, Miss Johanna Volkman of San Francisco, and Miss Grace Hoadley of New York.

Miss Schilling has been a very dear friend of the bride-elect since their childhood days, and Miss Volkman was a classmate at Miss Head's school.

Miss Grace Hoadley, who is from New York, is a cousin of Miss Kales, and is a very charming girl. She visited her relatives last on the occasion of the wedding of Mr. Thomas Knowles and Miss Ruth Kales.

MRS. W. H. HARRIES AND DAUGHTERS ARE VISITORS.

Among the travelers spending a few days in our city, who are guests at the Hotel Oakland, are Mrs. W. H. Harries and her daughters, the Misses Rita and Gertrude Harries. For many years Mr. and Mrs Harries resided in the lakeside district, having built and occupied for a long time the residence now owned by the Arthur Crellins.

The Harries family lives permanently in England, where they have a home in London and a summer home at Brighton, one of the famous watering places in England.

Mrs. Harries was a former neighbor and a very dear friend of Mrs. R. G. Brown and her daughters, Mrs. Lillian Everts and Miss Florine Brown, and the Browns telephoned early Thursday morning to as many oldtime friends of Mrs. Harries as they could reach.

The result was a most delightfully impromptu and informal tea at the home of the Browns on Jackson street on Thursday afternoon.

Old friends gathered to extend a warm welcome to Mrs. Harries and her daughters, who met their friends again after an absence of thirteen years. Of course, the visitors saw many changes, for the Oakland that they once knew so well is very strange to them now, having grown into one of the large cities of the coast.

A pleasant feature of the informal tea was the delightful singing of Miss Gertrude Harries, who has a most charming voice, of extraordinary sweetness and clearness, and one beautifully trained.

Among the many oldtime neighbors who assembled at the home of the Browns to greet Mrs. Harries and her daughters were:

Mrs. A. Schilling	Mrs. James G. Allen
Miss Elise Schilling	Mrs. Edwin Goodall
Mrs. Thomas Crellin	Mrs. Thomas Coghill
Mrs. Arthur Crellin	Mrs. E. B. Beck
Mrs. M. W. Kales	Mrs. Andrew Moseley
Miss Rose Kales	Miss Bina Moseley
Mrs. A. D. Thomson	Miss Minnie Dyer
Miss Mollie Conners	Mrs. Ehrenberg
Mrs. William Letts Oliver	Mrs. H. K. Helden
	Miss Nadine Belden

Mrs. Harries and her daughters will be here only a few days, having planned to resume their travels the latter part of next week.

WHEN DIGNITY STUMBLED WHAT A FALL THERE WAS.

"There is only a step from the sublime to the ridiculous"—and it is sometimes amusing to see one's friends, in all their heavy dignity, perched on that same step. A few of our ultra fashionable people were landed there not long ago, and a ball that was meant to be the height of social prestige lost its balance and reposed blissfully on the fatal step marked "ridiculous." And all because of the invitations.

It was announced by the blasts of social trumpets that no such ball had ever been given in the social annals of the county than this planned by the shining lights in the social world. One thing is certain, no such invitations were ever sent out in the aforesaid world. There were some who were grieved at heart that they, too, were not bidden "to trip the light fantastic," or to take a few steps in "the rag," which was scheduled to follow the supper. But gone was their grief when they saw the invitations, and the smile of amusement deepened into a beauty laugh as the aforesaid invitations were passed around the town.

"You are respectfully requested at the Hotel Oakland," they began in atrocious English. "Respectfully" is a word that ought to be stricken from the social calendar, and how can anyone be "requested" anywhere?

Shabby little cards accompanied the ungrammatical invitations, and the little cards said you might be admitted to the dance, and there was nothing to keep anybody from passing the portals and joining the dancers if they so desired, though it is not on record that anybody did so desire.

The bad English is not all the reason why people laughed heartily at the invitations; but that is another story, told in whispers and in the strictest seclusion.

nterested in the cause a very remarkable showing is made, over $3500 having been earned by the sale of the stamps. When one realizes that this represents a sale of 350,000 stamps one can appreciate how great was the effort, and how satisfactory the result. The thanks not only of the society, but of the general public, go out in a special way to Mrs. Mark L. Requa, whose unselfish work will mean so much in the lives of others, and in the happiness of many families.

The nation is engaged in a great work, and it is a source of joy and satisfaction that under Mrs. Requa's leadership we have done our full share.

MRS. WICKHAM HAVENS SENDS OUT DANCE CARDS.

For Friday evening, February first, Mrs. Wickham Havens has sent out cards for one of the attractive dances by way of which she loves to entertain her friends. The latter always accept, for a very generous host and hostess make them very welcome, and the home of the Havens is admirably adapted for entertaining. The ballroom is specially artistic, and Mrs. Havens' informal dances are always a special feature of the social entertainment of our winters.

Miss Helen Dabney, the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Dabney, will entertain at a large card party on the afternoon of January 30, in honor of Miss Etha Musser, the fiancee of Moylan C. Fox Jr.

Miss Bernice Bronson will be the honored guest at a reception given by Mrs. Frank M. Butler at the Claremont Country Club on the afternoon of Friday, January 24. About 800 guests have been asked. Miss Bronson is betrothed to Mrs. Butler's son, C. J. Butler.

Miss Esther Sadler is being much entertained before her wedding to Robert R. Plane of Iowa, which will take place at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Sadler, on January 30.

One of the charming bridesmaids at the wedding of Miss Caro Mills and Francis Mercer Davis last week was Miss Caryl George, a cousin of the bride. She is a beautiful girl, who is popular in smart set circles.

DISPLAY OF GOWNS MAKES BRILLIANT PICTURE.

With the many social functions crowding our Oakland days, there has never before been such a display of superb gowns. The discussion floating over the continent has at last reached Oakland, in regard to American-made gowns, and in two of our leading clubs there has been a general discussion in regard to Parisian versus American designs.

"You see, there is no such thing as creating an American fashion or creating any other fashion. Styles are not creations, but combinations. There is absolutely nothing new in French gowns. Take the styles of today. We reproduce in today's styles the wide Greek armhole; lately we have had the tunic. But, of course, the idea must be adapted to suit our twentieth century environment, and that is where the designer's art comes in.

"I think it very wrong, however, for those who are enthusiastic about this so-called American fashion movement to pretend that we can ignore the achievements of Paris and lead people to believe that an American fashion, when 'created,' will mean something entirely new and different from any other fashion of any other country or any other period. No one is creating a fashion. All we can do is to follow the example of such an art center as Paris, educate ourselves by the study of beautiful things, and learn to see in those things the elements which can be combined to produce a 'creation.' A shoulder seam here, a ribbon there, a fold of lace, a line of the skirt—these are the bits which a Parisian designer collects, after an earnest study of historical costumes, and welds like a mosaic into a Poiret or a Paquin. But he does not go off in a corner and allow his idea of a gown to come into being by spontaneous generation, as it were."

MANY AND VARIED ARE SOCIAL AFFAIRS.

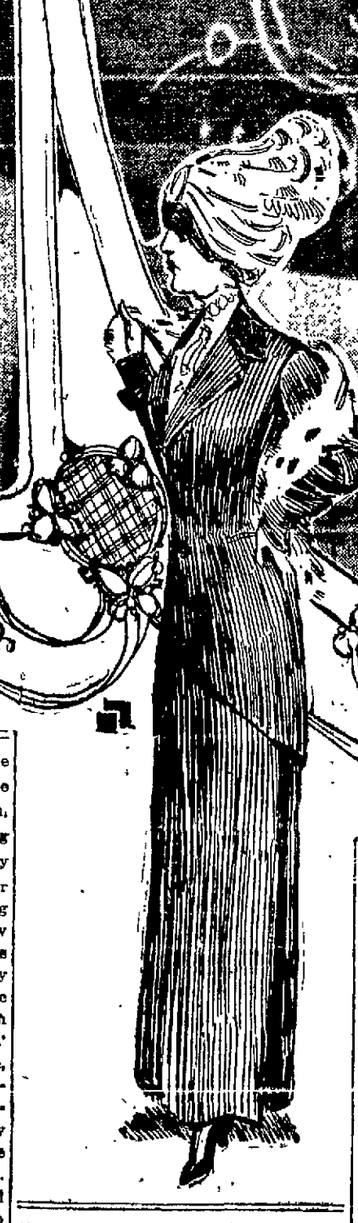

Dinners, luncheons and informal teas all add a due need of social interest to the passing winter days.

Among the largest of the recent dinners was that given by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rosenfeld at the Hotel St. Francis, where they are permanently staying. The dinner was a very charming affair, and twenty guests were delightfully entertained.

Judge and Mrs. Harry Melvin, who are spending the winter in apartments across the bay, also gave an elaborate dinner this week. Their guest of honor was David Bispham, the well-known singer, who is always extensively entertained by prominent people whenever he comes to San Francisco.

Mrs. Egbert Stone and her daughters, the Misses Harriet, Marian and Helen Stone, gave an informal tea at their home on Broadway last Sunday afternoon. Miss Helen Hinckley of Nevada is with the Stone girls this winter, and they make a group of friends who are enjoying a bright and interesting winter.

The guests on Sunday afternoon at the Stone home included young people for the most part, the debutantes of the season and young men prominent in the social world.

"BABY HOSPITAL" CARD PARTY TO BE EXTENSIVE.

The Hotel Oakland will be the setting for one of the largest evening card parties of the season, the affair being planned for the "baby hospital," in the cause of which many well-known people have become thoroughly interested.

It is planned to give the card party in the great ballroom, which will be opened for the occasion. Many hostesses have subscribed for tables, and will entertain friends at cards on that evening.

Invitations are being sent out, and tables may be reserved by applying to any of the managers of the hospital.

An orchestra is to play during the entire evening, and at half after ten a buffet supper will be served. The managers are planning dainty souvenirs as prizes.

Among the prominent women interested in the work of the baby hospital are:

Mrs. Allen B. Babcock	Mrs. Giles Easton
Miss Mabel Weed	Mrs. H. L. Gapswell
Mrs. M. A. Anderson	Mrs. Lucile Knowland
Mrs. Charles R. Lloyd	Mrs. George Eldridge
Mrs. Duncan Melmiffe	Mrs. W. J. Hotchkiss
Miss Merrie Smith	Mrs. E. E. Hoff
Mrs. Edward Enos	Mrs. Henry Wetherbee
Miss Ethan Kline	Mrs. James de Fremery
Mrs. Clifton Macon	Miss Bertha Wright
Mrs. Frank K. Mott	Mrs. E. V. Hathaway
Mrs. H. L. Parsons	Mrs. Wickham Havens
Mrs. Harry East Miller	Mrs. Sam Bell Wakefield
Mrs. W. E. Seabury
Mrs. L. W. Storer

Among those greatly interested in the work are:

Mrs. Frederick Cutting	Mrs. Fred Sherman
Mrs. Edward Howard	Mrs. Whitney Peixotto
Mrs. George Wingum	Mrs. Frank Proctor
Mrs. William Williamson	Mrs. C. C. Clay
	Mrs. Phillip Clay
Mrs. F. C. Watson	Mrs. Robert Newell
Mrs. Robert Lee Stephenson	Mrs. Frank L. Adams
	Mrs. Louis Ghirardelli

There is a rumor that the big ballroom will be inadequate to accommodate the many players, as reservations for the big card party are pouring in upon the managers, and that is good news, both for them and for the general public.

MRS. J. H. DIECKMANN WILL BE HOSTESS

Mrs. John Henry Dieckmann has sent out cards for two interesting dates of next week, planning to entertain on the afternoons of January 28 and 29, in her home on Vernon Heights. Mrs. Dieckmann is entertaining in honor of her sister, popular Mrs. Robert Knight, whose home is now in Los Gatos. It will give Mrs. Knight's friends great pleasure to meet her, and Mrs. Dieckmann's bridge afternoons will represent two of the most attractive dates of the winter.

SAN FRANCISCO AFFAIRS TO CALL OUR SOCIETY FOLK.

Two dates for Saturday evening will call some of our well-known young people across the bay, for on Saturday there will be the dance of Mrs. Bowie Detrick's Assembly, and also of the University Assembly. There is now across the bay a well-established social order of dances, many of the children making their first beginning in Mrs. Horace Pillsbury's dancing class.

From there they go to Mrs. Bowie Detrick's Assembly, and later pass on to the Greenway ball.

Mrs. Detrick's Assembly includes in its membership young people from the most exclusive families of San Francisco and Burlingame. It is properly chaperoned. The refreshments are along simple lines, and the dances stop promptly at midnight. The assembly has great prestige, and the membership list is most carefully supervised. The dance on Saturday evening in Century Hall will be the last dance of a most successful season.

The University Assembly dances are held at the Palace Hotel, and, as the name indicates, the membership list includes many young people from the university. The Saturday evening dance will be the last of the season, and many surprises are planned in the way of decorations and favors, such as gay French caps for the dancers. The programs are lovely souvenirs, each adorned with a charming picture of a girl. One is spring in water colors, one is summer in violet, autumn is in brown, and winter is a study in gray.

BROWNING HAS DAY AT EBELL CLUB.

Ebell Club luncheons are always attractive affairs, and Mrs. Posey has shown rare skill in arranging the details, especially in planning the programs. Indeed, it is quite worth while going to the Ebell Club luncheons if only to hear Mrs. Posey's charming introductory speeches.

Even though we are in the midst of winter, there seemed to be a touch of spring in the atmosphere at the Ebell Club, for the decorations on the tables were Chinese lilies, the first flower of the year.

It was a Browning day, the speaker of the afternoon being Mrs. George Haight, who is known all around the bay as a lover of Browning, and an able exponent of his best work.

Mrs. Haight's introductory address was bright, with a play of humor, and serious, with a depth of thought. All the poems she chose for the afternoon were given from memory, and a very delightful hour was enjoyed by the Ebell members and their friends. Always at the Ebell Club luncheons are many women from outside our own city.

On the guest list was Mrs. C. S. Stanton of San Francisco, who is president of the Casa Guidi Club of Berkeley, one of the best-known literary clubs in the state. And from San Francisco also was Miss Marie Withrow, the well-known artist.

Among the other guests was Mrs. Solan Arnold of Santa Barbara, Mrs. J. Hamilton Gridley of Los Angeles, Miss Clara Taber of Nevada, Mrs. J. W. Davies of Columbus, O.; Mrs. G. F. Brindley of Birmingham, England; Mrs. Edmund Purdy of Wisconsin, and Mrs. Carrie Stone Freeman of the Ebell Club of Los Angeles.

JUNIOR ASSEMBLY DANCE TO BE BRILLIANT.

The young people are greatly enjoying the bright dances given at the Hotel Oakland, quite as much as their elders are enjoying the same big hotel. One hears that the dance of the Junior Assembly, the last dance of its existence, is to be a brilliant affair. The preparations are made for a most elaborate dance, and it bids fair to be one of the brilliant parties of the winter.

The patronesses are quite right in not allowing the older people to crowd out the young dancers. The Hotel Oakland is new, and the older people would love to go to the dance, but the young dancers need all the ballroom space, and they also need the chairs in which to rest between the dances.

The patronesses are quite able to take care of the young people, and if at 11 o'clock any chaperon wishes to come for her young charge she will be made welcome. It is a good rule, and one that will find much favor with the young girls, many of whom do not care to dance if they have to be the targets of criticism for a crowd of observers.

MRS. FRANK H. PROCTOR IS GENEROUS HOSTESS.

Mrs. Frank Hunt Proctor's friends are always glad when Mrs. MacDermot and the Proctors spend the winter on this coast, for they are specially good to their friends, always planning entertainments in a most generous fashion.

For her January dates Mrs. Proctor has arranged a dinner, a dance and an informal bridge. This evening she will entertain at dinner at her home on Eighth street, and among her guests will be three very popular girls from across the bay, the Misses Phyllis De Young, Jene Hotaling and Kathleen De Young.

The other dinner guests will be Mrs. Wickham Havens, Miss Clarisse Lohse, Miss Beatrice Simpson, Miss Camille Adams, Alfred MacDermot, Jack Neville, William Cavalier, Seyd Havens, Walter Leimert, Harold Jewett and Dudley Valentine.

Mrs. Proctor is also giving an informal dance on the evening of January 25, having asked a coterie of young married people, all of whom are close friends of the host and hostess.

On the afternoon of January 29 Mrs. Proctor is to entertain at bridge, having asked about thirty friends to be her guests on that occasion.

Among those who will occupy boxes from this side of the bay at the Mardi Gras ball on February 4 will be Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hunt Proctor, who will have a party of friends as guests of the evening. The ball, which is to be given at the Palace Hotel, will be very elaborate this year, and there will be about 2000 in attendance. The boxes will be built in both the sun

WOMAN DISCOVERS A RIVAL OF CARUSO

Ragged Singer Proves to Have Wonderful Voice; Will Have a Recital.

NEW YORK, Jan 18—Mrs. Edward Breitung believed yesterday that she had "discovered" a rival of Caruso She has more than "discovered" him—she has saved him from starvation. She was passing Fifth avenue and Fifty-fifth street in her automobile on her return from the opera last night, when she heard a man in worn coat, threadbare trousers and patched shoes singing an aria from "Faust."

On hearing the man's voice Mrs Breitung stopped and questioned him

"I'm a singer" he replied "My name is Theodore Kittay, and I m 22 I came to America from Russia the first of November There I studied in the Imperial Conservatory in St. Petersburg. I came here to get an opera engagement, but I have no friends, no influence, and I will do any work that I can find"

"Come to my apartment and sing that aria from 'Faust'" said Mrs Breitung, and she led the way into the Plaza Hotel The hotel pianist, Mr Bonci, was called to Mrs Breitung's rooms to accompany the singer The man sang the air requested, then one from "Pagliacci" and another from "La Boheme"

He was asked if he were hungry and he admitted that he was Mrs Breitung gave the man a roll of bills

"Please find out all about this man, and buy him what he needs," said Mrs Breitung to Manager Haan of the Plaza "I shall have him give a recital in my apartment here within a few days I will have opera stars and musical critics at this concert. I believe that this hungry, ragged boy has a voice the like of which has never been heard in this country"

Offer Skin for Girl

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 18—One thousand members of the Boy Scouts and scores of other persons here each volunteered yesterday to give a square inch of skin to save the life of Reba Hninds, 10 years old, who was badly burned when her father, mother and little sister perished in a fire that destroyed their home in Arnett, Okla., last Christmas eve.

The girl is in a hospital here, and her physicians, who declare her life can be saved only by a process of skin grafting, asked for volunteers to contribute the necessary epidermis The operation is to be performed soon.

The fire in which the girl was injured occurred when her father mistook gasoline for coal oil in kindling a fire. Although her clothes were burned from her body, the girl ran a half mile to summon aid When neighbors arrived at her home the other members of the family were dead

Approves Turkey Trot

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—Society's leader, Mrs Stuyvesant Fish, has stamped the "turkey trot" with the deep hallmark of her approval. At her ball, given last night to less than 150 of New York's innermost circle, nothing but the "trot" was danced, and two orchestras kept the music sounding without a moment's pause. Mrs Fish, Mrs Frederick Neilson, mother of Mrs "Reggie" Vanderbilt, and Mrs. Stickney joined the young folks in the "trot."

Society explains its unanimous acceptance of the "trot" by the discovery of their physicians that its movements approximate closely to those of horseback riding

"Trot for your health," is the slogan

BEAUTIFUL LIPS

SO many women and even growing girls have written to me requesting a formula for reducing their thick lips that I have taken the time to study the cause of thickened lips and find out a prevention and cure for the defect. The law of perfect beauty requires that the mouth (that most expressive and eloquent feature of the human face divine) should be of medium size, smaller in woman than in man. The curve of the upper lip is said to have furnished the ancient Greek artists with a model for the bow of Cupid. The line must extend beyond the lower lip, which must, however, be more fully developed and rounded, turning outward so as to leave between it and the chin a graceful curved hollow. The teeth should be small, rounded and perfectly even and white.

Naturally lovely red lips are beautiful, and girls seem to think that biting the lips makes them red. That is a mistake. Although biting the lips reddens them for a little while, the after effect is just the reverse of red—they become dry and pale. I attribute the thick, heavy under lip to the early habit of biting them. If the general health is good the lips will be naturally red or a healthy pink. The shape is more necessary than the color. Unfortunate people who suffer from split lips may attribute the cracking to many things—eternal irritants of the nature of too spicy food, tobacco and alcoholic drinks. Nowadays the harmfulness of many mouth washes, which contain irritating ingredients, has been rightly pointed out. To this class especially belong volatile oils, which for the sake of their perfume are included in almost every better class mouth wash, and in many tooth pastes as well. Peppermint oil in particular, which is commonly used for this purpose, is apt to produce irritative conditions of the tongue and lips.

Too strong antiseptic applications are also aggravating to tender lips. People who suffer from tender lips should never be exposed to salt air or strong winds without anointing their lips with some healing salve. A little witch hazel mixed with a little pure almond oil is as good as anything.

It is too bad to see a pretty girl distort her face by crude habits of the mouth. Some girls bite the inside of their cheeks, some tighten the lips, compress them until they are thin and unpleasant to look at, but the worst habit is biting the lips, whether from nervousness or a desire to redden them. When the lips are too thick the trouble may be overcome to a great extent by watching your own expression. Look at yourself and draw the lips together into a pleasant smile, then cultivate that smile. A smile has never distorted any face. A gram of pulverized tannin and a gram of alkanet chips, melted in one ounce of pure cold cream and left to macerate for five hours may be rubbed gently over the lips when cold. This salve is astringent and will reduce the fullness a great deal.

Japanese beauties chew a little cinnamon bark to reduce the lips, and also as an antiseptic breath pastile. If mothers would watch their children and stop the habit of biting their lips they would improve the beauty of their families. Cleanliness is necessary for a perfectly beautiful mouth. Cigarette smoking, sitting with a pencil or toothpick in the mouth will misshapen the lips, but a bad temper will do more to the outline of the mouth than any other habit. The lips form sweet expressions from the inner workings of the mind.

Answers to Queries

M S L—For a girl whose blood does not circulate properly there is nothing better than exercise in the open air, country or seashore preferred Walking is much better than sitting idly on the porch Tennis and golf are splendid. Take a bath every day in which salt has been liberally sprinkled Vigorous rubbing with a rough towel will be of benefit to you After exercising sit quietly for half an hour or so, or, better still, lie down and relax every muscle in your body, close your eyes, and think of nothing.

I shall gladly mail you the English dietary for gaining flesh and recipe for developing the bust if you will send me a stamped addressed envelope.

K—Elbows that have been persistently neglected, or that have been used as props, show a prominent thickened circle of cuticle covered with "gooseflesh" To reduce this pulverized pumice is sometimes necessary, and massage must be employed three or four times daily, working in a good skin food Between times thick applications of some good skin food should be worn over the elbow, applied with a bandage After the elbow has grown more presentable it should receive the same daily care that we give the hands and nails and should never be used as a prop I shall mail you the formula for the skin food most frequently used by the French and Russian women if you care for it and will send me a stamped addressed envelope.

CIVIC LEAGUE DISCUSSES MOTHERS' PENSION

Power of Directors Is Theme of Lively Argument by Women.

Two hundred women, members of the California Civic League, met at the Hotel Oakland today at the quarterly session of the league. Delegates from the bay cities, Palo Alto and other parts of the State, gathered at the meeting this morning when the mothers' pension bill, equal guardianship law, and a special matter, the power of the league's State board of directors, were considered.

This afternoon several other matters, including the proposed State girls' training school, were discussed.

The women adjourned after the morning session for an informal luncheon at the hotel. They reconvened at 2 o'clock.

DISCUSS REFERENDUM.

Whether the State board of directors should have discretionary power to approve or oppose legislation was the first question considered this morning. This matter was announced by the chairman of the day, President Charlotte Anita Waitney of the State league.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

"This meeting, which we have called the quarterly meeting for want of a better name," said Miss Whitney, "was called at the annual meeting especially for the benefit of the Alameda county centers. A special business session is arranged by request of the San Francisco members to discuss the discretionary power of the directors. Two ladies will speak on both sides. Mrs. Cora E. Jones, president of the Oakland Center is to be timekeeper, and speakers will have ten minutes."

MISS MORSE SPEAKS.

Miss Blanche Morse upheld the directors. "I do not represent the board," said Miss Morse, "but am stating my own personal opinion. I believe the only question as to this arises because the different centers are not closely in communication with the directors. I believe that each center president should have a vote on the board. The movement to take away the discretionary power from the board savors of direct legislation, of which I am not in favor. Direct legislation has come up because of corruption in political bodies.

BOARD NOT CORRUPT.

"Our board of directors is not corrupt, so I cannot see why they should be curbed.

"The chairman of the executive board must be an expert, especially in matters of government. Her reports are made to the board, which should be, very often, acted upon immediately. Waiting for referendum would be ridiculous, especially as it would mean each woman should be a legislation expert. Otherwise, what would be the use of a chairman who is an expert?

"To limit the power of the board by an obligatory referendum rule would cripple the organization.

"It seems to me under a referendum the minority has no hearing. Say there is a large minority—a vote shows very close results—then discretionary power would be desirable. If you are for fair play, it seems to me you should give your board discretionary power. You must trust some one. What we need are leaders to educate. Also we need intelligent followers. We cannot all be kings; some must be the people.

"We had a referendum vote last week. We had two answers in one week! That is too slow. The plan would be slow and unsatisfactory, besides being unfair. We could never do anything."

TAKES OTHER SIDE.

"Not like Miss Morse," said Mrs. Constance L. Dean, "I represent the board. We have used the referendum successfully. In legislative matters we believe that we should have discretionary power, but prefer to take majority vote when possible.

"Any action of the board would be taken as the action of the entire league. Therefore we prefer to consult our membership for the good of the organization.

"The San Francisco Center takes membership vote. The board should set a time for membership hearing. We want to get at the spirit of our organization. The point we make is this: The league was founded primarily to educate women to use their vote. We did not have in mind the building up of a powerful board of directors, but a powerful body of women. We do not want referendum except as to the spirit of a bill. Fifteen women do not contain the understanding of five thousand. We want their judgment.

NOT AUTOCRACY.

"I maintain that the membership should as a whole be relied on. Woman's inward judgment is good.

"It was not intended that this be an autocracy, but a democracy. Put power in the hands of fifteen and we would be in danger of political control."

OPPOSES REFERENDUM.

Mrs. J. Wall of San Francisco opposed the referendum. "I think a good czar gets better results than anyone else in ruling," said she.

"I believe that the presidents of centers should find what their members want and vote at the board meeting," replied Miss Morse. "That is my only contention."

Mrs. Dane Coolidge held that the board should have discretionary power. "We are striking at a straw man," said she. "We are afraid of something that we fear may happen. I agree with Miss Morse that the members should be represented, too, but think the directors can do it."

General discussion followed the addresses. No vote was taken, the session not having power to vote.

REED IS HEARD.

Prof. Thomas Reed of the state university, spoke on the equal guardianship bill.

"The present law gives the father full power over his child," said Reed, "unless he gives his right to the wife, or unless the court, after a divorce or separation, gives custody to the mother. In this case, however, both parents have equal rights to see the child.

"The proposed bill gives parents joint authority over the child and the management of its property.

"I think you will agree that this equal responsibility clause is reasonable. There is little debate to be held on the matter.

"As a matter of fact, in most families authority is divided. There is not, in ordinary cases, need of this bill. It is only in exceptional cases that this law would operate.

"People living together agree as to their children; if they separate the present law gives equal custody. So, it can be seen, only in exceptional cases, would the new law be invoked.

"There is no need of changing the present laws as to management of property left to children. Often this is done by trustees, directed by a will.

"This new bill is significant as showing the new spirit of women. That is its only value. It has no practical use. But it makes me nand women equal, theoretically as well as practically, to men."

ONE BENEFIT SUGGESTED.

General discussion also followed this subject. Several questions were asked by members present. Mrs. Louis Herty spoke of industrial accidents in relation to the law.

"Several cases are now in court where mothers must get sole guardianship before they can get compensation for a child's injury. The joint guardianship law would remedy this."

SPEAKS ON PENSION.

Miss Frances Jolliffe, president of the California League for the Protection of Mothers, was the speaker on the pension bill for mothers.

"We are here today," said Miss Jolliffe, "because we have a new power. We have the ballot. We have another advantage; no political party has tied us up. Since you had the ballot the whole state has whispered 'mothers' pension.' That is because we think first of the child. No matter how fine an institution may be, it is no place for a child. He is turned out at an early age entirely unfitted for after life. Our reform school statistics prove that. The mother is the natural guardian of the child. Thaht is nature. You cannot legislate against it.

"The mother who makes sacrifices for her baby is its natural guardian, sociologists to the contrary. If the state helps the mother she will be better able to make the child competent to face this world than any institution."

"The object is to prevent the seperation of mother and child. Other state have it. Usually it is a juvenile court matter, and $10 per child is paid monthly. County taxation, in some cases, pays for this.

"I want to discuss our bill. Dr. Susan B. Ferton has an excellent insurance bill and she is afraid our bill will conflict with this. The insurance bill has several defects, one being that it would be slow.

NOT CHARITY.

"This is not a charity proposition. Mothers are as well entitled to pensions as soldiers who have served their country!

"Our bill provides that mothers shall receive $150 per year for one, $250 for two, and $75 for each additional child. This applies where the mother is alive. In other cases, of course, the orphanage would remain."

BETTER THAN WEEVILS.

"They say there is not enough money to pay for this pension," said Miss Bessie Wood. "The legislature will spend thousands to kill the bock weevil, whatever that may be.

"In India they burned wives whose husband died. We are kinder here. We just take away her children and let her starve, if she wants to. This is only a humanitarian proposition, and it has a practical value. It means better citizens in the future. It is necessary and we must stand firm for it.

"Vice pays generously to get girls in its grasp. Why should we not spend money to save our young ones from vice."

OPPOSES PLAN.

"It is a question of money," declared Miss Katherine Felton. "You cannot bankrupt a county.

"Now we have a relief law, administered by the juvenile court. The judges do not give it. There is no money. I favor the relief idea. If a widow thinks a pension is her right, she will claim it, but she will do anything else before publicly asking relief. I favor an insurance idea. A small pension would not keep the woman home with her children. That alone defeats the object of the bill. I think an insurance plan, paying, say, $50 per month, on the death of the father, would be best."

"NEVER RAISED IT."

Miss Jolliffe answered hotly that San Francisco, where she lived, has no relief money because effort was not made to ask for it.

"We want to take the widows out of the destitute class," said she. "I agree with the speaker there. Also I know that a compulsory insurance act would never be tolerated."

Several members asked questions as to the cost of the system, which Miss Jolliffe declared could be easily paid for by slight tax increases.

The Abatement and Injunction Bill, considered by Miss Anna Chase, was taken up immediately after the luncheon. The speaker went into the different phases of the matter and Mrs. L. E. Blochman led the discussion which followed.

During the morning session a storm was narrowly averted when several of the women in the San Francisco Center attempted to show that that Center had no standing in the league, not having held legal annual meetings or elections of officers. Miss Whitney, in the chair, refused to allow the matter brought up, stating that the question was not before the meeting and that no votes were being taken, which rendered consideration of the matter illogical, as well as unpleasant. It seems that the San Francisco Center is split into factions, and that one of these is fighting for the referendum, while the other opposes it.

Rev. Albert W. Palmer, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational Church and director of Plymouth Center, spoke upon "The State Training School for Girls." In outlining the importance of such an institution he emphasized three provisions in the course of his address. He said:

"It separates the girls' training school from the boys' reform school. The present training school has a bad influence upon the girls as it is too near the boys' institution at Whittier. It will provide vocational training for all the girls. The training school proposes to give instruction in domestic science, nursing, dressmaking, bookkeeping and stenography.

"I am glad to see that vocational training will be provided for the delinquent girls and I hope the day will come when the city, through its public school system, will provide vocational training for boys and girls who are not delinquent."

REPORT BY MRS. HUME.

Mrs. J. B. Hume, chairman of the civic central committee of Alameda county, in her report said:

"The Civic Central Committee of Alameda County is comparatively a new organization. While nearly all the individual members of the organization may be said to have left their youthful indiscretions far behind, the committee itself is young and the annals short and simple.

One or two members of the California Civic League residing in Alameda county, who had been turning over in their minds the expediency of organizing the voting women of the county, attended a meeting of the board of directors of the California Civic League in San Francisco one morning and heard the presidents of two of the rural centers solicit the aid of the state board in closing a notorious road house in this county. It soon became apparent that this matter was a local question and outside the province of the state board, and the psychological moment for the organization of a county committee seemed to have arrived.

"Miss Blanche Morse, at that time president of the Berkeley Civic Center, called a meeting of the presidents of the civic centers in Alameda county. Nearly every one responded, interest and enthusiasm was general, and on October 9, 1912, an organization was effected, officers elected and the first work planned.

FIRST WORK OF COMMITTEE.

"This work was an effort to close a notorious road house near San Leandro known as the Hunters' Inn. It was a fairly well established fact that the man in charge was selling liquor without a license.

"The first move therefore, was to consult the district attorney. He manifested great willingness to assist in securing evidence against the man in charge of the Inn and instructed his deputy to send a detective out there for that purpose and report to the committee within a week.

"The report was received from the district attorney's office that a detective accompanied by a woman had visited the place, and had tried in vain to purchase intoxicating liquor. As no direct evidence could be procured the district attorney's office could proceed no further. The county committee thereupon proceeded to secure a strong local petition that the place be closed. All the members of the civic central committee signed a similar petition and with a letter from the chairman of the committee was sent to the board of supervisors of Alameda county. The board of supervisors heeded the request of the women voters and the place was ordered closed.

"The next week a complaint was lodged against the keeper of the place, he pleaded guilty to selling liquor without a license and was fined for the offense.

PRAISED FOR WORK.

"One other instance will serve to illustrate the methods employed by the committee. The closing of Hunter's Inn was given considerable publicity in the daily press and the work of the Civic Central Committee received a good deal of favorable notice and as a result communications were received from different localities urging the committee to carry on the good work.

"The attention of the committee was especially directed to a road house within the city limits of Oakland and in close proximity to a large public school. The place is known as Fuller's Garden. This place had been closed by the board of supervisors when it was within the jurisdiction of that body but when the territory in which it is located was annexed to the City of Oakland, permission to reopen it and a liquor license were granted. In this instance the committee received valuable assistance from Miss Bessie Wood, president of the Child's Welfare League and an officer of the Juvenile court. The usual protests were prepared, and members of the Mothers' Club in the vicinity of the road house appeared with Miss Wood before the city council of Oakland, and upon presentation of the matter the license was revoked and the place ordered closed within a specified time.

"The work of the committee has demonstrated very clearly the fact, that nearly all public officials will assist in reform measures when there is a strongly expressed public opinion manifested through the medium of organization in favor of such measures.

"It has also been shown that in some localities where objectionable road houses are located it is impossible to secure a local protest against them, and in all such cases men are more timorous even than women.

"The committee feels quite safe in saying that reform work of the character described in this report will have to be initiated and prosecuted by organized women. The civic central committee of Alameda county has shown conclusively that organization is the secret of power."

Submarine Proves Its Sinking Powers

Lead Ballast Shifts and New Vessel Goes Down When It Leaves Ways.

LONG BEACH, Jan. 18.—Shifting of its lead ballast caused a new type of submarine boat, built by a Los Angeles concern, to fill and sink today when it was launched for a trial. The vessel, which is 75 feet long and cost $44,000, went down the ways in fine shape, but as soon as it reached the water its ballast shifted. It turned on its side, the top hatch was forced open, letting the water flow in, and it sank in four fathoms while efforts were being made to tow it ashore.

ABSINTHE NOW A MEMORY ONLY

Absinthe means an absent row;
It used to be a tiny glass of absinthe,
—Mournings of Bon Vivant.

Following instructions from Uncle Sam, cafe proprietors and wholesale liquor dealers of Oakland and San Francisco have spilled into the sink all the absinthe in their possession. Gone is the iridescent Parisian liquer which can accomplish more wonders than the magic lamp of Alladin; banished forever is the soothing, seductive vehicle for mounting to the pinnacles of Parnassus or descending to the depths of Pluto's basement.

State Board of Health inspectors sent out word yesterday afternoon and this morning that the three months of grace allowed by the government had elapsed and that hereafter anyone who sells absinthe or gives it away, or even has it in his possession, will be open to fine or imprisonment, or both.

The United States government has determined to profit by the lesson of the Parisian boulevards and choke off the absinthe fiend before the drug becomes a menace nationally. From a soothing "morning-after" nepenthe, absinthe has become the unconquerable mania of the Parisian underworld, and to its sinister influence is ascribed much of the crime and immorality in the French capital.

ORDER SWEEPING.

The order by the government, as communicated through Martin Regensburger, president of the State Board of Health, is sweeping in its effect. Twelve thousands quarts held for local importers are in bonded warehouses and will be either destroyed by inspectors or deported. Yesterday it was possible to buy the liquor for $4 a quart, but by the end of next week it is believed that not a glassfull will be legally obtainable anywhere.

The inspectors are requiring the proprietors of every place that they visit to sign a document putting them on record as understanding the provision of the law and the ban against the drink.

Uncle Sam last October enacted that absinthe should be no longer legally imported, and that from that date forth it should be contraband as an article of interstate commerce.

Three months of grace were set aside within which to conduct an educational campaign. October 1 and again on November 1 all the big wholesalers and importers were warned that enforcement was about to occur.

Women Use Hatpins in Battle With Policemen

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—With hat pins and umbrellas several hundred women fought the police today in one of the fiercest riots since the beginning of the garment workers' strike. A policeman who tried to protect strikebreakers was badly beaten. The policeman arrested one woman but had to summon twelve more blue coats before he could get his prisoner to the station house. Five women were arrested in another riot which started when the women assaulted a truck driver delivering matresses for the use of strikebreakers.

The strike of dress and shirtwaist makers was settled at noon and most of the 35,000 workers will return to the shops Monday. The difficulty had threatened a serious shortage in the supply of spring garments. The terms of the agreement include a general increase in wages, shorter hours and a permanent system of arbitration. The garment workers' strike proper continues, with about 150,000 workers involved.

Imminence of Accident Stops Heart of Autoist

ONTARIO, Jan. 18.—After examining the body of George Remington, a business man of Los Angeles, who was found dead last night with his hands still gripping the steering wheel of his automobile, coroner's physicians today decided that the man had been stricken with heart failure and died while trying to prevent an accident. Evidence showed that Remington's machine had skidded on the wet road and the belief is that he was so startled by the imminence of an accident that his heart stopped, killing him just as he brought the motor car to a stand with its wheels in a ditch.

STRUCK BY TRAIN.

BERKELEY, Jan. 18. — M. Silverman of 3084 Claremont boulevard was slightly injured last night when he was struck by a Key Route train at Woolsey street and College avenue. His leg was painfully but not seriously bruised. He was attended at Roosevelt hospital.

REGULATION IS LECTURE TOPIC

BERKELEY, Jan. 18. — "Regulation by Commissions" was the subject of an address delivered last evening at the University of California before a large gathering of students, business men and railroad men by Samuel O. Dunn, editor of the Railway Age Gazette, member of the Illinois bar and author of "The American Transportation Question."

Mr. Dunn in his introductory remarks spoke in very high terms of the work and personnel of the California commission. He stated that during his visit in California he had been making a study of the work of the commission and that he had nothing but words of praise for it.

He said in part:

"Regulating commissions have been created both by the nation and most of the states because it is believed that public utilities must be controlled and regulated in the public interest, and it is thought that lawmaking bodies, courts and ordinary executive officials are unfit for this work. The personnel and the legal powers of these bodies are equally important. A commission composed of able and impartial men with small powers will do much more good than a commission composed of incapable and biased men with large powers.

"Unfortunately, the personnel of regulating commissions usually has been very deficient. The commissioners often have been partial and seldom have been specially qualified for their duties. Several things are needed to secure better men. Higher salaries should be paid in most states. In only one state, it is believed, is the salary over $5000 a year, and in some it is as low as $1200 or $1500. The commissioners should be appointed rather than elected. They should have special knowledge of transportation and other public utility matters when chosen. they should be given long terms and reappointed as long as they remain faithful and efficient. They should have the strength and courage to resist the public when it is wrong as well as to coerce public utility managements when they are wrong. In too many cases the commissioners have been politicians who have previously carried on agitations against the concerns to be repeated and who have by that very circumstance become disqualified to fairly sit in judgment of them.

A public utility is not public property. It is private property devoted to a public service. As long as its ownership remains private so should its management. Its management has the same right as that of any other concern to determine originally what rates it should charge, what service it shall render and how it shall be financed. And so long as the management does these things in accord with the public interest there is nothing for a regulating body to do. But public utility managements are often unintelligent, unfair, or rapacious and do not give the public good service at fair and reasonable rates. It is then that the regulating commission should step in and compel the management to do its duty. In other words, the commission's function is not executive, but corrective; and it should have and exercise no more authority than is necessary, but all the authority that is necessary, to compel correction of specific abuses, whether in rate-making or the rendering of service. To give it more than this authority is to encroach on the field of management, which is neither fair nor desirable so long as the ownership of utilities is not public. To give it less than this authority is to give inadequate protection to the public interests. The public can fairly become the general manager of concerns only by becoming also their owner.

Regulating commissions having been created, and given sufficient authority, they shouldthey should be left free from interference in the performance of their duties by either the legislature or the public. If they are not the most fit bodies for the performance of their duties they should be improved or abolished. If they are the most fit they should not be hampered by the meddling of those less fit whether the lawmakers or the voters. furthermore, there is complete inconsistency between regulation by commissions and regulation under anti-trust laws, the purpose of which is to enforce competition; and yet the federal government and some state governments are stupidly and unjustly trying both kinds of regulation.

While regulation should be corrective it should not be oppressive. The amount of profit a public utility should be allowed to earn is purely a question of public expediency; and public expediency demands it shall be not merely a "fair return" but a high enough return to attract into the business enough capital to enable the concern to render good and adequate service. This necessary return is about the same as the returns earned in other lines of business; for all kinds of concerns compete for capital in the same market, and capital goes into these concerns, regardless of the character, that yield the best profits."

SEMINOLE CLUB GIVES FIRST DANCE IN HOTEL

More Than 200 Guests Enjoy Evening in the Ivory Ballroom

One of the most successful dances in the whole of its existence was given last night by the Seminole Club in the ivory ballroom of the Hotel Oakland. Between 200 and 300 of the younger set of the bay cities attended the affair and the young men of the club have reason to feel proud of the result of their efforts as hosts to such a large number.

The reception room was decorated with gilt baskets of long-stemmed red roses and garlands of ferns against which the stunning gowns of the matrons and maids showed to great advantage. The ballroom floor was crowded with dancers during the entire evening. Among the guests were a number of members of other dancing clubs on both sides of the bay. Some of the organizations represented were the California Grays, l'Allegro, the Sphinx, the Tres Joli and the Setewa. After the dancing an elaborate supper was served to the members and guests.

The men were waiting for a southbound Shattuck car to go to Oakland. The car and a north-bound train approached at the same moment out of the mist and darkness. Before they could step across either track they were struck and rolled, almost under the wheels of the car.

PREPARATIONS FOR ELECTIONS MADE

Alameda Councilmen Warned to Have Election Board Lists in Readiness.

ALAMEDA, Jan. 18. — At a meeting of the committe of the whole of the Alameda City Council last night progress was reported on the matter of securing an accounting with the Oakland Traction company, for 2 per cent of the gross earnings of the High street branch line, provided under the franchise, and which has never been paid.

The application of W H. Pollard with reference to the discontinuance of business licenses was reported as provided for under the new ordinance recently published.

An application for permission to transfer the saloon license of Mrs. Fred Brand was denied, the application not being in proper form, inasmuch as no successor was named. Councilman Probst stated that Mrs. Brandt desired to transfer the license in order to settle the probate proceedings in connection with her husband's estate. The council went on record as being willing to state that when the application is made in proper form there will be no objection to the transfer of the license.

A complaint was received from Mrs. G. E. Stokes of 1425 Morton street. Mrs. Stokes complains that a tree in front of her property is a menace to life, and she wants it ordered removed. The application was referred to the park and playground committee.

With regard to the laying of a cement sidewalk in front of the Blanding property on Park street, a continuance of which was granted some time ago, City Clerk Browning informed the council that the expiration of the date of the stay would be January 21. Councilman Walker thought that the continuance was until spring. He stated, however, that he would take the matter up with Blanding, and endeavor to have the sidewalk laid at once.

Superintendent of Streets V. M. Frodden reported that the new street to run from the Webster street road to the city property on the harbor would be opened as far as the property and that negotiations were under way with Mr Shepard, the owner of adjacent property, to have it continued along the entire frontage of the Alameda lot.

SEWER TO BE REPAIRED.

Frodden also reported that in connection with the complaint of former Mayor E. K. Taylor, the broken sewer under the High street bridge will be repaired at the first extreme low tide.

The matter of improving the north end of Chestnut street and sidewalking the same was referred to the city attorney to take up with the officers of the Alameda Boating club.

As to the opening and macadamizing of Third street through the Main & Winchester tract, it was reported that a resolution of intention is now being drawn up.

City Clerk Browning reported that the time for election in drawing near and that it will be necessary for the councilmen to submit their lists of election officers for the various precincts and prepare the election proclamation. He said that he had received several applications for positions on the boards.

A bill for $8.40 for districting the town preparatory to the commencement of a campaign against the Argentine ant, was received from the University of California. Inasmuch as there appeared to be no authority for the work, the matter was referred to Councilman Alfred Morgenstern, through whom the bill was submitted, to investigate.

The resolution of Councilman Wm. Hammond Jr., to the effect that the ordinances of the city, as recodified, be published but once was superceded and the advertisement was ordered printed again.

Superintendent of Stretes Frodden reported that the rose covered oak on Grand street and Central avenue, and also a dead oak on Willow street, near San Antonio avenue, had been removed.

No reports were received on the matters of the improvement of the south end of Grand street, the cost of erection of a municipal swimming baths at the south end of Park street, the acceptance of the street work on Grand street, the leasing of the city harbor property to D. J. Hanlon, or the filling of a vacancy in the board of health.

WOMAN IS MADE THUG'S PRISONER

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—Two burglars who had evidently watched Mrs. A. Mattenheim, of 138 Guerrero street, as she left her home, yesterday, forced Mrs. J. Ross, of 134 Guerrero street, to remain in a closet while they searched the Mattenheim home. The robbers evidently expected large booty and argued that Mrs. Ross was the only one likely to interfere with their plan of breaking into the house.

Mrs. Ross responded to the ringing of her bell when a stout man put one foot inside the hallway to prevent her from closing the door. He then forced her into a closet and called out to a second man standing on the curb, telling him to shoot her if she made a move. The woman was so terrorized that she remained in the closet while the burglars searched every nick and cranny of the Mattenheim residence. Valuables to the amount of $45 were the only things taken.

LOADING OF CEMENT INTERRUPTED BY RAIN

The steam schooner Klamath is at Long wharf loading 800 tons of cement for the north. A heavy rain stopped the work for several minutes this morning, but later the weather cleared.

MAN IS THOUGHTFUL.

FLUSHING, N. Y. Jan 18.—After his home had been robbed, Charles R Meigs, inserted an ad in a newspaper, offering to send the burglars the one lone fork which they had forgotten to steal.

THIS WOMAN SAW HISTORY IN MAKING

Funeral of Mrs. Matilda Hummel Is Held in Alameda.

ALAMEDA, Jan 18. — A simple funeral service was held yesterday for Mrs. Matilda Hummel, an old-time resident of Alameda whose 80 years were filled with unusual and interesting experiences and incidents. Mrs. Hummel lived in Paris when Louis Napoleon, the third and last of the Bonapartes, ruled in France. She was in Europe when Alexander II of Russia was assassinated and was then living with a family closely connected with the royal Russian family. During the American Civil War Mrs. Hummel lived in Charleston, South Carolina, and witnessed the firing on Sumter and the later furious attacks of the union forces on the Charleston harbor strongholds.

Mrs. Hummel was born in Hanover, Germany. She came to California 34 years ago and for 32 years lived in this city. Death was due to a recent stroke of paralysis. She celebrated her 80th birthday in November and was then in excellent health.

Mrs Hummel was the mother of Mrs A. Victors and of Hans Hummel of New York. Another son lives in New York and a third son is in Germany She was the grandmother of Mrs. Marie Furst and the Misses Elsa Victors, Miss Ben Anat Victors and Dr. Ernest Victors. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Everett W. Couper of Christ Episcopal church.

EXIT REV. HORN AND HIS MOLE

Deacon and Chief of Police Give Up Case; Divorce to Be Pressed.

RICHMOND, Jan. 18.—Exit Rev. Frank Horn. The mole on his cheek and his amatory troubles have all disappeared. The parsonage is vacant today and another minister will preach tomorrow in the First Baptist Church.

Deacon Stout of the church said today that no search for the missing pastor would be made. Chief Arnold of the police department has also given the case up. His telegrams to Oregon for information as to the charges against Horn, said to be pending there, have not been answered.

Mrs. May de Tovrea, who married Horn under that name, will press her divorce suit against him. It is still generally believed that Mrs. Pearl Church, Horn's landlady, knows of his whereabouts, but she still maintains that she knows nothing as to his present hiding place.

Despite all denials on Mrs. Church's part, in behalf of the missing pastor, Attorneys Hall and Odell, who represent Mrs. Eva Mae De Tovrea, maintain that the latter's positive identification of a silver spoon, a dolly and a leather drinking cup case, besides his picture, are sufficient legal evidence to make Rev. Frank Horn and Rev. Frank de Tovrea one and the same man.

HORSES PULL DOWN ROSE-COVERED OAK

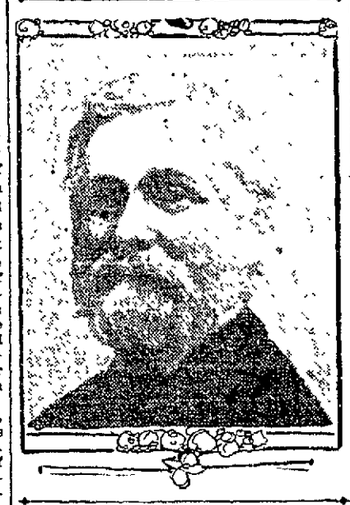

ALAMEDA, Jan. 18. — Two horses hitched to the famous rose covered oak that has for years done service as an advertisement of the city, a crack of the whip, and the thing of beauty was forever gone. The work of taking down the tree was ordered at the last meeting of the city council, and was done by the street department today. The wood is being hauled to the Elks club, where it will be used for fuel.

Investigation this morning revealed that the trunk of the tree was so rotten that it would not be necessary to cut it. The heavy stalks of the rose vine were cut away and the team then hitched on. The pull required was very slight, the entire trunk of the tree being rotten.

GETS $30,000 FOR LOST LEGS.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 18.—A jury in the Supreme Court at White Plains gave a verdict for $30,000 to Richard P. Phelan against the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company. Phelan was employed in coupling cars, when, without warning, cars were backed down upon him and both legs cut off

OPPOSITION OF AUDITOR ROUSES IRE OF WILSON

BERKELEY, Jan. 18.—Opposition on the score of economy which Auditor M. Hanscom has raised to several of his schemes has aroused the ire of Mayor J. Stitt Wilson.

"The auditor already runs nine-tenths of the city's business," Mayor Wilson declared yesterday after the council session. "He'll have the other tenth pretty soon."

The criticism was aroused by Hanscom's opposition to the establishment of a municipal bureau. The scheme has been warmly favored by Mayor Wilson as a part of the Socialist program. Hanscom objected on the ground that if the bureau failed the city would have to meet the costs.

Hanscom was joined in his opposition by Commissioner E. B. Norton, of the department of finance. They wanted the labor bureau left entirely to the contrivance of the charity commission.

The ordinance establishing the bureau was passed to print by the council, providing for a head of the bureau at a salary of $80.

BOOKLET WILL TELL OF FOREIGN TRADE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—A monograph entitled "Foreign Trade in Canned Goods" will soon be issued by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. In addition to the consular reports included in the volume, there is a chapter on the foreign pure-food laws that relate to the importatnon of canned goods.

With few exceptions the consuls have expressed the opinion that the American product compares favorably with that of other countries so far as the quality of the goods and the attractiveness of the containers are concerned. In many cases, however, the foreign goods have an advantage in price. American canned fruits are flavored wherever known, although high prices tend to limit their use in most countries. Canned vegetables from the United States have been gaining popularity for the past five years, although Italian tomatoes are now favored in preference to the American article. Canned meats have recovered the ground lost at the time packing house methods in this country were brought into question.

The consuls have given in detail the statistics of the trade in canned goods, the costs of production, and a great many particulars that will be of value in developing foreign markets for American canned foodstuffs. Copies of the monograph may be obtained upon application to the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

WILL FIGHT LAW ON PLUMAGE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—A test of the law governing possession and sale of the plumage of certain birds will be made in the case of Miss Helene McCulloch, a milliner, who is charged with a misdemeanor in displaying in her shop twenty algrettes, according to a statement of her lawyer. After Miss McCulloch had pleaded guilty, the attorney announced that he represented a majority of the milliners in the city, and was prepared to take the case to the highest court, if necessary. The case was set for trial January 13 next.

DEATH IS RESULT OF MAN'S HEROISM

Howard C. Fieste Killed When He Goes to Companion's Aid.

BERKELEY, Jan. 18. — Heroic daring to save a fellow workman resulted in the death by electrocution of Howard C. Fieste, lineman of the Oakland Gas, Light and Heat Company, at San Pablo avenue and Pardee street yesterday afternoon. Z. J. Chisholm, who had become entangled in a high voltage wire, was cut from his position by Fieste, who took in turn through his body the 4400 volts with which the wire was charged. Fiesta was instantly killed.

Fiesta and Chisholm were at work with four other employes of the electric company "restringing" an old wire. Chisholm attempted to pass the old wire about a high-power new wire, became entangled in the latter and stiffened under the resultant shock against the pole on which he was at work. Only his lineman's belt saved his falling to the street.

At work on the second pole away from Chisholm, Fieste at once saw the predicament in which his companion was placed Clambering quickly to the top of his own pole he raised his scissors to snip in two the high-power wire, which passed his pole as well as the other. His shears had hardly touched the wire when the full 4400 volts shot through his body. His leather belt held his body in mid-air, his scissors falling with a clatter to the pavement.

Arthur Bigland and J. Harris hastened to the assistance of the two workmen. It was though too late to render aid to Fieste, but he was carried from the top of the pole and removed to a neighboring drug store. Police Sergeant Thomas A. Wolley and Patrolmen De Pue and Lee, who had been hastily summoned, applied first aid to Fieste and kept him alive for almost an hour by artificial respiration. By the end of that time a pulmotor had been sent to the scene by the electric company. Dr. J. F. Dibble, using this modern agent for saving life, worked for a long time over Fieste, but in vain Death finally ensued.

The heroic act that had resulted in his death was salvation for Chisholm. The latter was taken to Roosevelt Hospital, where he was treated for severe burns on the hands and nervous shock. He will recover.

Fiesto gripped death when he tackled the wire to save his friend's life. According to fellow workers, he knew the danger he took when he touched the live wire. In attempting to sever the high power cable he meant to cut the current between himself and the substation and thereby stop the "feed" which was endangering Chisholm's life. The pole on which he was at work was wet and proved an easy conductor for the circuit when he applied his snips.

BRITISH JESUIT NEWMAN SPEAKER

Eminent British Divine to Address Members of University Organization.

BERKELEY, Jan. 18. — Father Bernard Vaughan, S. J., of London, England, brother of the late Cardinal Vaughan, will pay his first visit to Newman Hall, the club house of the Catholic students of the University of California, tomorrow afternoon, where as guest of the Alumni Council of the Newman Club he will speak at the 5 o'clock service in Newman Hall chapel.

Father Vaughan is widely known as a lecturer and social worker. His recent Advent sermons, delivered in St. Mary's Cathedral, San Francisco, attracted such large audiences that standing room was at a premium. His beautiful lecture on "Joan of Arc, the Maid of Orleans," also attracted much favorable comment. Many contributions to literature have been made by Father Vaughan. Among the best known of these are his "The Sins of Society" and "Socialism."

Father Vaughan's address will be followed by benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The officers of the Newman Club Council for the spring term are: President, Dr. Mathew C. Lynch; vice-president, Thos. Chace; second vice-president, Miss Almira Johnson; secretary, Miss Alma Tobin; treasurer, Robert D. Rossi.

Fight Fans Disgusted by Rank Decisions of Referee

REFEREE CROSSES HIS WIRES ON STOCKTONIANS

Robs One Lad and Then Gives Decision to Another to Appease Fans

(By THE TIMEKEPPER)

From Eddie Murphy spare us; from Toby Irwin defend us and from Referee Milton Hayes, good Lord, deliver us! Honest t' goodness, I hate to appear a crab, but when the public gets it twice in the same place they look to the sporting writer to voice the roar. Last night at the Pavilion Rink in San Francisco the official referee of the Ormonde Club, Milton Hayes, gave two decisions which should end his career as fistic arbiter. They were just as bad as those given at the last Wheelmen Club Show, and everybody knows just how bad those were.

Hayes got his wires crossed on two Stockton boys, cheating Ad Zotte out of a decision over Hans Wagner, and then trying to make his peace with the Stockton fans by raising Herb White's glove after Red Watson had won four out of the four rounds.

Of course there was an awful howl from the crowd, but what can the crowd do after the decision is made but hoot the smirking boob who had thrown the hooks into them. In addition to his rank decisions, this man Hayes is the most conceited third man in the ring the writer ever saw inflicted upon a suffering public.

During most of last night's bout he appeared to think it beneath his dignity to raise the glove of the fighter to whom the decision was given, and contented himself with smirking at the winner or laughing at the loser.

Red Watson, while not as fast and furious as usual, was the aggressor in the headline bout with Herb White and did most of the clean hitting. At the worst, Watson was entitled to a draw but Hayes had his mind made up otherwise.

This was right at the heels of the Ad Zotte-Hans Wagner bout, in which Zotte outpointed his man in every round and came out of the scrap without a mark, while Wagner's face looked as though a sausage machine had been at it. Hayes called it a draw and it looked for awhile as though the gallery was going to climb into the ring. Possibly it would be a good thing for the game if they did; it certainly could do no more harm than is being done now by referees' "mistakes."

Young Abe Attell, who gave a fine exhibition of clever fisticuffs at the same rink a week ago, was to have boxed Bert White, a brother of Herb, but the Stockton boy could not meet Attell, having injured his thumb in a bout last week.

Anton La Grave gained a decision over Eddie Cerf in an uninteresting bout, and Ray Campbell and Louis Rees, who are getting together about once a week since they put up a good preliminary at the Wolgast-Ritchie fight, went four rounds to a draw.

Johnny O'Leary, northwestern champion, made his first appearance and made a big hit with the onlookers. He is clever and has a good punch, and easily won the decision over Manuel Vierra.

Charlie Eyton, the Los Angeles referee, was among the spectators at the ringside. He is here on a one-day visit, and took a keen interest in the work of the four-rounders.

Six Helping Bud

Bud Anderson has surrounded himself with a big staff of training assistants at Los Angeles and has settled down to probably the most strenuous grind ever undertaken by a lightweight there in training for an important battle. George Memsic, Joe Sliver, Sammy Morris, Young Marino, Freddie Anderson and Eddie Campi will help to prep the knockout wonder from the northwest. Campi will not do any work until Sunday, but he will be in at the finish with Anderson and help to speed him up.

Trott is working like a Trojan every afternoon at Peters' gym in Venice. Young Huddy, one of his sparring partners, makes the startling statement that Trott is as clever and fast as Rivers, and will be a huge surprise to those who think he is only a slow plodding punching bag.

Lightweight Weed Out

* * *

Fred Gilmore, brother of Harry Gilmore Jr., has discarded Jack White and taken up the management of "Spike" Kelly, a welter, who defeated Ray Bronson at Memphis. Fred writes that he believes Kelly will whip all the welters now in the running and that if he hands a beating to "Wildcat" Ferns next month at New Orleans he will step out and claim the welter title.

Amongst the Boxers

Ad Wolgast has handed out a fine boost to Young Jack O'Brien. He says the Philadelphia lightweight is one of the greatest little fighters in the business and declares he is faster than Kilbane or Gibbons.

Johnny Coulon has passed up his French trip and prefers to meet the winner of the Kid Williams-Eddie Campi fight on the coast. Coulon was to get $3000 to meet Charley Ledoux in Paris.

Willie Adams, of Leiperville, has been matched with "One-Round" Hogan. They will meet in New York tonight. Adams' latest victory was over Barney Ford in Chester last Monday night.

Efforts are being made to bring Johnny Dundee, of New ork, and George Kirkwood together.

Manager Harry Edwards announces that he has signed Jack Dillon, of Indianapolis, and Leo Houck of Lancaster, Pa., to meet at the Olympia A. A., New York, in a special show on Wednesday night, January 21. Dillon is the only man who ever stopped Houck. Jim Flynn will also fight at the Olympia later.

After listening to Messrs. Papke, McGoorty, Klaus and a few more one is led to suspect that the middleweight division of pugilism is populated solely by champions

Jeanette Gets Verdict

JOPLIN, Mo., Jan. 18. — Joe Jeannetta, the negro heavyweight, won a popular decision off Jeff Clark of Joplin in a ten-round bout here last night.

Clarke was the aggressor in the first four rounds but after that Jeannette had all the better of the milling. Jeannette landed often but without serious effect.

Greggains Put Out

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 18. — Billy Murray of Sacramento knocked out Joe Greggains of San Francisco in the third round of a scheduled twenty-round bout here last night. By virtue of the victory Murray now lays claim to the championship of the welterweight division in America and is ready to meet anybody in the 142-pound class.

Police Stop Fight

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 18. — A squad of plain clothes men and police, headed by a sergeant, appeared by the ringside last night when the scheduled fight between Packy McFarland and Frankie Whitney was ready for staging and prevented the belligerents from appearing as announced. The sheriff, with a corps of deputies, also was present.

The two prospective fighters were introduced to the audience, two wrestling exhibitions were furnished and the entertainment ended. A few days ago Chief of Police Dunn put a ban on boxing matches and thus ended, for the present at least, the promotion of fistic carnivals in this city.

It was announced, however, that the ten-round bout between "Knockout" Brown and Billy Uvick in South Omaha Monday night would be carried out. South Omaha is a separate municipal corporation.

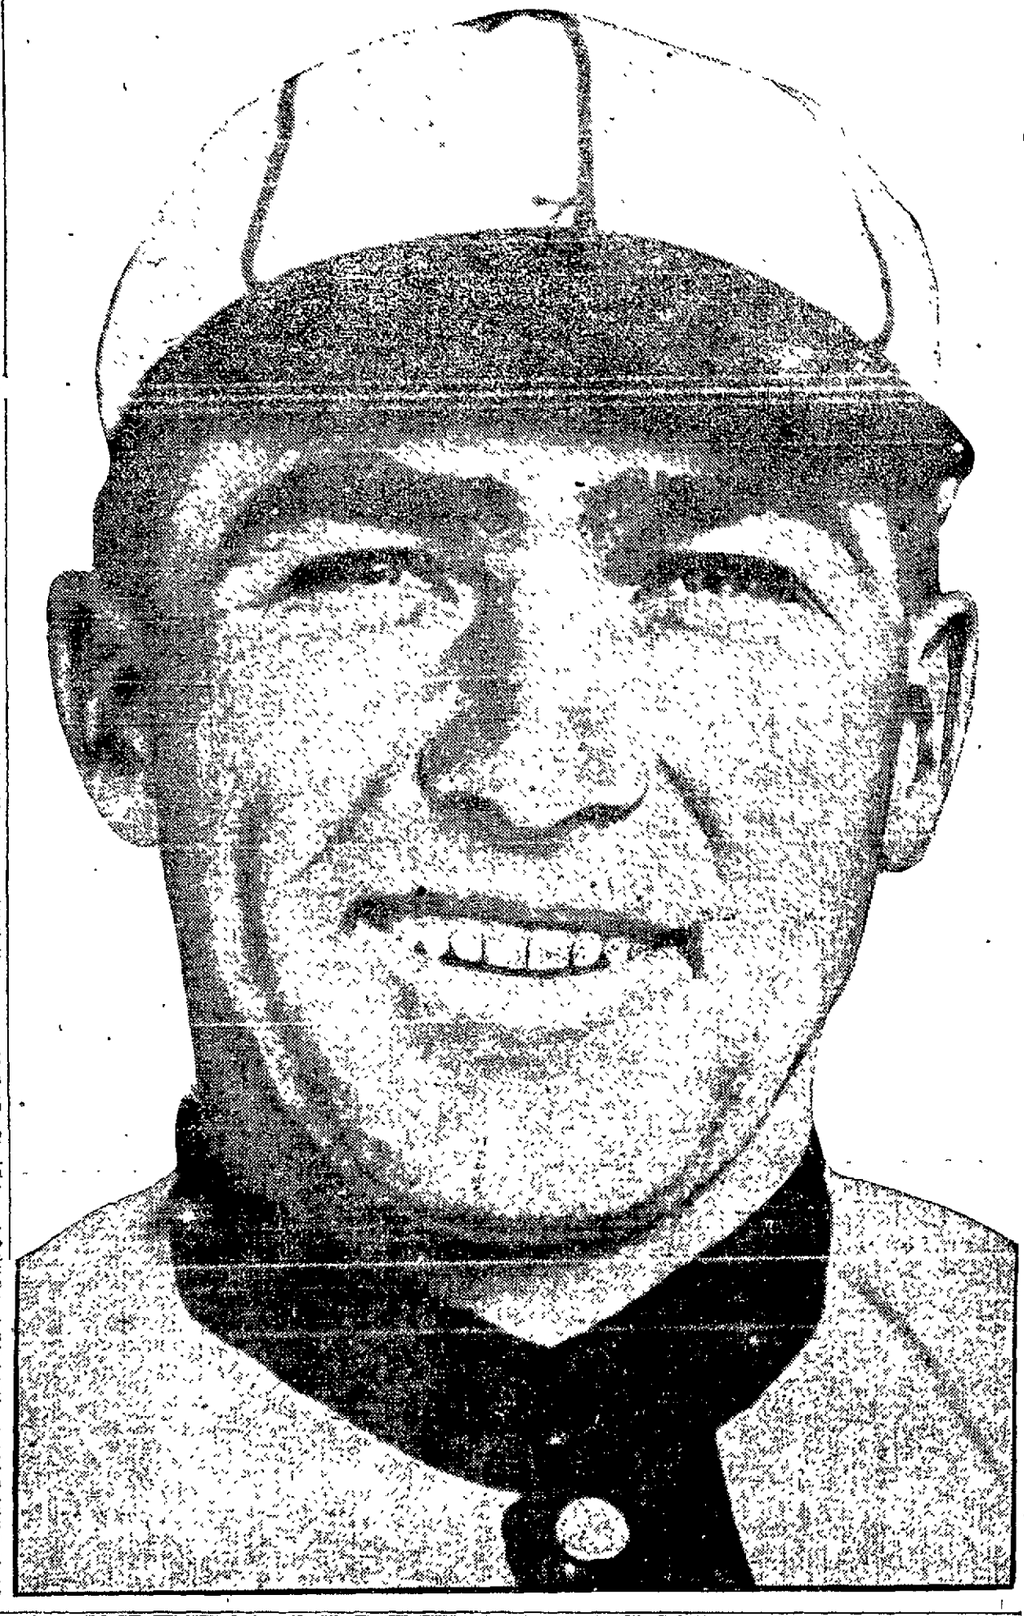

Concerning Toby Irwin

Irwin tried for some time yesterday to convince the writer that there was a possible defense for his decision last Wednesday night, giving a draw to Willie Meehan and depriving Grande of a justly-earned decision. Says Irwin:

"I will admit that Grande had a very decided lead in the last round, but it was the only time he did have. At the long range work he was completely at sea and all he could do was to run away. The only execution he did was when in close and then he did a lot of unnecessary and ineffective rushing."

As a matter of fact, Grande did no running away, but kept crowding Meehan purposely in order to avoid the hop, skip and jump punch which is the only thing that Meehan has. The writer believes that the Meehan-Grande fight was a good draw up to the tenth round and that in the last round Grande won the fight by as far as a man could win one. Irwin says he gave the decision as he saw it. This may be and probably is so, but for the good of the sport someone other than Irwin should referee the next show. The public demands it.

MANAGER "HONUS" MITZE, LEADER OF CHAMPS

WILL SELECT TRAINING GROUNDS WITHIN WEEK

Mitze, President Leavitt and Secretary Cook Will Look Over Candidates

(By BILLY FITZ.)

Manager Carl Mitze of the 1913 champion Oakland ball club arrived this morning on the overland from Los Angeles, and was welcomed by a gathering of fans, newspaper men and base ball officials, who have been impatiently praying for his coming.

The successor to Bud Sharpe, husky and browned, had scarcely swung off the train when he was enthusiastically grabbed and hustled up to base ball headquarters in the Okaland Bank of Savings and made the target for a good-natured bombardment of questions that every fan had had on the tip of his tongue for weeks.

"You bet, I'm glad to be back in Oakland," said the base ball leader; "it looks like the greatest year ahead for the coast in the history of base ball. The ding-dong finish we put up last year roused everybody, and especially Oakland. Now we are going to start the season with a new ball park and the prestige that comes to winners. I am not going to say that we will win the flag again, but we will be right there with practically the same team, and we certainly look to have the jump on the other fellows."

Mitze practically O. K.'d the lineup that was announced in THE TRIBUNE a few days ago. Contracts were sent out today to all who have not yet signed up.

Mitze figures that every man on the club should be as good as a year ago. None of them, he thinks, is on the down grade. In short, he believes that the 1913 Oaks will be fully as strong as those of 1913, and just a little more compact and machinelike by having fought shoulder to shoulder through a nerve-testing campaign.

He bases this belief, however, on the assumption that he can find among his recruits a suitable successor to Patterson.

TWO NEW ONES.

There will be two strangers seeking to slip into Patterson's ample brogans —Schirm, who was bought from the Buffalo club, and Becker, a drafted star from the Virginia League.

The first base problem is not likely to drive Mitze into insomnia with Tiedemann back on the job, and Ness and Gardner trying to take it away from the ex-tar. Ness hails from the New England League and Gardner was drafted from Topeka. These, with Guest, an infielder from the New England League, complete the list of new faces in the Oakland art gallery.

Leard at second base, Hetling at third and Cook at short, veterans of last season, will complete the infield.

Zacher and Coy will be back on the job in the outfield.

SAME OLD PITCHERS.

Killilay, who led the league last season, will head the same old pitching staff, his fellow-laborers being Ables, Gregory, Malarkey, Christian, Olmstead, Pernoll and the ever-present Mr. Cy Parkin. That Oakland considers this staff sufficient for all its needs is indicated by the fact that no effort has been made to inject any new talent into its personnel.

TO LIVERMORE MONDAY.

Monday, Mitze, President Leavitt and Secretary Jack Cook will go to Livermore to look over the prospects there and confer with the Livermore Chamber of Commerce. Then they will visit San Jose and possibly Agua Caliente. Before the end of next week the site for the training camp will be announced.

W. V. (Daddy) Rohrer, John Tiedemann, William Leard, A. W. Cook, Gus Hetling, Bert Coy, Ashley Pope, H. W. Gregory, Tyler Christian, W. Malarkey, H. Olmstead, H. H. Pernoll, J. W. Killilay, R. E. (Cy) Parkin, Art Guest, Jess Becker, "Rube" Gardner, John Ness and George Schirm.

Contracts have already been signed by Manager Mitze, Elmer Zacher, Ody Abbott, Harry Ables, George Wells and J. Emery.

Contracts may be sent to Delmas and to young Ward, who finished the season with the Oaks last year.

BIG STEEN IS TAKING THINGS EASY IN CLEVELAND

PORTLAND, Jan. 18.—A letter received here from Bill Steen reports that the big fellow is taking life easy in Cleveland, merely waiting for the training season to start.

Bill declares that he will be heavier this season and stronger than he was last year, and expects to get started off well, something in which he was unfortunate last season.

Steen will leave with the other players wintering in Cleveland for Pensacola on February 22, where the preliminary work of the battery men will be taken up.

The best part of his letter is the boost he gives Hi West, who was with the Naps part of last year, and will almost certainly be turned over to Portland.

Steen classes West as a Wonderfully effective pitcher, one who should have no trouble in winning a big majority of his games, as he knows how to pitch.

When Maganer McCredie was in the east Secretary Barnard of the Cleveland club promised to turn West over to Portland, and the local pilot is still expecting him to be a member of the local staff.

No mention of Bill James was made at this time, and there is a possibility of the Cleveland management considering that its obligation has been fulfilled by the sale of James, but the local magnate doesn't take this view of the situation, and still confidently expects to hear of his sale to Portland at any time.

PHOENIX SCHEDULE INCLUDES DATES WITH COASTERS

The Phoenix nine of St. Mary's College will have a busy time of it during the coming season. Although Graduate Manager Russell has not as yet completed his schedule, the games which have been practically decided upon follow: January 29, St. Mary's vs. Stanford at Stanford; February 22, St. Mary's vs. California; March 4, St. Mary's vs. California; March 5 (doubtful), St. Mary's vs. Stanford; March 8 and 9, St. Mary's vs. Portland Coast league; March 19, St. Mary's vs. Stanford; March 15 and 16, St. Mary's vs. Sacramento Coast league; April 9, St. Mary's vs. Stanford.

Russell is negotiating with the Oakland Coast league managers, the San Francisco Cosat league managers, Vernon Coast league managers, Olympic club and other fast teams throughout the state. He will also make an attempt to tangle with the White Sox upon their arrival here. It is not improbable that satisfactory results can be obtained.

If there are any managers of fast state teams who think they can defeat the Phoenix aggregation they can accommodated by dropping a line to Graduate Manager Clifford Russell, St. Mary's College, Oakland.

The sailor boys from Uncle Sam's Maryland are still looking for their goat. He was last seen browsing peacefully near the entrance of the Grove Street park on Sunday, January 12. It is rumored that he was abducted by the Originals immediately after the big game. If there is any truth in the report there's little hope for the sailors. The Originals' lineup will be stronger than ever.

* * *

* * *

Now is the time that the sporting world misses Eddie Smith, the squarest friend of the fistic game, and the most capable referee of them all. I remember that just before his death, when the reformers were threatening to end the game entirely, the promoters appealed to Eddie Smith to go to Sacramento and exert his influence in their behalf. Eddie did, and took along with him Frankie Burns and one other clean little boxer. "Gentlemen," he said to the legislators, "I always carry my samples." If Eddie was alive today the promoters would feel a whole lot easier over the outlook at Sacramento.

* * *

Assistant Secretary H. S. McFarlin was somewhat surprised when he read in last night's TRIBUNE that Mitze had arrived in Los Angeles with the announcement that he would stay a week there. McFarlin expects Mitze to arrive here tonight or tomorrow.

* * *

Young Henry Hickey will begin training February 1 at Al White's for a bout next month which has been promised him by Manager Moffitt of the Wheelmen. Hickey thinks he could take care of himself with Young Abe Attell, but should be warned against becoming too ambitious after he has been out of the game so long.

* * *

Tommy Freitas and Kid Romeo put up the fastest opening round ever seen at the Wheelmen's Pavilion in their four-round bout last Wednesday. It was the fastest round I ever saw anywhere. The lads have been rematched for next month.

* * *

George Wheeler, veteran indicator man, is to be no longer with the Coast League. There are six others on the staff, somebody had to go, and President Baum decided on Wheeler. The umpire was formerly a star pitcher and has been with Los Angeles, and later the Seals. He has been with the league for ten years. He quit the game to become an indicator man last year and made a good record.

* * *

Gunner Smith should take the measure of Al McCloskey in four rounds or less by just using his straight left. McCloskey does not seem to be able to protect himself from that blow, while it happens to be the Gunner's specialty.

* * *

Jim Buckley was over yesterday to see Al White and arrange for accommodations for the Gunboat. Harlem Tommy Murphy will also probably use the quarters here unless he goes to Billy Shannon's place. He thinks the latter place is lucky since he beat Burns.

EXCLUSIVE CALIFORNIA TROTTING CIRCUIT, PLAN

Horsemen Give Up Idea of Big Coast Circuit and Will Form Smaller Body

With the announcement that the meeting called for this month is off for good, and the withdrawal of the California State Fair, Pacific Coast Breeders and Angeles and Phoenix, the proposition for a big Pacific coast trotting circuit extending through Washington, California, Oregon, Arizona and even northwest and Arizona, is knocked in the head. Sherry Christy, one of the private owners, has himself given it up as a bad job and called off the proposed meeting.

Pleasanton, Woodland, Sacramento, Stockton, Los Angeles, Salinas and a number of other cities will likely be represented, and the business of alloting dates for meetings he finished tonight.

Another important discussion is the proposition of state fairs in California. Horsemen will make a fight at the legislature for support of the state in helping state fairs to be a success, and without that aid horsemen declare that the sulky sport will go on the decline as well as the agricultural interests.

Prospects are bright for a successful season of light harness competition next season, and the meeting in San Francisco promises to bring out a full representation. According to present indications the first meeting will not open until in the fall, when the harvesting is about over although there is a chance that R. J. MacKenzie may decide to promote a race meet at Pleasanton this spring. Another big man in the game is John W. Considine who recently purchased the Woodland stock farm and has promised to give a big race meet there.

DETERMINED BROOKLYNS AGAIN AFTER ORIGINALS

That Brooklyn aggregation of American football players from San Francisco is to be complimented on their supply of persistency. They are after the Originals of Oakland again and hope to turn the tide of victory their way when they meet at the St. Ignatius grounds Sunday afternoon (January 19) at 2.30 p. m. in San Francisco.

They were pretty well defeated on the occasion of their last game with the Oakland boys, the final score being 23-0, but their contention since has been that their lineup did not come up to their capacity on account of their crippled condition. Their subsequent gains have shown a marked improvement over their showing against the Originals.

When they meet the Originals on Sunday again they will present the strongest lineup they have ever had.

Several players incapacitated through injuries early in the season will be included in their lineup. Captain Adler Edwards, who showed a lot of class in their game against the Vallejo team; Gilbert, formerly of Cogswell; Deutsch and Schroeder will all be on hand. The rest of the lineup are in the pink of condition.

The Oakland boys are keeping in condition, however, for their return game with the Maryland sailor team, and feel confident that the Brooklyn team will prove just as easy as before.

The Brooklyn team has a large following in San Francisco and the reservations for tickets indicate a big attendance. Fans from this side of the bay can reach the grounds in San Francisco by taking a McAllister street car from the Ferry and getting off at the St. Ignatius College grounds.

The game will be called promptly at 2:30 p. m. by Pete Smith, who will referee. Isaacs, the crack fullback of the Yosemite team, will umpire.

GONORRHEA CURED

As long as any vestige of the discharge remains no man is cured of this disease, and it is to his interest to seek the services of a specialist who has never failed to cure any case which came under his care. Those affected with this disease make a grave mistake in trying to doctor themselves with drug clerk prescriptions and advertised "injections." The injections force the disease farther into the body and make it more deep-seated and impossible for the average physician to cure.

LIQUOR QUESTION UP TO VOTERS

Election to Decide if Albany Shall Go "Dry" or Remain "Wet."

ALBANY, Jan. 18.—Saint Valentine's Day is the time appointed by the trustees of Albany for the people to determine at the polls if Albany's six saloons shall close. The no-license forces will open their campaign with a public meeting at the schoolhouse on Thursday evening of next week and have arranged for further meetings on February 6 and 12. The saloon forces have secured the use of the schoolhouse for the night before the election.

Trustees Somerset and Thompson, who since the beginning of the present agitation were appointed a committee to investigate side entrances to Albany saloons, reported at the trustees' meeting on Monday evening that conditions were such that an ordinance ought to be passed removing all side entrances, boxes and music from saloons. The city attorney was directed to prepare such an ordinance and present it.

YES, HOBO WAS REALLY SCARED

On Command He Walked Into Arms of Heavily Armed Posse.

SAN RAFAEL, Jan. 18. — Warden Hoyle, Sheriff J. J. Keating and a number of guards, on being notified yesterday that a man was in hiding in a deserted cabin on the beach at Bolinas Bay, rushed in an automobile to the scene, certain that Herbert Repsold, the escaped "perfumed burglar," was their quarry.

Heavily armed, the penitentiary posse surrounded the cabin and ordered its occupant to come forth. A badly-scared hobo made his appearance, begging the posse not to shoot.

The miscreant was a chicken thief, and the ranchers in the vicinity, missing their fowls, had discovered his presence in their midst and notified the prison officials.

CASE OF SMALLPOX FOUND AT RICHMOND

RICHMOND, Jan. 18.—A case of smallpox was discovered here last evening in the Walborg Hotel, west side. The matter was reported at once to the local health department, and a commissioner immediately visited the hotel, where he found one man ill and another recovering. The man now ill came here recently from Nevada. Blake was accompanied by the attending physician, and arrangements were at once made to isolate the sick man. The other roomers of the hotel were all vaccinated, and the building thoroughly fumigated.

Blake also issued orders to Superintendent Helms that all teachers in the local schools living in Berkeley must either remain there or stay in Richmond until the epidemic in the college town was stamped out. He also notified Melms to keep all unvaccinated scholars at home from the Washington Grammar School on the west side. No further cases are expected, but every precaution is being taken to guard against the disease.

HEALTH GOOD; DEATH SCARCE AT RICHMOND

RICHMOND, Jan. 18.—The annual report of Health Commissioner C. R. Blake of the vital statistics of the city show that Richmond has a remarkably low death rate, and that the birth rate is exceptionally high. The figures also show that Richmond is one of the healthiest cities in the State. A part of the report follows:

Births registered for 1912, 236. Birth rate per thousand, 23.6; San Francisco birth rate, 14.67. Death, total, including coroner's cases, 125, of which 79 were males and females 46, and only 62 actual residents. Death rate per thousand, 6.2; San Francisco death rate 12.12.

The city has been kept free from epidemics or contageous or infectious diseases, measles being the only thing of the sort.

ROYAL MAIL TO CROSS THE BAY

RICHMOND, Jan. 18.—It is now deemed certain that the Royal Steam Packet Company of London will make use of the Belt railroad wharves in this city for part of its freight service when it begins running its steamers through the Panama Canal to the San Francisco bay. E. J. Martyn Nash, managing director of the Royal Mail Company, is in San Francisco, where he arrived several days ago.

Nash was brought to this city a year ago and made an inspection of the local waterfront, and especially of the Belt Railway wharves. He was seen again yesterday on behalf of Richmond, but would neither affirm or deny that it was the intention of his company to bring a part of its freight work to the port of this city.

Nash has, however, during the past two days, conferred with the Southern Pacific officials and the officials of the Belt Line Company here regarding the use of the wharves for freight steamers, and it is confidently expected that the Royal Mail vessels will be using these wharves along with the Kosmos and American-Hawaiian lines before the end of the current year.

Seventh Grade—Earl Philips.

Eighth Grade—Violet Fell and Edna Walden.

S. P. PUSHING RAILWAY WORK AT RICHMOND

RICHMOND, Jan. 18.—That the Southern Pacific Company means business with its interurban electric railroad is shown by the way it is pushing the reconstruction of the Nicholl line on Washington and Richmond avenues ad Park place, west side, which it purchased whe it decided to extend its electric interurban system to this city. The franchises for the entire system will be awarded by the council at its meeting next Monday evening, and with the sale of the franchise the construction work at the other end of the line will be commenced, and the grading and rail soon be going into shape across Richmond Annex from the Ninth-street loop in Albany. Traffic over this much of the line, via Cutting boulevard for two miles, will commence in the spring, according to latest advies from the engineers.

RICHMOND NOTES

RICHMOND, Jan. 18.—The Richmond Elks attended in a body the funeral services of the late James Lowney yesterday at 2 p. m. A solemn requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. Father O'Sullivan. In addition to his lodge brethren there were hundreds of other friends of the late Standard Oil paymaster. Beautiful floral pieces were sent by Richmond Elks, Vallejo Elks, Standard Oil employes and others.

That Contra Costa county is growing rapidly, and that the growth of 1912 was greater than any other year in history is shown by the statement of George O. Meese concerning the many new subdivisions of property which have been made during that period. From March 1, 1912, up to date, there have been 54 new subdivisions made in this county, the large majority of which being in the vicinity of Richmond.

Building for this week has shown a decided firmness, considering the fact that the weather has been such as to practically stop all building operations most of the week. The building permits issued for the week by City Architect J. B. Ogborn fix the total cost of new buildings at $15,150.

The Elks Hall Association at a meeting last evening decided to go ahead with the construction of the main building of four stories as fast as weather conditions will permit, and contracts for the work will be awarded in a few days.

Miss Kathleen Woodfill, a well-known and popular young woman of the San Pablo district, adjoining the city on the north, was married in Oakland yesterday to Samuel J. Wood of Richmond. Miss Woodfill is the daughter of C. B. Woodfill, a well-known engineer of San Pablo.

The Loreloi Club met at the home of Miss Barbara Roth last evening and enjoyed a pleasant social evening at Dutch whist.

Despite the storm weather, which has marked the opening of the public schools for the spring term, the attendance shows a handsome increase over that of last year, and is now over the 1800 mark. This is expected to reach close to the 2000 mark when the storms of the present clear away and many of the younger children can get to the schools who are now being kept away at home because of the downpour of rains. A marked increased interest in the local school system is also noticeable, with the addition of the fine new structures, and very few children are sent away from Richmond to private schools.

The board of trade has interested itself in the improvement of the Macdonald avenue subway, and a committee named from the booster body will take up the project at once with the Southern Pacific Railway Company the project of having the subway widened and improved.

FREMONT BALL TEAM WILL BE STRONG AGGREGATION

As soon as Jupiter Pluvius turns off the water faucets of the upper regions and the baseball fields hereabouts again become navigable, Coach J. B. Nash will trot out the youngsters who will handle Fremont high school's baseball honor during the coming season. If past performances can be relied upon, Fremont's chances in the amateur baseball world are unusually bright for the 1913 season. In fact, Coach Nash will have a bunch of lads to pick from who will be hard to beat and there is no doubt that the green and gold's baseball outlook is the brightest it has ever been.

Nash will have a large number to pick his nine from. In the infield there will be Harry Morse, Dick Bower, Dick Arlett, Bob Vose, Earl Hammond and several other lads who have not as yet been seen in action. Of these lads Morse, who is captain of the squad, will probably have an easy time landing shortstop. Bower is also pretty certain of a berth on the regular nine, he being the only other veteran infielder. Bower will be out for the keystone sack. Vose and Hammond are both new men, and both are after first base. It is about an even break betwen the two and the one strongest with the stick will probably land the job. First was handled last year by "Bunny" Kaiser, who left school at the end of the term.

Dick Arlett was a substitute on the team last year. He is working for third and has an excellent chance. Arlett has been practicing diligently of late and is showing an improvement over his last year's playing.

Fremont's outfield will be much stronger this season than last. Frank Fields is the only veteran in this department. Burny McDonald, Paul McCoy and Louis Hinck are all candidates for one of the three outer gardens. All are going strong and for the most part are heavy stickers. "Red" Baldwin will be at the receiving end. Baldwin has caught for Fremont for two seasons and is one of the best amateurs in the state. In addition to being a strong batsman he is also an unusually accurate base thrower and it is almost sure death for a runner to try and purloin a base on him.

At present there are but two pitchers who are promising. Pete Staracinich and "Baby" Domes are the heavers, and both are working in a most satisfactory manner. Staracinich is looked upon to do the heavy work for the nine. It is not yet definitely known whether Domes will make a bid for the job but it is probable that he will.

There are several other likely looking heavers on the campus and Coach Nash will endeavor to make a general roundup of the entire crew in order to get the best team possible on the fild.

DOLLY MINGS WILL BE COMPETITOR IN BIG SWIM

Miss Dolly Mings, one of the best all-around swimmers in Southern California, has about decided to enter the big tournament to be held in the Y. M. C. A. tank in San Francisco. Officials of the northern institution have kept the wires hit for the past week in an endeavor to persuade Miss Mings to participate in the big tourney, but it was not until the concerted efforts of her friends here were brought to bear that she consented to perform away from home.

Miss Mings is pobably the best woman swimmer ever developed in Southern California. Last year she won the long distance swim at Ocean Park, and holds a number of coast records. A remarkable feature of her past performances has been her speed in short races and great stamina in the longer routes. If Miss Mings finally enters the northern tournament there is little doubt that she will win even if pitted against the best talent the north has to offer.

ST. MARY'S TEAM TO HAVE TRYOUT TOMORROW

There will be a game between the Independents of St. Mary's College and the Frazer photo nine tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. if the weather permits. The game will be played at St. Mary's campus. It will be the first tryout of the nine under the direction of Coast Eddie Burns. Burns will send the following into the fray: Leggett, Giugni, Horan, Cleffiin, Maher and Childs, infielders; Fappa, Guisto, Johnson and Hayden, outfielders; Oescager, Johnstone and Glavanich, pitchers; Vlught and Cummings, catchers.

Miller is employed as an engineer at the Palo Alto Water works and was at work when the bar fell from a scaffold. He was operated on at a local hospital and it is believed he will recover.

CHANGE DATE OF BIG GOLF TOURNEY OPENING

BOSTON, Jan. 18.—A change has been made in the date of the national open golf championship from June 4 to some time in September in order that several British and French players may participate, that will be agreeable to the officials of the Brookline Country club, where the event will be held. Such a postponement would bring to this country Edward Ray, present British champion; Harry Vardon and Harry Vardon, George Duncan and possibly several Frenchmen who are to play in the British championship late in June.

TO RESUME ROWING

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—New York University students are proposing the resumption of rowing activities which have been suspended since the burning of their boathouse on the Harlem several years ago. The first year it is planned to confine the rowing to interclass regattas, but as soon as the sport is on a solid basis entry in the intercollegiate events is contemplated.

ARRANGE MATCH.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18.—Jack Souter, the veteran professional of the Racquet club of this city, and Charles Williams are arranging a match for the title of world's racquet champion. Articles are on the way to Williams, according to which the first match will be played here in March, and the second in London in May.

BERKELEY Y.M.C.A. HAS PRACTICALLY WON THE TITLE

Berkeley Y. M. C. A. practically cinched the championship of the bay counties Y. M. C. A. basketball tourney last night by decisively defeating Oakland "Y" 120-pound aggregation by the score of 34—10. The game was much better than the score would indicate, the local youngsters fighting to the last ditch but the speedy team work of the college town lads broke up every rally started by the Oaklanders. The game last night was played in Berkeley and was witnessed by a fair sized crowd. Following is the standing of the teams: Berkeley has won 7, lost 1, and has 2 games to play. Oakland has won 4, lost 3, and has 3 to play. San Francisco has won 1, lost 3 and has 1 to play.

If Oakland can win the three remaining games and Berkeley lose its two, the teams will be tied. However, there is little likelihood of such a happening and the Berkeleyans are conceded the championship. San Francisco was out of the running from the first and was easy picking for the other two contestants.

The team which represented the local organization last night follows: L. Abbott (captain), E. Johnson, M. Hood, E. Converse, T. Balch C. Drew and J. Black.

BEAVERS TO START OUT EARLIER THIS SEASON

PORTLAND, Jan. 18.—With Visalia the choice of the Beavers as the training camp for the coming season, Manager McCredie expects to leave here slightly earlier than last year, when the members of the team who had wintered in Portland left here on Sunday, March 1.

This brought them to Santa Maria during the middle of the week, and there was little doing until the following Sunday.

This year Manager McCredie plans to get started on Thursday, February 26, ordering the other members of the team to report at Visalia on Saturday, February 28.

There should be enough men in line to have some sort of a game on Sunday, the following day, although this would be ratch rearly to put the tossers through any hard workouts, as they would have had no time to get the kinks worked out of their muscles in this short time.

The seasop opens one day earlier than last year, the first games being played on April 1, and this will give the locals over four weeks to get into condition for the hard campaign.

Gus Fisher, Artie Krueger, Walter Doane, Doc Schmeider, Dave Gregg and Manager McCredie are the only members of the team who will leave from Portland, the other ulayers being scattered all the way from Chadbourne in Maine and Howley in Boston., Mass, to Erve Higginbotham in San Diego.

SIGN CONTRACTS.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 18.—Outfielder Luther Bonnin and Catcher Frank Crossin signed contracts yesterday to play with the local American League club during the season of 1913. Bonnin was obtained from the Columbus American Association club in 1911 but an injury kept him out of the game.

DATES ACCEPTED.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The dates of June 10 and 14 for the international polo matches on Long Island are formally accepted by the English challengers in a fatter, received from the Burlingham club. The club expressed the hope that the competition would be so close that a third game would be necessary.

ENGLISH DRIVER IN HUDSON WINS

(By EDMUND CRINNION.)

An American built car driven by an English army officer opened the eyes of Australians a short time ago, when Lieutenant Theodore Metcalfe established a new road record between Brisbane and Toowoomba, Australia, making one hour and 30 minutes better time than the previous record holder.

The distance was 90 miles. The only preparation made for the run was the sealing of the hood and basoline tanks. The best previous record for that distance was 4 hours and 30 minutes, Lieutenant Metcalfe clipping one hour and 13 minutes off the mark with his Hudson, according to factory advices to S. G. Chapman. His time was 48 minutes faster than the time occupied by the fast Sydney mail train between the two towns.

The roads over which the run was made were very bad. But with the exception of a moment's halt to remove an obstruction from the road, it was a non-stop run. In spots, where the roads were best, a speed of 50 miles an hour was made.

A climb up the mountain side, a distance of four miles, was made in 8 minutes, the car proving itself a magnificent climber.

Forsyth Thallon, son of the late Australian Commissioner of Railways J. F. Thallon, accompanied Lieutenant Metcalfe.

In addition to the baggage, the car carried two spare rims and tires, and with gasoline and oil was heavily weighted.

NORTHWEST IS BOOMING.

Henry L. Olive, the Overton agent at Spokane, was in San Francisco the latter part of last week in conference with the officers of J. W. Leavitt & Co., the Coast agents for the Overland cars. Olive came south for the expressed purpose of securing 24 carloads, or in other words, 144 Overland cars, to be delivered as soon as possible, none of which to reach the northern city later than the first of March. Olive, in speaking of the trade in the Northwest, says:

"There is no question but what this is going to be the greatest automobile selling season that the Northwest has ever known. I have orders for Overlands on my desk some of which carry a premium for immediate delivery. There is no question but what the enthusiastic good roads movement is responsible for the heavy sales during the winter. Many owners even now are touring, and there is no question but that at the first signs of spring that the whole Northwest will be a-motoring.

ALCO LIMOUSINE FOR MRS. HEARST.

One of the finest limousines that has ever been seen in San Francisco has been received by the Auto Sales Company. It is to be delivered to Mrs. Phebe Hearst. It is a six-cylined Alco, finished in dark maroon and brown, the color scheme being followed in the broadcloth finishing of the car proper and beautiful hand-buffed leather in the driver's apartment. The natural wood finish is in deep tone mohogany.

The car is an example of the highest art of motor car resigning. Every little necessity and desire of an owner has been foreseen. There are three dome lights with two extra Pullman lights let into the corners of the body of the car. Besides at night, when the door is opened, the step is illuminated by running board lights.

MANY OFFERINGS UPSET MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan 18.—Movements of prices on the Stock Exchange during the week reflected the nervous state of speculative sentiment and at times the market was badly upset by the pressure of offerings. There were evidences of hurried liquidation, and not only the speculative leaders, but standard investment stocks, were depressed. In the latter part of the week the volume of selling contracted and trading became more quiet, but efforts to elevate prices were met with fresh offerings and little progress was made.

The feeling of nervous uncertainty was attributed largely to political conditions, which were the chief object of interest during the week. The street placed a bearish construction on speeches made by President-elect Wilson, and sentiment was also influenced by the various proposals for federal and state legislation to restrict stock exchange operations. The disturbed condition of the copper metal market was another bearish factor.

The market closed steady. Raiding tactics were less effective today, and although the early advance was interrupted by a sharp drive against the favorite issues, the list soon exhibited resiliency and improved smartly. Trading was on a small scale and the general movement was comparatively narrow. Covering operations supplied the chief prop of the market. Buying for the long account was limited, owing to discrimination of purchasers against certain classes of stocks. Several specialties, including some which have been liquidated heavily of late, made substantial advances.

TEXAS LINE FORCED TO BORROW FOUR ENGINES

SAN FRANCISCO Jan. 18.—Owing to rail conditions of a rather peculiar nature in Texas just now an unusual telegraphic request was received at the general offices of the Southern Pacific in this city. It was from the Sunset Central lines in Texas.

"Please let us borrow four freight locomotives" the dispatch read.

"Sure" was the gist of the response and last night four big freighters started for El Paso from Los Angeles.

The Sunset Central's dearth of desirable locomotives is due to a recent inspection by Interstate Commerce inspectors. The inspectors have doubled their vigilance and wherever a defect not matter of how minor a nature was discovered the locomotive was ordered out of commission. As a result its shops are overcrowded with work. The Southern Pacific expects to get the four engines back in a month. The Sunset Central in reality is the Harriman line east of El Paso. The jurisdiction of General Manager Scott of the Southern Pacific extends to the meeting point.

The Leaders Fall Off Sharply Until Purchases Stiffen Market.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Prices changes were small at the opening of the market today, with a tendency upward. The only fluctuation of more than a fraction was in Louisville, which rose a point.

Prices were not long maintained and the bears finding that the demand was satisfied, offered stocks rather freely, for a while sending the usual leaders off sharply. Purchases were resumed around low levels and the market rallied strongly again, with Amalgamated going a point above yesterday's closing.

ARSENAL FOUND IN ROOM OF FUGITIVE

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 18.—Charles H. Green, a negro, whose room, when visited by the police last night, revealed a small arsenal, fled today before a posse of deputy sheriffs. He is accused of burglary.

Green is alleged to have assaulted Dr. J. C. Paine in the latter's residence at South Pasadena last Tuesday night. Although the condition of his room indicated that he had prepared to resist any attempt to capture him, he fled when the officers approached and is believed to be in the mountains east of Pasadena.

Patients Speak for Themselves

KIDNEY AND LUNG TROUBLES
OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 20, 1912.
To Whom It May Concern:
This is to certify that I have been suffering from kidney and lung trouble for several years and treated by many of the most prominent physicians in this city, but none of them seemed to do me any good. I also visited the famous springs of California with the same result, and then I gave up all hope of ever being cured. As a last resort, I was advised by an old friend of mine to call and consult Drs. Chan and Kong. I called on the doctors the next day and without asking me any questions they told me they understood my case. I began the treatment immediately, and after two days I felt like a new person. So I continued the treatment for three weeks, at which time I was entirely cured. Indeed, they gave me many more years to live. I write this testimonial in my gratitude and for the benefit of any person who is suffering from any cause whatsoever. I remain, very sincerely yours. MRS. M. SMITH.

VENTURA LEADS IN BEAN PRODUCTION

County the First of Fifty-eight Also in Honey Output.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 18.—Ventura county, with its fifty miles of sea frontage, picturesquely located cities and towns, is the leading county among the fifty-eight of the State of California in the annual production of dry and edible beans, and first in honey product, according to figures that have been compiled by Secretary of State Frank Jordan from an article he has prepared for publication in the State Blue Book which will soon be off the press. In addition, Jordan finds that Ventura county ranks second in sugar beet production, second in apricot production, third in walnut production, and sixth in the value of all crops.

By no means does this list include all the interesting things about the county that are related in the Blue Book article. With the total land area of the county 1,201,920 acres, Jordan finds that only 550,199 acres are in farms. The value of farm property is given at $48,262,645, and the value of domestic animals at $2,826,239. The increase of the value of farm property in ten years amounted to $26,829,158, a gain of 125.2 per cent over 1900. These figures are based on the United States census reports for 1910, and state reports, which Jordan has used in making his comparative figures on the rank of the respective counties.

The annual honey product of the county is placed at 1,839,986 pounds. The receipts from the sale of domestic animals for the year amounted to $793,395. The number of bearing fruit trees were divided as follows: orchard fruits 259,682; tropical fruits 253,754, nut trees 110,984. The yield of orchard fruits for the year amounted to 618,490 bushels, and the yield of nuts to 3,832,116 pounds. The number of bearing walnut trees was 98,622, and the yield of walnuts 3,665,935 pounds. The total value of all crops is placed at $6,751,759.

The dry and edible bean product amounted to 1,313,156 bushels, the sugar beet crop to 149,175 tons, the olive product to 686,171 pounds, the lemon product to 347,804 boxes, and the orange product to 310,239 boxes.

Jordan has called attention to the resources, possibilities and beauties of the county, with considerable detail. He tells of every variety of soil to be found within the county. He tells of the semi-tropical climate, especially that of the seashore and mountain valleys which is termed "the most equitable in the world." The county is credited with containing the greatest lima bean section in the world, having an annual product of 8,000,000 pounds. It is a ranking county in sugar beet production. Its lemon production has an annual value approximating $600,000, while the annual English Walnut production is placed at over 3,000,000 pounds, having a value of $400,000.

PIONEER OIL PRODUCER.

This county, too, says Jordan, was one of the pioneer oil producing counties, and still produces much, as shown by the fact that in 1911 the production amounted to 375,000 barrels, valued at $225,000.

The cities and towns within the county all come in for mention, particularly the old mission town, Ventura, whose location is said to be one of the most beautiful in the state. It has an historic interest because of the first settlement made there by the Franciscan Mission Fathers. The old mission church still stands, in a good state of preservation. Attention is called to the modern improvements, new theaters, public buildings, and the recently constructed $75,000 high school.

Emphasis is placed on the building of the Mariposa-Ventura railroad, which gives an outlet to the coast for the people of the lower San Joaquin valley.

Oxnard, with its sugar beet factories producing seven to eight hundred thousand of dollars of sugar yearly, is described at some length, as is Santa Paula, the center of the great petroleum production, and the center of orange and lemon orchards.

Throughout, the article on Ventura county contains valuable statistics and descriptive matter that will undoubtedly prove of great interest to those who would know more of this great and wonderfully productive county.

ARRIVES WITH CAPTURE.

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 18.—The Canadian fisheries protection cruiser Newington arrived here yesterday with the American gasoline fishing schooner Active, 24 net tons, Captain Angell, of Tacoma, which the Newington seized last Monday a little more than a mile off Cape Cook, Vancouver island, for alleged poaching. Captain Angell and his crew of 10 men were released and proceeded to Seattle today.

BLUE AND GOLD MEMBERSHIP MEN DISPLAY RIVALRY

MRS. A. R. FORBES.

The membership contest conducted by two sections of the Young People's Christian Endeavor in connection with the Hannah Memorial United Presbyterian Church shows no signs of abatement in the enthusiasm displayed. Captain Craig, leader of the "blues," has now pulled up and gained a substantial lead over Captain Lucas' "golds." The object of the contest is to interest outsiders in the church and to bring new members to the congregation. So far the work of the competing sections has been most satisfactory.

Mrs. A. R. Forbes, a private in the ranks of the "blues" and a hard worker on their behalf, has the most individual points on either side.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Electric fans buzzing in some office buildings here, mosquitoes in New Jersey, a snowless Vermont, blue birds and robins in Virginia, apple trees budding in Maryland, outdoor baseball practice in Philadelphia and dandelion picking in many places, are reports today attesting to the unusually mild winter in the East.

Popular belief that yesterday was one of the warmest January days this city ever experienced is borne out by search of the weather records, showing that yesterday's 54 degrees is the highest the thermometer has registered for January 17 since the weather bureau was established 43 years ago.

The Hudson river is being navigated at a later date than any time since 1810, when Robert Fulton was running his steamer Car of Neptune between New York and Albany as late as January 20. It is customary to close the river for navigation on December 15.

Even in Maine most of the lakes and rivers are open, but the ice companies are still expecting two weeks of zero weather which is necessary to assure a good ice crop.

BRITISH M. D.'S TO SERVE UNDER ACT

Released From Pledges That Forbade Them Observing Insurance Law.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The British Medical Association decided today, 115 to 35, to release their doctors from pledges not to serve under the national insurance act, which provides for a monetary allowance and medical attendance to working people during sickness.

The opposition of the doctors to the scheme was based on the amount to be paid them for their services, which they declared was too small.

'EYE FOR AN EYE,' COURT'S DECISION

Boy Sentenced to Purchase Glass Optic for Playmate He Had Injured.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 18.—The biblical injunction of "an eye for an eye" was applied in a unique manner by Judge Curtis D. Wilbur in the juvenile court today when he sentenced Benedito Colora, 8-years-old, to purchase a glass eye for Luis Garcia, 3 years his senior. Benedito was arrested for destroying one of Luis' eyes with an air gun. His parents assured the court that they would gladly comply with the order.

GETS TWO-YEAR SENTENCE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—Harold Webster was sentenced to two years at hard labor in San Quentin penitentiary in Superior Judge Lawlor's court today for burglary. On September 14, he is accused of having broken into the home of Bella Grady, 27 Monroe street.

THE TRIBUNE'S ANNUAL INSPIRES MUCH PRAISE

Appreciation Expressed by Citizens of Oakland and Other Cities

BERKELEY APPRECIATIVE OF PUBLICITY IN ANNUAL

Berkeley, Cal., January 17, 1913.

EDITOR THE TRIBUNE, Oakland, Cal. Dear Sir:—

The annual edition of THE TRIBUNE is a marvelous production of the modern guild of publicity, which includes the departments of editorship, advertising and typography.

In every way this issue is admirable, being comprehensive, well arranged, convincing; and withal it is artistically printed, showing the handiwork of experts in all particulars.

Berkeley has cause to thank THE TRIBUNE for the generous recognition accorded to it in this splendid publication. Our various interests are represented adequately and in a way that must meet with the approval of those who are devoted to the welfare of this community.

Oakland's continued prosperity is a source of rejoicing with all Berkeleyans, who feel a just pride in the progress of the magnificent city which we hail as the metropolis of Alameda county. We have the honor to remain,

Respectfully,
BERKELEY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.
WELLS DRURY, Secretary.

J. F. CARLSTON, President of Central National Bank—There is nothing I could say that would praise too highly the sane, accurate and beautiful magazine that THE TRIBUNE has put out this year. It is the fullest and most comprehensive boost that could be given Oakland and something of which we can all be proud to send to our Eastern friends.

POSTMASTER PAUL SCHAFER—The boys in the postoffice have certainly noticed that Oakland has an annual number. Many bags of them have been sent to all parts of the country, not to mention those that are being sent to foreign lands. It is amply descriptive and pictorially beautiful. Our business verifies the statement made in it to the effect that Oakland has increased in population 25,000 during the past two years.

RICHMOND PLEASED.

RICHMOND, Jan. 17.—Yesterday and today there was an unprecedented rush to the agents and news stands here to obtain copies of THE OAKLAND TRIBUNE'S ANNUAL, and the demand soon got the best of the supply, whereupon more were ordered by the dealers. They "went like hot cakes."

"Did you see it?"

"That was a good sendoff they gave Richmond!"

Such expressions were heard all over the streets, and the consensus of opinion is that the Annual is about the finest thing of the kind that has ever been issued around the bay region. Major D. W. McLaughlin wanted to buy out the entire stock of one dealer, but had to be content with a dozen copies. He said they ought to be sent East by the carload. Mayor Owens wired from Sacramento to William Boone, who represents him here, to secure a good supply, and everybody seems more than pleased over the whole publication generally and because of Richmond's part in it particularly.

S. M. MARKS, Secretary Peoples Water Company—I have read THE TRIBUNE ANNUAL with not only interest, but pleasure, and find that it is a comprehensive review of local conditions. It certainly is of real value to the community.

J. J. WARNER, General Agent of Santa Fe Railroad—THE TRIBUNE ANNUAL is the best compendium of waterfront and other developments on this side of the bay that Oakland has ever had. We are sending a number of copies to our representatives throughout the country. A gentleman from England came into the office this morning with five copies that he is mailing to his friends on the other side of the Atlantic. This is a good illustration of what strangers think of the edition.

L. RICHARDSON, District Freight and Passenger Agent of Southern Pacific—The Annual is just what one would expect from THE TRIBUNE—the best exposition of the resources growth and business of Alameda county that has ever been issued. The paper does not go about things in a half-hearted way. Our company will see that it is systematically distributed.

E. J. MURPHY, member of first Board of Directors of Chamber of Commerce—It is gratifying to one who has watched this edge of the continent grow during the past years to see it all in print and story. I will send it to the heads of an Eastern firm with which I am connected, which is continually urging me to leave the wild and woolly West and move to a real city. The compiling of this Annual is a genuine move in the progress of our city.

JUDGE J. C. COBURN, of the Emeryville Improvement Association—The town of Emeryville received the greatest and most just sendoff in THE TRIBUNE ANNUAL that it has ever had. The illustrations are the finest I have ever seen in a publication of this kind and they tell the story of Emeryville's tendencies along manufacturing lines in the best possible manner. I have bought 10 copies to send to friends in the East.

WILBER WALKER, Secretary of Merchants' Exchange—This year's Annual is far better in every respect than those of preceding years. The city's advantages have been put to the fore and there has been less of the individual exploitation that is usual in numbers of this kind. There are no members of this organization that will not unite with me in saying that it will help Oakland immensely. Some cities' annuals cannot be sent out because of their local tendencies, but this one is the truthful portrayal of a great city that will go anywhere.

E. H. LOHMANN—I want to add my meed of praise in recognition of the splendid Annual edition of your great paper. The resultant benefits which will accrue from the broadcast distribution of the edition can hardly be estimated.

Simple Home Remedy for Kidneys and Bladder

A simple and easy way to cure weak, deranged kidneys or bladder is to use the following formula. Get six ounces good pure gin and add to it one-half ounce Murax Compound and one-half ounce fluid extract Buchu. Take one to two teaspoonfuls of this mixture after each meal and at bed time. Nearly all good druggists have these ingredients. Anyone can mix.

Weak kidneys or bladder should be given attention as soon as any of the well-known symptoms are noticed. Neglect in the matter is dangerous, as the serious forms, Bright's disease, chronic rheumatism or dread diabetes may develop. These can be avoided if the above simple mixture is used before complications set in.

The young woman was thrown beneath the machine and stunned. The soldiers in charge picked her up and hurried her to the Presidio general hospital, where she was given first aid, and a call was sent in to the Central Emergency hospital. VALUES LETTER AT $200 A LINE

Woman Held for 'Burglar Note' Written to S. N. Wood.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—Two thousand dollars in ten lines of handwriting, $200 a line—that was the price demanded of S. N. Wood, a wealthy merchant, by the author of a "burglar letter" which the police hold as evidence in the case of Charlotte Green, a young woman of unusual attractiveness and refinement.

Did she write the letter? Theodore Kytka, a handwriting expert, tells the police she did. They will question her further today, particularly with the desire to learn if she is the wife of J. S. Green of Los Angeles, and if she eloped from that city with Jacob Taber, whom the police also have under arrest, charged with eighteen burglaries. Her visit to Taber in the jail led to her arrest.

On the night of December 12 the Wood family was robbed of jewelry worth $10,000. The police believe Taber was the robber and the woman his envoy. Stolen goods from many other homes were found in his rooms.

GETS SIX MONTHS FOR INTERFERING

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—William Young, alias Frank, was given six months in the county jail this morning for interfering with a witness after George W. Douglass had testified that he feared for his life. Douglass was the complainant against three pickpockets arrested several weeks ago. He is a piano salesman, and when he failed to appear to testify against them his absence caused much comment. When he was finally located he told a story of being drugged and kept away from the city, and implicated Young. After the latter's sentence this morning the court warned Douglass to be on hand when wanted.

"I will if I can," responded the witness.

"Well, I have been threatened with death. I am in fear of my life. I have been told that I will wake up some morning to find myself dead, and it is not a pleasant feeling."
